GENERAL.

REPORT ON THE GOVERNMENT AGRI-HORTICULTURAL GARDENS, LAHORE, FOR THE YEAR ENDING 31st MARCH 1903.

THE following report and remarks by the Lieutenant-Governor thereon are published for information :—

No. 48 A.-H. G., dated Lahore, 1st June 1903.

From— W. C. RENOUF, Esquire, C. S., President, Government Agri-Horticultural Gardens, Lahore,
To—The Revenue and Financial Secretary to Government, Punjab.

I HAVE the honour to submit the Annual Report on the Government Agri-Horticultural Gardens, Lahore, for the year ending 31st March 1903.

Income.

2. The income of the year under report was estimated at Rs. 14,500 and the actual income was Rs. 16,975-14-4 as against Rs. 15,566-12-6 in the previous year. The sale of garden produce, &c., realized Rs. 13,905-3-4 as against Rs. 13,014-12-6 in the previous year.

Expenditure.

3. The total expenditure was Rs. 24,375-11-2 and the excess expenditure over income was therefore Rs. 7,399-12-10, which was met from the annual grant of Rs. 9,000, which is contributed by Government for the maintenance of the garden. It should, however, be stated here that in the total of expenditure given above is included the sum of Rs. 1,163-2-0 on account of pay, allowances, &c., of Mr. O. T. Hemsley as Assistant Superintendent for five months. The cost of maintaining the Botanical section of the garden, which yields no income, amounted to Rs. 659-12-9 as against Rs. 656-5-2 in the previous year.

Comparison of Treasury Accounts.

4. The figures relating to the income and expenditure of the Government Agri-Horticultural Gardens have been checked by the Accountant-General, Punjab, and found correct.

Improvements.

5. The levelling and re-grassing of the the strip of land inside the fencing along the Mall from the Municipal Jallar to the entrance gate of the Lawrence Hall has been completed, and the remaining strip from the Jallar to the gate opposite the Punjab Club will now be taken in hand.

Experiments.

6. The reclaimed kalar land was sown with various fodder crops. The hot weather crop realized Rs 12-8-0. The cold weather crop was not sold but given as fodder to the garden bullocks.

Cotton.

7. Two varieties of cotton were sown. Abassi (an Egyptian variety) gave an average outturn per acre of 193 lbs. of cotton and 386 lbs. of seed. The other variety, Garoo Hills, gave only an average outturn per acre of 51⅔ lbs. of cotton and 130 lbs. of seed. In accordance with order passed on the last report experiments with Egyptian cotton will now cease.

Wheats.

8. Palestine wheat gave an average outturn per acre of 1,881½ lbs. Twenty-four kinds of South Australian wheats were sown and gave an average outturn per acre of 1,141⅓ lbs. Eight ounces each were received and sown of four other varieties. The quantities received were too small to give a true average outturn per acre. The estimated average is given below :—

	lbs.
Muzaffarnagar	2,638⅖
Sinohi	2,017⅗
American	2,172⅘
Desi	1,086⅗

American corn.

9. The yearly outturns of American corn varies very much, varieties which do well one year give a poor result the following year, and vice versâ, as will be seen from the comparative statement of the average outturn per acre as given below :—

	1901-02.	1902-03.
	lbs.	lbs.
White field	1,493⅘	1,293
Smedley	1,018	2,101½
Yellow field	2,062$\frac{1}{7}$	630
White smooth	1,580¾	2,586
Mammoth	717⅘	1,345
Chester, country	523⅘	2,069

These varieties, as well as those below, have now been removed to the Lyallpur Experimental Farm, where experiments will be continued with them. The Chester, country, and Mammoth varieties were received in 1896, and the others at a more remote date, so that all are now well acclimatised. A drawback to those kinds of maize is that the best results have hitherto been obtained with sowings in early April, at a time when land is not clear of the main rabi crops.

The Muzaffarnagar and other wheat experiment will also be continued at Lyallpur. It is particularly desirable to give Muzaffarnagar wheat a thorough test, as it is considered by experters to be the best wheat in northern India. It did well at Lahore this year, but exact figures of outturn are not ready.

Too much of the Superintendent's time should not be occupied with experiments in agriculture, and now that there is an Experimental Farm at Lyallpur, it is unnecessary to trouble him. It will, however, be occasionally useful to try check experiments at Lahore.

Jaunpur acclimatised maize.

10. There was a trifling difference in the outturn of this variety compared with the previous year, the average outturn per acre is as given below:—

1901-02.	1902-03.
lbs.	lbs.
$1,086\frac{2}{5}$	1,067

Cawnpore acclimatised maize

11. This variety showed a marked improvement in outturn giving an average outturn per acre of 1,474 lbs. as against 994 lbs. in the previous year.

Christian Herald variety of maize.

12. The variety of American corn received from the Christian Herald Famine Relief Fund shows a vast improvement, the average outturn being 1,319 lbs. for the year under report against $155\frac{1}{5}$ lbs. in the previous year.

Sugarcane.

13. No further experiments were made in extracting gur or making sugar. The crop was sold standing, realizing Rs. 83. Sufficient canes of each variety were reserved for planting or distribution should any demand arise.

Cassava.

14. Some cassava cuttings were received by the Director of Agriculture from Jamaica in the beginning of September 1902. These were planted in the Director's office compound and throve fairly well until the severe cold set in when most of them commenced to dry up, leaving only the upper halves of the shoots green. These have been made into cuttings and planted in the hope that some may succeed, but this is very doubtful, as the small tubers which had formed were found to have rotted. I do not think cassava is likely to succeed in Lahore, as this plant cannot stand any cold.

Agricultural seeds.

15. The total quantities of agricultural seeds harvested during the year under report are as follows:—

	lbs.
American corn	1,633
Jowar	240
Wheat, Palestine	128
Wheat, South Australian	1,059
Wheat, Muzaffarnagar	17
Wheat, Sindhi	13
Wheat, American	14
Wheat, Desi	7
Oats	626
Barley	$283\frac{1}{2}$

Planting.

16. The following is a list of trees, shrubs, &c., which have been planted out during the year under report to replace those which have died or have become too old to bear:—

Fruit trees	339
Ornamental trees	73
Shrubs	34
Rose trees	70

Flowers.

17. The display of winter annuals was an improvement on that of the previous year, although somewhat late, owing to the very variable and low temperature in March. Roses were very late in coming into bloom.

Chrysanthemums.

18. Chrysanthemums, although fairly good, were not as perfect in shape as they should have been. This was mainly due to very hot and dry weather when the flower buds commenced to show colour. Forty new varieties have been added to the list. Six thousand one hundred and forty-two plants were sold, realizing Rs. 918-11-0. By the sale of cut Chrysanthemum flowers Rs. 73-8-0 were realized. This is much below the sale of the previous year. Owing to the Coronation Darbar there was not the usual demand for cut Chrysanthemums in Calcutta. Four hundred and thirty large Chrysanthemum plants valued at Rs. 190-15-6 were issued free in exchange to other gardens.

Other ornamental flowers.

19. Early in April last there was a very fine display of Gloxinius in the new Conservatory. There were at one time forty-four of these handsome tuberous plants in bloom, some plants having as many as twenty flowers open at the one time.

The two Magnolia trees bloomed profusely as also the Jacaranda Mimosifolia. Petunias were again very fine, whilst Cinnerarias surpassed in size and colouring all previous years.

Phœnix rupicola.

20. A fair crop of seed was obtained from this handsome dwarf palm. The seeds collected in the previous year germinated well.

Flower Shows.

21. Two flower shows were held during the year under report. The Chrysanthemum show was held on the 28th November 1902 and was an improvement on the one held in the previous year. The Rambágh Garden at Amritsar exhibited some very fine cut flowers.

The flower and vegetable show was held on the 27th March 1903. Vegetables and fruits, particularly the latter, were poor. The flower exhibits were good, but table decorations, ornamental plants and cut roses left much to be desired.

Seed collected.

22. The crop of seed of ornamental trees, shrubs, vegetables and palms was good, with the exception of the crop of pea seed which was again below the average.

The quantities of seed of all descriptions collected during the year under report were as below:—

	lbs.
Ornamental tree seed	210
Timber tree seed	2,460
Shrub and climber	40
Palm	210
Vegetable seed	31·10
Flower seed	28·9
Pea	397

Nurseries.

23. The cold season having been milder than usual and the canal water-supply having been better than in the previous year, the nurseries will be much better stocked for the ensuing cold season than they were during the cold weather of the year under report. The following is a list of the fruit trees which have died:—

Loqaot, grafted	...	...	45
Mango ,,	...	...	38
Orange, Malta	...	...	6
Peach ...	...	...	20
Pear ...	...	...	12
Plum ...	...	...	51

Fruit.

24. The whole of the fruit crop for the year under report, with the exception of the mangoes, part of the vinery and a few peach trees were sold for Rs. 1,650, but as the fruit crop for the year under report fell far below expectations, (due to very unfavourable spring weather and scarcity of canal water in the spring), Rs. 750 were remitted from the Contractor by the President of the Garden Committee The reserved fruit trees realized by private sales Rs. 27 only.

Pears.

25. The two varieties of pears, Laconte and Heifer, mentioned in previous year's report did not improve in quality although they had been heavily manured. The bloom, however, is much more profuse than it has been hitherto.

Grafted mangoes.

26. The cold season of the year under report was more favourable to mango trees than that of the previous year and, as they are showing good bloom, it is expected that the mango crop will be a good one for the ensuing year.

Peaches and Apricots.

27. The crop for the year under report was poor in quantity and quality, but there is promise of a good crop for the ensuing year.

Japan plums.

28. The Japan plums improve yearly in their blooming and give promise of a good crop for the ensuing year.

Oranges.

29. The crop of Oranges was small, but the fruit was of good flavour.

Grape vines.

30. The crop of grapes was very small, in fact less than it ever has been.

Date trees.

31. Of the three Date trees which remained alive out of those imported in 1886 none have as yet fruited. From these trees, 24 offsets (8 of each) have been taken and planted out. The two sunrising plants of those imported in 1894 continue to do well. There was no fruit on the Mooltan and Dera Gházi Khan varieties of Date tree.

Agave regidi var sisaluna.

32. This fibre-producing plant again suffered a good deal during the cold weather of the year under report. Nearly all the offsets planted in the open ground perished, whilst those planted in pots continued to make growth. The leaves and flowering stems of the old plants were very much damaged by frost. Lahore is too far north to suit this variety of Agave.

Camphora officinalis.

33. The Camphora officinalis did not seed as well during the year under report as it did in the previous year. But a good crop may be expected in the ensuing year as the tree came into very profuse bloom.

Contributions.

34. Contributions were received from the Royal Botanical Garden, Calcutta, Agri-Horticultural Society, Calcutta, Government Botanical Gardens, Saharanpore, and Government Horticultural Garden, Lucknow.

Superintendent's tour.

35. The Superintendent did not make his usual annual tour during the year under report owing to press of work in connection with the Coronation Darbar at Delhi.

Conclusion.

36. The Garden roads, which were formerly under the care of the Municipal Committee, have recently been hadded over to the Garden Committee, the Municipal Committee contributing a lump sum of Rs. 1,000 per annum towards their upkeep and extension. The Garden Committee are now preparing a scheme for the extension and improvement of these roads.

In January of this year the executive control of the Garden passed from the President to an Honorary Secretary. Formerly the executive control rested with President, who was however seriously handicapped in this matter, owing to his unavoidable absence from Lahore for the greater part of the year. The present arrangement should ensure constant personal supervision. At the same time, a Vice-President has been appointed, Sub-Committees have been formed for various purposes, and the Committee itself holds monthly meetings which are well attended. All this should augur well for the future development of the Garden. Thanks are due to Lieutenant-Colonel Grant, the Honorary Secrerary up to March 31st, as well as to the members of the Committee, for the close attention which they have given to garden matters.

Lieutenant-Colonel Grant, I. M. S., has been succeeded as Honorary Secretary, on his transfer, by Major Braide, I. M. S.

Mr. Hemsley, who joined the Garden as Assistant Superintendent on October 1st, 1902, took over charge from Mr. Hein of the post of Superintendent, on April 1st, 1903. Mr. Hein's long and good service was acknowledged in the last Report.

GENERAL.

REVIEW OF THE REPORT OF THE SANITARY ADMINISTRATION OF THE PUNJAB AND THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE SANITARY BOARD FOR THE YEAR 1902.

Proceedings of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab in the Home (Medical and Sanitary) Department, No. 666 A. S., dated 30th June 1903.

READ—

The Report of the Sanitary Administration of the Punjab and the Proceedings of the Sanitary Board for the year 1902 by Lieutenant-Colonel C. J. Bamber, I.M.S., Sanitary Commissioner, Punjab, and the Report on Sanitary Works for 1902 by Mr. C. E. V. Goument, A.M.I.C.E., Officiating Sanitary Engineer, Punjab.

REMARKS.—The striking feature of the statistics incorporated in the Sanitary Commissioner's Report for 1902 is the remarkable effect of plague on the Provincial death-rate. Except for plague the year was a fairly healthy one. The Province remained practically free from cholera, to which only 371 deaths were due. Small-pox outbreaks of any severity were confined to the limits of restricted localities, and, though the Provincial death-rate from this disease increased, small-pox carried off only 11,629 persons in all: the value of vaccination as a prophylactic measure is fully apparent from the gratifying figures set forth in paragraph 30 of the Sanitary Commissioner's Report, and the necessity for it from the unsatisfactory record in paragraph 29. The year was a favourable one for fevers, and the total fever mortality amounted only to 473,352 persons (including a number of deaths from cerebro-spinal fever) as compared with 508,035 in the previous year; the facilities for placing quinine within the reach of the people were improved by the transfer of the arrangements to the Post Office, though good opportunities did not offer for experiments in the destruction of mosquitoes and other measures intended for the prevention of malaria. In comparison with 1901 there was a considerable fall in the number of deaths recorded from dysentery and diarrhœa, and there is no reason to believe that respiratory diseases were more fatal. The number, however, of plague deaths, according to the Sanitary Commissioner's figures, rose from 14,959 in 1901 to 171,302 in 1902, and it is this increase alone which accounts for the rise of the Provincial death-rate to 44·11 per mille from 36·13 per mille in 1901 and a mean death-rate during the past five years of 33·71 per mille. The Provincial mortality rate from plague was 8·5 per mille, and so important a factor was this disease in 1902 that it accounted for the enormous death-rate in Ludhiána (103·9 per mille), Siálkot (66·7 per mille), and Ambala (66·6 per mille). The last two rates are, it is true, surpassed by some recorded in 1900, when famine, fever and cholera combined to furnish rates like 96·4 per mille in Hissar, 86·8 per mille in Ferozepore, and 73·7 in Karnál. But a record of 103·9 per mille for a district is probably unprecedented, and considered with the total death-rates of individual towns which suffered from plague, such as Khanna 177 per mille, Jagraon 153 per mille, Jámke 143 per mille, Ráekot 137 per mille, Máchiwára 133 per mille, and Rúpar 112 per mille, it affords striking evidence of the terrible effects of plague and the imperative necessity of adopting every means possible for checking its ravages.

2. It is to be noted that at present two sets of statistics for plague are compiled, one by the Sanitary Commissioner and the other by the Chief Plague Medical Officer. The former depends on the ordinary reporting agency of chaukídárs; the latter derives his figures from reports specially submitted by Patwárís. An examination of the two sets of statistics discloses discrepancies with regard to the Provincial totals for different months and the annual totals for different districts. With regard to the former discrepancies, however, the Chief Plague Medical Officer has recorded a note that they "are chiefly accounted for by the circumstance that the reporting of deaths by chaukídárs is not as prompt as the reporting by Patwárís, and that therefore the mortality statistics recorded by these two agencies do not refer to exactly the same periods. This will be made clear by a reference to the figures for March and April, thus—

	March.	April.	Total.
Sanitary Commissioner ...	47,956	52,956	100,912
Chief Plague Medical Officer...	51,945	48,840	100,785
Difference (Chief Plague Medical Officer),	+ 3,989	− 4,116	− 127

It will be seen that in spite of very considerable differences for the separate months, the total figures for the two months differ by only 127." Considering the probable future conditions of plague administration in the Punjab, delay in bringing deaths upon the record is of little practical importance, except in so far as it may render difficult the comparison of monthly figures with the figures for previous months compiled by the Chief Plague Medical Officer. With regard to the differences in annual totals for different districts, it is to be noted that, according to the returns of the Sanitary Commissioner and the Chief Plague Medical Officer taken together, there were during 1902 plague deaths in 23 districts in all. But of these districts, 5, with 19 deaths, do not appear in the Chief Plague Medical Officer's returns and 1, with 1 death, does not appear in the Sanitary Commissioner's returns. In districts with such few deaths as are here in question local enquiry can readily be made for the verification of plague deaths reported by chaukídárs, and necessary corrections can be made in the Sanitary Commissioner's figures. Seventeen districts appear in both sets of returns, and with regard to 15 of these the Chief Plague Medical Officer's figures are greater than those of the Sanitary Commissioner, while with regard to 2 they are less. The percentage by which the Chief Plague Medical Officer's figures are greater is largest in the cases of districts which were only slightly infected and in no one of which was the total number of deaths according to the Chief Plague Medical Officer more than 250 in the year. In the 10 more severely infected districts, if the amount of difference between the two sets of figures is expressed as a percentage of the Sanitary Commissioner's totals, the Chief Plague Medical Officer's figures are found to be less than the Sanitary Commissioner's by 15·8 per cent. (= 1,615) and 10·5 per cent. (= 1,542) in Lahore and Gurdáspur respectively, and greater in the other 5 districts by from 1·1 per cent. (= 550 in Ludhiána) to 10·4 per cent. (= 2,944 in Siálkot), and 14·6 per cent. (= 555 in Gujránwála). The 10 worst infected districts appear by the Sanitary Commissioner's figures in the same order as regards severity of infection as they do by the Chief Plague Medical Officer's figures, and practically the same percentage of the total number of deaths that occurred in these 10 districts is ascribed to each by both sets of statistics. In their totals for the Province both sets agree fairly well, for the Sanitary Commissioner records in all 171,302 deaths and the the Chief Plague Medical Officer records 175,645, or 2·5 per cent. more. Neither set of statistics can claim to be quite accurate, and the reports of cases which are made by Patwáris are even more untrustworthy than their reports of deaths. Both sets of statistics are vitiated by the fact that deaths from other causes, chiefly fever, are often recorded as plague deaths, and that deaths from plague are not uncommonly ascribed to other causes. But it is clear that the Sanitary Commissioner's figures are accurate enough for all practical purposes, except in slightly infected places, where all plague statistics are pecularly liable to error and where special arrangements to collect correct information can be made. In the circumstances it is a matter for consideration whether we should not depend for plague statistics ordinarily on the chaukídár and relieve the Patwári of the extra burden which their reporting has cast upon him.

3 Other matters connected with plague will be dealt with separately, but the remarkable fact may be noticed here that in the Punjab the larger towns have hitherto escaped severe outbreaks. This fact is brought out both by the statistics compiled by the Sanitary Commissioner and also by those compiled by the Chief Plague Medical Officer. Taking the Sanitary Commissioner's figures as approximately correct, we find that while 155,449 deaths from plague occurred in rural areas, giving a death-rate of 8·5 per mille on the rural popoulation, only 15,853 deaths occurred in towns, giving a death-rate from plague of 7·97 per mille of the urban population of the Province. During the year plague deaths were recorded in 75 towns, and in 27 of these, or 36 per cent. (including 3 of the largest towns in question, viz. Delhi and Mooltan, in which the infection did not take root, and Lahore, which was regularly infected), the plague death-rate was under 1 per mille of the population; in 7 towns, or 9·3 per cent. (including Amritsar), it was between 1 and 5 per mille; and also in 9 towns (including Siálkot and Jullundur) it was between 10 and 20 per mille. The highest urban plague death-rates were recorded in small towns, viz.. 140 per mille in Khanna (population 3,838), 115 per mille in Jámke (population 4,216), 111 per mille in Jagraon (population 18,760), 98·6 per mille in Máchiwára (population 5,588), 92·9 per mille in Ráekot (population 10,131), and 90·46 in Rúpar (population 8,888). There were in all 34 towns with a death-rate from plague of over 10 per mille, but of these none had 50,000 inhabitants except Ludhiána, and only 3 had between 20,000 and 30,000, while 7 had between 10,000 and 20,000, 15 between 5,000 and 10,000, and 8 under 5,000.

4. The large increase, 8·4 per 1,000, in the birth-rate compared with that for 1901 is noteworthy, although comparison is being made with a year in which the conditions were unfavourable to a high birth-rate. The Sanitary Commissioner, in paragraph 2 of his report for 1901, accounted for the low birth-rate of that year by saying that "owing principally to the extreme unhealthiness of the last four months of 1900 there were fewer conceptions in that period, and consequently there was a smaller number of births registered in the year 1901." This theory, although generally accepted, is not fully borne out by the record of 1902, for a rise in the birth-rate for 1902 took place in every district in the Province including Ludhiána which suffered so terribly from plague. Much of the sickness which accounts for the abnormally high death-rates in Ludhiána, Siálkot, Ambala, Jullundur, Gurdáspur, Lahore, and Hoshiárpur must have occurred in the early part of the year 1902, but still it had no appreciable effect on births.

5. The results of the Sanitary Commissioner's investigation as to the extraordinary fluctuations of birth-rates are interesting. The calculation, however, of rates during an inter-censal period upon the figures of the last census would not very materially affect the question for two or three years after the census. Yet we find the fluctuations in 1901 and 1902 very considerable indeed, and even if we allow that widespread sickness, such as an epidemic of malarial fever, does affect the rate to perhaps the greatest degree, still defective registration must be held to play almost an equal part in fluctuating records.

6. In the second part of paragraph 15 of his Report the Sanitary Commissioner has set forth figures indicating an abnormally high death-rate in 1902 among women between the ages of 10 and 15. These figures are of interest, but will be more so in considering how the birth-rate of 1903 is affected. If, indeed, the Sanitary Commissioner has any good grounds for assigning, even as a probability, the high death-rate in question to the injurious effects of premature maternity, the statistics would disclose a very sad state of things. It, however, appears more probable that the extraordinary female mortality in the age period mentioned is accounted for by plague rather than by the reason put forward by Lieutenant-Colonel Bamber.

7. The Lieutenant-Governor has considered the special report on the death-rates of Hindús and Muhammadans in different districts, to which the Sanitary Commissioner refers in paragraph 17 of his Report. His Honour thinks that the true explanation of the figures has not yet been found, and has requested the Sanitary Commissioner to keep the matter under his observation for further report in case any convincing explanation is forthcoming hereafter.

8. Defective registration has already been touched upon, but it is satisfactory to note that the efforts to ensure correct registration of vital statistics are as effective as it is possible to make them, under present conditions, by means of inspection. There is one point, however, which calls for remark in this connection. There are several inspection agencies at work, viz, Civil Surgeons, Revenue officers, Divisional Inspectors, and Vaccinators, but to judge from the statistics available there is no guarantee that one locality is not visited more than once by more than one of these agencies, while other localities are left uninspected by them all. This matter was referred to in the Lieutenant-Governor's Review of the Reports for 1898 and 1899, and should be noticed by the Sanitary Commissioner in future reports.

9. The Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to notice that some attention was paid to the improvement of wells and sanitary conditions in villages, and he remarks that a satisfactory record of work done by the Sanitary Board is appended to the Sanitary Commissioner's Report. Under the advice of the Sanitary Engineer considerable improvements are being effected in the water-supply and sanitation of several large towns of the Province. It may be noted that His Honour has not been able as yet to place funds at the disposal of the Sanitary Board for the assistance of Local Bodies in carrying out sanitary works except by way of loan, but he trusts that an improvement in the financial position of the Province will permit of grants-in-aid being made in the future.

10. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to record his thanks to Lieutenant-Colonel Bamber, I.M.S., and Mr. Goument for the good work done by them as Sanitary Commissioner and Sanitary Engineer respectively, and for the Reports they have submitted.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the foregoing Remarks be circulated with the Report and furnished with the usual number of copies of the Report to the Government of India; also that the Review be published in the Punjab Government Gazette.

Ordered also, that a copy be forwarded to the Sanitary Commissioner, Punjab, for information and guidance with reference to paragraph 7.

GENERAL.

REVIEW OF THE REPORT ON THE WORKING OF THE FACTORIES ACT DURING THE YEAR 1902.

Report on the working of the Factories Act during the year 1902

DURING the year under report there were in the Punjab 166 Government and private factories worked wholly or partly by steam power. Nineteen new factories (of which 8 are in the Jhang District) were brought on to the register and 7 were struck off for having stopped work. Two of the working factories are said to be in liquidation.

2. Inspections.—Of the factories which were working during the year all but 9 were inspected. Forty were inspected once, 54 twice, 36 three times, and 27 more than three times. Two were in liquidation and 7 ceased to work. With reference to the remarks contained in paragraph 2 of the Report on the working of the Factories Act in the Punjab during the year 1901 His Honour has again noticed with regret that the orders regarding inspections by Magistrates have not been acted upon in the Montgomery and Ráwalpindi Districts where the factories continue to be inspected by Civil Surgeons only.

3. Holidays—The provisions of Section 5 B of the Factories Act in respect of a weekly holiday to the operatives employed in factories were carefully enforced by District Magistrates, throughout the Province.

4. Sanitary condition and sanitary arrangements.—The sanitary condition and sanitary arrangements of the factories in the Province during the year under report were on the whole satisfactory; the most noticeable exceptions were the Palwal Factory in the Gurgaon District, the factory at Muzaffargarh, and some factories in the Karnál, Gujránwála, Mooltan and Amritsar Districts. The District Magistrates concerned have taken steps to have the defects noted by the inspecting officers remedied. It is satisfactory that the insanitary condition of certain factories in the Mooltan District noticed in the last year's report has since been improved, but a good deal still remains to be done. Minor defects in the matter of sanitation, ventilation, &c, were, as a rule, promptly remedied throughout the Province by the managers of factories concerned. Water-supply arrangements for drinking water for the operatives were generally satisfactory; in a few cases where the arrangements were open to serious objection, as in the Biláli Steam Press in the Ambala District, the attention of the manager has been drawn to the matter.

5. General health of operatives.—The health of the operatives has been generally good throughout the year. With reference to the remarks in paragraph 5 of the report for last year the District Magistrate of Jhang has reported that there is no excessive vibration in the factories of his district, and it seems that the defect has been remedied. A similar complaint comes from the Hissar District where the District Magistrate remarks that the atmosphere and the vibration of the machinery in the cotton ginning factories are very trying and prejudicial to the health of the women and children employed in them. The District Magistrate will be asked to report further on the matter.

There was overcrowding in the signalling equipment branch workshop of the Ferozepore Arsenal, but the District Magistrate has brought this to the notice of the Arsenal authorities, and it is hoped that the defect will be removed and that in next year's report District Magistrates concerned will furnish information as to whether in accordance with Rule 16 of the Rules under Section 18 (1) of the Indian Factories Act, published with Punjab Government Notification No. 969, dated 22nd October 1892, sufficient space is provided for each person employed in the factories within their respective districts.

6. Wages and general condition of operatives.—The general condition of operatives is reported to be fairly good on the whole and there have been no complaints of any kind. Annexed Statement No. III, prescribed by the Government of India, Home Department, in their letter No. 1901, dated 31st December 1902, contains a table of wages of different classes of skilled and unskilled labour in the more important classes of factories.

7. Employment of women and children—Two thousand and fifty-two women and 768 chidren were employed in the factories throughout the Province during the year under report. The provisions of the Factories Act in respect of the employment of women and children do not seem to have been complied with in certain factories in the Karnál, Rohtak, Hissar, Muzaffargarh, Amritsar and Lahore Districts, and the managers of the defaulting factories have been warned. In the Hissar District the managers of two factories were prosecuted for a breach of the rules. In certain private factories in the Lahore District children are reported to have been allowed to work near working machines contrary to rules, and in one case in the Mela Rám Cotton Mills the result of this was a minor accident. It is satisfactory that notices of hours of labour and intervals of rest were hung up in almost all the factories, as required by Section 10 (1) of the Act; the most noticeable exceptions were certain factories in the Karnál and Mooltan Districts and the factory at Muzaffargarh; the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that District Magistrates will see to the strict observance of the rules prescribed in this behalf. Again this year very little information has been furnished in the District reports regarding the work of the certifying Surgeons as to the ages of children employed in factories.

8. Fencing of machinery and mill-gearing.—The machinery in most of the factories in the Province is reported to be properly fenced and guarded. In some factories in the Amritsar District and two factories in Mooltan arrangements are not satisfactory. The defects pointed out by the inspecting officers in the machinery of certain factories in the Karnál and Jullundur Districts have been remedied. In the Jhang District the District Magistrate has directed the managers concerned to at once remove the defects in the dangerous parts of the machinery.

9. Prosecutions.—There were two prosecutions during the year under report, under Section 15 (1) of the Factories Act. These prosecutions were both in the Hissar District, and resulted in convictions, the accused being fined in both cases.

10. Accidents.—There were 157 accidents during 1902 as compared with 115 in the preceding year, and this increase is due to a great extent to the employment of inexperienced hands. It is probable that minor accidents are not fully reported.

Details of the fatal accidents are given below :—

(1). A boy aged 16 years, employed in the Sambhalka Ginning Factory in the Karnál District, was caught in the belting and was instantaneously killed. The Magistrate deputed to enquire into the cause of the accident was unable to ascertain why the deceased went into the shafting pit, but was of opinion that the belt of the gin on which the boy was working had broken and the gin suddenly stopped, and that the boy, who went to find out the cause was caught in the belt, the engine being still in motion.

(2). In a private Ginning Factory at Hánsi in the Hissar District the right hand of a labourer aged 15, was caught between the roller and the fixed iron piece of the machine on which he was working and almost reduced to pulp. He died in hospital after six days. The accident could not be fairly charged to the management, but the Manager is being prosecuted for not sending a notice of the accident.

(3). In the North-Western Railway Workshops, on 4th November 1902 a workman was polishing a piece of iron on a large emery-coated wheel which revolved rapidly. While he was working at the wheel a small tear was made in the leather surface of the rim of the wheel from which the emery was largely worn off, and the iron which was being polished catching in the tear was wrenched from the workman's hand, and striking him on the forehead, caused a fracture of the skull. Enquiry proved that this accident was caused by carelessness on the part of the deceased.

(4) (5) (6). In the Amritsar Cotton Mills a coolie was killed by the breaking of a pillar on which he was standing; in the Sant Rám Tirath Factory a coolie met his death in adjusting a belt which it was not his business to do; and in the Tek Singh Khem Singh Factory a workman fell through a trap-door on to a fly wheel, got entangled in the machinery, and died three days later. Full particulars of the causes of these accidents have not been furnished, and the District Magistrate of Amritsar will be called upon to submit a further report.

(7). A workman aged 20 was severely wounded in the Dháriwál Woollen Mills on 16th April 1902 and died two days after the occurrence. He was working on a loom when the driving belt slipped off and wound itself round the mill-shaft. While trying to free it his hand was caught in one of the folds of the belt, and he was swung round the shaft, which was still revolving, sustaining a dislocation of the left shoulder joint with a fracture of three ribs and other injuries. This was due to the man's carelessness in acting in defiance to all orders, and the Manager asserts that no possible precautions can prevent such occurrences.

11. General.—The proposal mentioned in paragraph 11 of the last year's report, to substitute for the fencing of ring frames and similar machines in factories, an arrangement by which slanting boards of wood or sheet iron would be placed under the machines for preventing the accumulation of bobbins or waste and blocking the way to any person attempting to get under the machines, has been dropped.

During the year it was remarked in several cotton factories that there were no satisfactory arrangements for fire protection. A fire which occurred in a Bhiwáni factory on the 1st of January 1903 and resulted in the loss of 9 lives brought the matter prominently to notice. The question of generally insisting on adequate precautions for preventing and dealing with fires is now under the consideration of Government.

The question of extending (Act II of 1902), an Act to provide for the inspection of Steam Boilers and Prime Movers to particular places where Steam Boilers and Prime Movers are to be found is under consideration. The extension of this Act will remove the existing complaint that most of the factories in the Province are in charge of mere Mistrís, and not professional Engineers.

The cold weather rains.—The weather was somewhat more unsettled than usual over the Punjab during October, but with November the weather cleared and remained fine during that and the succeeding month. During January the weather became slightly unsettled. On the 6th a slight storm was shown over North Bombay and light showers occurred at Delhi, Ambala and Simla. Between the 23rd and the 27th a storm advanced over the Punjab from the westward and rain was received at all the plains stations and snow on the hills. This was succeeded by two days of fine weather, but, on the 30th, another storm appeared and further showers were experienced over a large part of the province. The weather was thus fine and practically rainless from the beginning of November up to the 23rd of January. The total rainfall of January slightly exceeded the average at Hissar, Ambala, Simla, Dharmsala, Hoshiarpur, Jullundur, Ludhiana and Murree and was less than usual elsewhere. The deficiency exceeded 1·00″ in parts of the Lahore and Rawalpindi Divisions. Three periods of feeble disturbance, occasioning a few light scattered showers, occurred over the Punjab during February, but the weather was fine and dry over the greater part of the province during most of the month. The total rainfall was hence everywhere in defect and over a large number of districts no rain whatever was received. The deficiency exceeded 1·00″ in parts of the Delhi, Jullundur, Lahore and Rawalpindi Divisions. In March the weather changed and was exceedingly unsettled throughout the month. Storms entered North-west India from the westward at frequent intervals, during the month, the chief periods of disturbance and of rainfall having been the 1st to the 6th, the 10th to the 13th, the 18th to the 24th and the 29th to the 31st. The total rainfall of the month was slightly below the normal at all the stations in the Delhi Division except Simla and Kilba, but was excessive at all stations in the Jullundur, Lahore, Rawalpindi and Mooltan Divisions, the excess being as much as 3·19″ at Gurdaspur, 2·26″ at Gujranwala, and 2·05″ at Ferozepore. On the hills the variation was even larger amounting to +7·55″ at Kilba, + 4·05″ at Dharmsala, and + 3·15″ at Murree.

Notwithstanding this heavy rainfall in March the cold weather rains of 1902-03 were, owing to the deficiency of rain in December, January and February, lighter than usual at all stations except Hoshiarpur (+0·16″), Ferozepore (+0·38″) and Murree (+2·66″). The total deficiency was greatest in the Rawalpindi Division where it amounted to 3·01″ at Jhelum, 2·25″ at Attock, 2·63″ at Rawalpindi, and 1·89″ at Gujrat. It was, however, more than 1·00″ all over the Delhi Division as well as at the stations of Lahore, Sialkot and Mianwali.

The following table gives comparative rainfall data for the cold-weather rains :—

MONTHLY SUMMARY.

April 1902.—From the 1st to the 7th the weather was hotter than usual over the Punjab, the mean excess of temperature having been as much as 9°·5 on the 6th. This hot weather preceded the appearance of a slight depression which formed on the 7th and occasioned light to moderate general rain over the hill and submontane regions. Fine weather, with occasional local thundershowers, prevailed till the 24th with generally low temperatures. Between the 24th and 27th a depression appeared over the south-west Punjab occasioning showers over the hill and submontane districts. These showers lowered temperature, which on the 26th and 27th was between 6°·3 and 7°·2 below the normal. The highest temperature recorded was 108°·4 at Mooltan on the 30th.

May 1902.—Hotter weather than usual prevailed over the Punjab from the 1st to the 10th, the mean temperature having been as much as 9°·1 above the average on the 10th. On the 14th a storm which had advanced from the Sind coast lay over the central Punjab and rain was experienced. The mean temperature of the Province fell as much as 13°·3 between the 10th and 11th and from the latter date to the 18th the heat was less than usual over the Punjab. On the 15th the deficiency was as much as 10°. On the 19th the mean temperature rose above the average and so continued until the 26th, the mean excess being as much as 7° on the 23rd. After the 26th thundershowers occurred and the temperature was unsteady till the close of the month. The highest temperature was 117° recorded at Mooltan on the 7th and 31st.

June 1902.—Showers were received over the Punjab on the 10th and 12th and the mean temperature was below the normal on these days. With these exceptions the heat was greater than usual from the 1st to the 18th. On the 19th monsoon influences were felt and on the 20th the monsoon rains broke over the Punjab and, though not heavy reduced temperature to very largely below the normal. The coolest days were the 21s (—11°·5), the 22nd (—13°·1), the 23rd (—10°·7) and the 24th (—12°5.) The highest temperature recorded during the month was 118°·9 at Khushab.

July 1902.—Easterly winds and showery weather prevailed over the Punjab from the 3rd to the 11th, during which period the mean temperature of the province was below the normal, the deficiency being as much as 7°·1 on the 7th. On the 12th the heat was greater than usual and excessive temperatures prevailed more or less continuously until the 26th, the hottest day relatively to the normal having been the 13th. Moderately heavy local showers were occasioned by duststorms and thunderstorms on the 27th, and between the 27th and 29th cool weather prevailed. The highest temperature recorded during the month was 112°·0 at Montgomery.

August 1902.—The monsoon rainfall was light during August. General showers occurred on the 1st and temperature, between the 1st and 3rd, was reduced to below the normal. From the 4th to 11th and from the 16th to the 24th the weather was generally fine and the heat excessive. On the 24th a shallow storm entered the Punjab and, occasioning moderately heavy showers in places, brought about a slight fall of temperature, and the heat from the 25th to the end of the month was generally normal or below the normal.

September 1902.—The heat was greater than usual over the Punjab from the 2nd to the 12th. A showery period commenced about the middle of the month and cool weather was experienced from the 13th to the 27th, the coolest days having been the 17th and 18th. The highest temperature recorded during the month was 109°·4 at Mooltan on the 12th.

October 1902.—The weather was unsettled and disturbed over the hill and sub-montane districts of the Punjab during October. The mean temperature of the province exceeded the normal from the 1st to the 18th. From the 18th to the 25th a showery period prevailed and the mean temperature was generally low until the 27th after which the heat relatively to the normal increased and on the 30th and 31st the mean temperature was about 3° above the normal.

November 1902.—The weather was generally fine and clear throughout the month over the Punjab plains, but was occasionally showery and unsettled over the mountain area. All over the east, centre and west of the Punjab the weather was rainless throughout the month and the mean temperature was excessive on all days except the 15th and 16th. The hottest day was the 12th and the highest temperature recorded during the month was 92°·3 at Mooltan on the 7th and 9th.

December 1902.—The weather was very fine during the month of December and no rain was received. The mean temperature was above the normal from the 1st to the 6th, it then fell and remained between 0·6 and 1°·8 below the normal until the 14th. Between the 15th and 20th the heat was slightly greater than usual, but from the 21st to near the close of the month a cool period was experienced, the mean temperature having been more than 5° lower than usual on the 25th, 26th and 27th. Frost was experienced on the plains on the morning of the 26th.

January 1903.—General rain fell over the province between the 23rd and 27th and unsettled showery weather was experienced on the 30th. With these exceptions the weather was generally fine. The mean temperature was higher than usual during the first week. A cool period prevailed from the 8th to the 20th and another cool period from the 26th to the end of the month. The deficiency of temperature was considerable to large on the 13th (—2°·9); the 14th (—3°·3); the 27th (—4°·9); the 28th (—3°·7); the 29th (—3°·9); and the 31st (—7°·9).

February 1903.—The weather was fine and dry over the greater part of the Punjab during most of the month. Three periods of feeble disturbance occurred, the first between the 1st and 5th, the second on the 12th, the third on the 18th and 19th. The rainfall of the month was however very light. The weather was cooler than usual from the 1st to the 9th and hotter than usual from the 10th to the end of the month. The excess of temperature gradually increased as the month progressed and was as much as 10° on the 28th.

March 1903.—The weather was very unsettled and disturbed during the month; rain fell frequently on the plains and snow almost continuously in Kashmir. The weather was warmer than usual from the 1st to the 4th and again on the 19th and 20th, but was cooler than usual on all other dates. The deficiency was large and more than 8° between the 12th and 15th; on the 21st, on the 23rd, and on the 24th, and was actually greatest on the 31st when it amounted to 11°·5.

SNOWFALL.

There was not much snow during December, but in some places the fall was heavier than usual. In January heavy and general snow fell and the amount received exceeded the normal over a large part of the mountain region. In February the snowfall was generally lighter than in January, but in March the weather was exceedingly stormy and unsettled and in some parts of the frontier the fall of snow was excessively heavy and continuous. In the Khagan Valley (Hazara) the snow at the close of the month was reported to be 49 feet deep.

GENERAL.

BUDGET ESTIMATE OF THE REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE OF THE PUNJAB GOVERNMENT FOR THE YEAR 1903-04.

Proceedings of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant Governor of the Punjab in the Financial Department, No. 1702, dated 23rd July 1903.

READ—

Letter No. 1695 A., dated the 26th March 1903, from the Government of India, Department of Finance and Commerce, conveying their orders on the Budget Estimates of the Revenue and Expenditure of the Punjab for the year 1903-04.

Letter No. 397, dated 16th May 1903, from the Comptroller and Auditor-General, forwarding the Detailed Sanctioned Civil Estimates for 1903-04.

REMARKS.—The Budget Estimates of the Provincial Revenues and Expenditure for 1903-04 are reviewed in the following paragraphs. They are compared with the Revised Estimates for 1902-03 in the appended statement, of which an abstract is given below:—

		Revised, 1902-03. Rs.	Budget, 1903-04. Rs.
Estimated opening balance	...	14,96,000	25,49,000
Estimated income	...	2,23,45,000	2,15,37,000
Total	...	2,38,41,000	2,40,86,000
Estimated expenditure	...	2,12,92,000	2,30,86,000
Estimated closing balance	...	25,49,000	10,00,000

2. INCOME.—The estimated income, as compared with the Revised Estimate for 1902-03, shows a decrease of Rs. 8,08,000, which is accounted for as follows:—

I—Land Revenue.—The decrease of Rs. 6,66,000 is due mainly to assignments from Imperial through the "Land Revenue" head having been made to a greater extent in the past than in the current year. On the other hand, larger receipts of land revenue are estimated for owing to anticipated better harvests and to the consequent collection of suspended revenue.

The minor decreases under V—Excise (Rs. 7,000), XX—Medical (Rs. 1 000), XXI—Scientific and other Minor Departments (Rs 1,000), and XXIII—Stationery and Printing (Rs. 1,000), aggregating Rs. 10,000, are trifling, and are more than counterbalanced by minor increases under VI—Provincial Rates (Rs. 5,000), X—Registration (Rs. 6,000), XVI A—Law and Justice—Courts of Law (Rs. 1,000), XXXII—Civil Works in charge of Civil Officers (Rs. 2,000), and Contributions from Local to Provincial (Rs. 7,000), aggregating Rs. 21,000.

VIII—Assessed Taxes.—The decrease of Rs. 1,54,000 represents the provincial share of the tax on incomes below Rs. 1,000 a year which Government now foregoes owing to the taxable minimum having been raised. This deficiency has, however, been restored to Provincial Revenues by an assignment from Imperial through the "Land Revenue" head.

IX—Forest.—The decrease of Rs. 13,000 is due to a gain in 1902-03 as the result of the working off of arrears under working plans and to a probable falling-off of grazing fees and the like in 1903 04.

XII—Interest.—The decrease of Rs. 10,000 occurs mainly on advances to cultivators, partly counterbalanced by an increase in the amount of interest realizable from loans to Municipalities.

XVI B—Law and Justice—Jails.—The decrease of Rs. 29,000 occurs chiefly under "Hire of Convicts," and is due to the utilization of jail labour on the construction of new jails, by which nominally no profit is obtained. The employment of convicts on canal excavation in the previous year gave an apparently more favourable result.

XVII—Police.—The increase of Rs. 11,000 occurs under the head "Fees, Fines and Forfeitures," and is due to larger receipts anticipated under "Cattle-pounds."

XIX—Education.—The increase of Rs. 1,01,000 is due to income from tuition fees in Board Schools which will now be credited to Provincial Revenues instead of to Local Bodies consequent on the resumption of their direct control by Government.

XXV.—Miscellaneous.—The decrease of Rs. 72,000 occurs mainly under "Sale of lands and houses," the receipts under which necessarily fluctuate. The decrease would be greater, but that provision has been made for recovery from Excluded Local Funds of the cost of the peripatetic audit scheme, which it is hoped to introduce shortly, and that larger receipts are anticipated under "Unclaimed deposits."

XXX—Irrigation—Minor Works—In charge of Public Works Officers.—The increase of Rs. 13,000 is due to provision for revenue anticipated from the Ravi Inundation Canals, the management of which it is under contemplation to transfer to the Public Works Department from the Montgomery District Board.

3. EXPENDITURE.—Compared with the Revised Estimate for 1902-03, the sanctioned Budget for the current year shows an increase of Rs. 17,94,000, which is accounted for as under:—

The minor increases under 6—Stamps (Rs. 2,000), 11—Forest (Rs. 7,000), 12—Registration (Rs. 4,000), and 15—Post Office (Rs. 8,000), aggregating Rs. 21,000, do not call for special notice, and are partly counterbalanced by a decrease of Rs. 4,000 under 1—Refunds.

3—Land Revenue.—The increase of Rs. 3,70,000 is due to the utilization on Revenue Establishments of a portion of the 3 lakhs promised last year by the Imperial Government for the improvement of Ministerial and other Establishments; to new settlements being begun; and to the provision of funds for the new Attock District.

13—Interest on Ordinary Debt.—The charges under this head represent the interest payable by Provincial to Imperial on the Provincial Advance and Loan Account. The increase of Rs. 23,000 in the current year is due to larger loans having been provided for.

18—General Administration.—The decrease is due to the tour expenses of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor having been greater than usual in 1902-03 on account of the Delhi Darbar. Against this there is an increase due to provision having been made for the scheme for a peripatetic audit of Local Fund Accounts, and to larger expenditure on the Office Establishments of the Financial Commissioner and Commissioner of Excise. The net decrease is Rs. 34,000.

19 A.—Law and Justice—Courts of Law.—There is an increase due to the utilization on judicial establishments of a portion of the 3 lakhs granted by the Government of India for the improvement of Ministerial and other Establishments, partly counterbalanced by a reduction under "Chief Court" consequent on the abolition of a temporary Judgeship, and the result is a net increase of Rs. 1,10,000.

19 B.—Law and Justice—Jails.—The increase of Rs. 2,05,000 is due to provision being made for a Woollen Spinning Machine for the Montgomery Jail, and for the new jails at Mianwali and Lyallpur.

20—Police.—The Revised Estimate was swelled by expenditure in connection with the Delhi Darbar. On the other hand, there are increases in the current year on account of the new Attock District, additional Police Stations, and additions to the Municipal, Cantonment and Railway Police. The net decrease in the current year is Rs. 1,00,000.

22—Education.—The increase of Rs. 2,79,000 is due to (1) provision for the full year against a portion of the year in 1902-03 for an increase in the office of the Director, Public Instruction ; (2) increases under Inspection ; and (3) Government taking over the control of certain schools previously under the management of Local Bodies.

24—Medical.—The decrease of Rs. 37,000 is due mainly to a smaller provision for plague.

26—Scientific and other Minor Departments.—The increase of Rs. 58,000 is due primarily to provision for the revision of the Imperial and Provincial Gazetteers and partly to minor increases under Experimental Cultivation and Veterinary and Stallion Charges.

29—Superannuation pensions, &c.—The increase of Rs. 53,000 is due to probable additions to the pension list as warranted by past normal statistics.

30—Stationery and Printing.—The increase of Rs. 33,000 occurs under "Purchase of material for Jail Presses" and "Stationery supplied from Central Stores."

32—Miscellaneous.—The increase of Rs. 4,16,000 is due mainly to the provision of Rs. 6,90,000, under "Irrecoverable temporary loans written off," to cover the removal from accounts in the current year of advances to cultivators made in previous years, against a corresponding provision of Rs. 2,62,000 in the Revised for 1902-03.

33—Famine Relief.—The provision of Rs. 30,000 is to meet expenditure that may become necessary in the event of famine. The charges for the previous year were borne by Imperial Revenues.

43—Irrigation—Minor Works.—The decrease of Rs. 17,000 under the head "In charge of Civil Officers" is due to the payment in 1902-03 to the newly formed Shah Nahr Canal Excluded Local Fund of the accumulated balance at credit of the canal.

The increase of Rs. 3,13,000 under the head "In charge of Public Works Officers" is due mainly to provision for the completion of the Jalalpur Canal in the Jhelum District and partly to expenditure anticipated on the Ravi Inundation Canals if they are transferred from the District Board of Montgomery to the Public Works Department.

45—Civil Works.—The increase of Rs. 86,000 under Works "In charge of Civil Officers" is the result of the provision of Rs 1,50,000 for town improvements in the Jhelum Canal Colony, which is partly counterbalanced by a smaller provision than in the previous year for town improvements in the Chenab Canal Colony. As these works are likely to cost over Rs. 1,000 each, it is in contemplation to transfer this grant to the Public Works Department, which will be required to audit and compile the expenditure under the operation of Article 98 (u), Civil Account Code, Volume I.

The provision of Rs. 36,99,000 in the current year under Works "In charge of Public Works Officers" includes a special grant of 10 lakhs to be spent on special works coming under one or other of the following heads:—

(a) Administrative Buildings.

(b) Improved accommodation for lepers.

(c) Roads.

(d) Water-supply.

To cover this special grant the Provincial Revenues received an assignment of that amount from Imperial Revenues in 1902-03.

4. BALANCE.—The Government of India made a special assignment of Rs. 27,32,000 in the current year with a view to ensuring a closing balance of 10 lakhs, the minimum prescribed by the Secretary of State. This assignment is subject to variation according to the actual results in the accounts of the current year, or as the Government of India may direct hereafter.

5. GENERAL REMARKS.—The Provincial settlement for five years which was sanctioned in letter No. 1281 A., dated the 18th March 1897, from the Government of India, Finance and Commerce Department, expired on the 31st March 1902, but its terms have been specially extended up to the 31st March 1905 pending reconsideration by the Government of India of the principles on which provincial settlements are arranged.

ORDER.—Ordered that the foregoing remarks, with the appended statement, be forwarded to all Heads of Departments, and published in the Punjab Government Gazette for information.

By order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant Governor,

A. H. DIACK,

Offg. Chief Secretary to Government, Punjab

ACCOUNTS FOR 1901-02 OF THE REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE ASSIGNED TO PROVINCIAL USES AND MANAGEMENT IN THE PUNJAB.

Proceedings of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab in the Financial Department,—No. 1713, dated 29th July 1903.

READ—

The Accounts for 1901-02 of the Revenue and Expenditure assigned to Provincial uses and management in the Punjab.

REMARKS.—The year was marked by the separation of the Frontier Districts, viz., Hazara, Peshawar, Kohat, and parts of the Bannu and Dera Ismail Khan Districts, which are now included in the North-West Frontier Province, and consequently the accounts, as shown in the appended statements, include the income and expenditure of these districts only up to the 8th November 1901,

A.—Comparison with the Budget Estimates of the year.

2. INCOME.—The actual income (Rs. 2,22,16,000) fell short of the Budget Estimate (Rs. 2,28,55,000) by Rs. 6,39,000, owing chiefly to the transfer of territory above mentioned, the principal decreases being under the heads I—Land Revenue (Rs. 1,55,000), IV—Stamps (Rs. 1,73,000), V—Excise (Rs. 10,000), VI—Provincial Rates (Rs. 20,000), IX—Forest (Rs. 26,000), X—Registration (Rs. 74,000), XVI A—Law and Justice—Courts of Law (Rs. 41,000), XXX—Irrigation (Rs. 62,000), II—Civil Works (Rs. 55,000), and Contributions (Rs. 94,000). On the other hand there were increases of Rs. 23,000 and Rs. 44,000 under the heads XVI B—Law and Justice—Jails and XXV—Miscellaneous respectively.

The actual deficiency in Land Revenue collections was Rs. 6,35,000, (Provincial share), due to the transfer of the above districts, but this was counter-balanced by additional assignments aggregating Rs. 4,80,000 from Imperial revenues for special purposes. The Stamp and Registration receipts declined under the operation of the Land Alienation Act, the decrease in the Forest revenue was due to less demand for timber and resin products, and the falling off under 'Irrigation' was in receipts from the Kabul River Canal now in the North-West Frontier Province. The improvement in the Jail income is attributed to the employment of a large number of convicts on extramural labour and to the recovery of outstandings and disposal of old stock in jail factories. Under the head Miscellaneous there were larger sales of nazul properties and larger lapses of Revenue and Civil Deposits.

EXPENDITURE.—The expenditure (Rs. 2,07,20,000) was Rs. 11,35,000 less than the Budget grant (Rs. 2,18,55,000), owing mainly to the expenditure of the Frontier Districts having been recorded separately from the 9th of November 1901. The decrease (Rs. 37,000) under the head 13—Interest is due to interest not having been charged to the Provincial Loan and Advance Account in respect of famine advances made in 1900. The decrease (Rs. 1,48,000) in Jail charges is due partly to a fall in the jail population and partly to more favourable rates than in the previous year having been paid for food-grains. The excess of Rs. 2,02,000 under the head 24—Medical is due to plague charges having been incurred on a larger scale, and that under 26—Scientific and Other Minor Departments to the provincialization of the Subordinate Veterinary Establishments which were formerly paid from Imperial, Provincial and Local sources. In both these cases the excess would have been greater but for savings arising from the formation of the North-West Frontier Province.

B.—Comparison with the Accounts of the previous year.

3. INCOME.—Compared with the accounts of 1900-01 those of the year 1901-02 show an increase of Rs. 17,59,000 in revenue and of Rs. 2,63,000 in expenditure notwithstanding the separation of the Frontier. The principal increases in income occurred under the heads

I—Land Revenue (Rs. 18,18,000), VI—Provincial Rates (Rs. 69,000), IX—Forest (Rs. 49,000), XVI B—Jails (Rs. 16,000) and Contributions from Local to Provincial (Rs. 2,44,000), and were partially neutralized by decreases under IV—Stamps (Rs. 1,58,000), X—Registration (Rs. 68,000), XVI A—Law and Justice—Courts of Law (Rs. 31,000), XVII—Police (Rs. 70,000), XXX—Irrigation (Rs. 75,000) and XXXII—Civil Works (Rs. 62,000). Again, of the increase under Land Revenue Rs. 8,20,000 represent recovery of the revenue suspended in previous years, and the rest is due to additional special assignments made from Imperial revenues, viz., (1) Rs. 4,00,000 for expenditure on Educational and Medical Buildings in the year 1902-03, (2) Rs. 4,18,000 as compared with Rs. 1,33,000 in 1900-01 on account of the Imperial share of the outlay on the Dera Ghazi Khan River Protective Works, and (3) Rs. 12,40,000 as against Rs. 8,26,000 in the previous year in aid of Provincial revenues. The improvement under VI—Provincial Rates follows the increase in Land Revenue; the increase under IX—Forest is due to increased sales of timber in the open market and to a greater demand for sleepers by the North-Western Railway, and that under XVI B—Jails is due to causes already explained in paragraph 2 of this review. The falling off under IV—Stamps and X—Registration is mainly attributable to the working of the Land Alienation Act, and the decreases under the other heads are due mainly to the transfer of the Frontier Districts.

EXPENDITURE.—The principal increases occurred under the heads 11—Forest (Rs. 25,000, due to larger extraction of fuel and timber), 22—Education (Rs. 28,000, owing partly to the payment of special building grants of Rs. 15,000 and Rs. 5,000 to the Forman Christian College and Lady Dufferin's Christian Girls' School at Lahore), 24—Medical (Rs. 1,32,000, due chiefly to extensive plague operations), 26—Scientific, &c. (Rs. 33,000, consequent on the provincialization of the Subordinate Veterinary Establishments), 30—Stationery and Printing (Rs. 49,000, due to a larger supply of printing paper from the Central Stores, Calcutta), 33—Famine Relief (Rs. 27,000, accounted for by the expenditure in 1900-01 having been taken over by Imperial), and 45—Civil Works (Rs. 7,80,000, due to the expenditure in the previous year having been restricted in consequence of the famine). These increases were, however, partly counterbalanced by less expenditure, owing to the separation of the Frontier, under the heads 3—Land Revenue (Rs. 1,03,000), 6—Stamps (Rs. 14,000), 12—Registration (Rs. 12,000), 13—Interest (Rs. 13,000) 19 A—Law and Justice—Courts of Law (Rs. 76,000), 19 B—Jails (Rs. 2,36,000), 20—Police (Rs. 3,14,000) and 43—Irrigation (Rs. 26,000).

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the foregoing remarks and of the appended statements be submitted to the Government of India in the Department of Finance and Commerce, and forwarded to the Heads of Departments concerned, and also that they be published in the Punjab Government Gazette for general information.

By order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor,

A. H. DIACK,

Offg. Chief Secretary to Government, Punjab.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE

Government Gazette

PUNJAB AND ITS DEPENDENCIES.

Published by Authority.

LAHORE, THURSDAY, AUGUST 6, 1903.

PART II.

GENERAL.

REPORT ON THE EXTERNAL LAND TRADE OF THE PUNJAB FOR THE YEAR 1902-03.

No. 487, dated Lahore, 3rd July 1903, from F. W. KENNAWAY, Esquire, C. S., Junior Secretary to the Financial Commissioner, Punjab, to the Revenue and Financial Secretary to Government, Punjab.

I AM directed to submit the Annual Returns relating to the External Land Trade of the Punjab for the year 1902-03. The triennial report is due next year and the present report being an intermediate one, no detailed examination of the figures is required. Last year's report was the first which dealt with the trade of the province as now constituted, and consequently some comparison of the total volume of trade is possible. As, however, the figures of one year only are available for the purpose of comparison, it would be premature to draw any general inferences from the increases or decreases shewn in the provincial totals. Such differences may in some cases be noted, but, speaking generally, we must confine ourselves to the detailed district figures for the causes of rise or decline in any particular commodity or in the trade with any particular tract.

2. There has been no change in the system of registration or in the number or location of the trade registration posts during the year under report. It may be observed, however, in this connection that two alterations will come into force from the 1st of April 1903. In accordance with the instructions conveyed in the letter No. 128—30, dated 24th January 1903, from the Director-General of Statistics, to your address, Afghánistán has been divided into two sub-divisions for the purpose of trade registration in place of the four tracts which have hitherto been the units for this purpose. The new system will be introduced with effect from April 1st, 1903. It was mentioned in paragraph 2 of last year's report that certain changes were in contemplation in respect of the posts in the Gujrát District. The Financial Commissioner has now sanctioned the substitution of the North-Western Railway Stations of Gujrát, Lála Músa, Khárián and Karyála for the posts of Gujrát, Channi and Daulatnagar at which trade has hitherto been registered : it is hoped that this re-constitution will result in more reliable figures being received from this district. The new posts have been established with effect from April 1st, 1903.

3. The provincial totals both of imports and of exports have declined as compared with last year in weight as well as in value. Imports shew a decrease of twenty-three lakhs of rupees in value and exports of nine lakhs. Kashmir monopolises 91 per cent. of imports and 96 per cent. of exports, the remainder being distributed between Kábul, Ladákh, and Chinese Tibet. It is practically to Kashmir alone therefore that we must look for the causes of the trade fluctuations which are observable from the returns.

4. Looking to the trade with individual countries, the value of imports from Kábul shew a decline from Rs. 35,000 to Rs. 30,000 while exports rise from Rs. 28,000 to Rs 40,000. Under imports (1) Sheep and Goats and Hides shew an increase while (2) Fruits of all kinds exhibit a marked decrease. Drought and a failure of fodder in the exporting districts are said to account for both these variations. The only other import worth notice is (3) Non-intoxicating Drugs: under this head a considerable increase is shewn.

(1) From Rs. ——— to Rs 2,925.
(2) From Rs. 15 815 to Rs. 3,641.
(3) From Rs. 1,108 to Rs. 4 170.

There is an all-round rise in exports: (1) Rise of a coarse description, which finds a ready sale amongst the lower classes across the border, and Piece goods, both (2) Indian and (3) European, are the chief contributors to this increase. It would seem that the fluctuations shewn this year both in imports and exports are sufficiently accounted for by the good season enjoyed in British territory and the bad season across the border.

(1) From Rs. 3,832 to Rs. 7,940.
(2) From Rs. 7,155 to Rs. 9 760.
(3) From Rs. 9,416 to Rs. 11,342.

5. Kashmir trade has again been injuriously affected by the prevalence of plague in our districts. Ludhiána City, a large trading centre, was so badly infected that it is little wonder that traders avoided the place. Imports of course suffer more than exports, and shew a decline of over 21 lakhs since last year which in its turn exhibited a decrease of 13 lakhs as compared with the preceding year. The only noticeable increases are under (1) Charas, (2) Raw Silk, (3) Timber, and (4) Silver: of these the first and the last two articles would hardly be subject to the influence which affect the current of ordinary trade, while, as regards Raw Silk, the Commissioner of Ráwalpindi remarks that he believes the increase to be due to the sericulture operations which have been taking place in Kashmir. Substantial decreases appear under (1) Non-intoxicating Drugs, (2) Fruits of all kinds, (3) Hides, (4) Ghi, (5) Linseed, (6) Spices, (7) Manufactured Wool, and (8) Gold. Only Gujrát and Siálkot exhibit increases in the total volume of imports: in the case of the former it may be hoped that trade is recovering after the panic caused mainly by plague in the preceding year, while, as regards the latter, the existence of the Jammu Railway removes the district from the ordinary class of those which possess road-routes only.

(1) From Rs. 1,34,280 to Rs. 2,75 880.
(2) From Rs. 10 56,560 to Rs. 13,58,770.
(3) From Rs. 18,32,668 to Rs. 20,23,144.
(4) From Rs. 3,28,100 to Rs. 8,60,782.

(1) From Rs. 7,19,093 to Rs 5,06,192.
(2) From Rs. 4,87,905 to Rs 3,88,421.
(3) From Rs. 5,16,380 to Rs. 2,90,977.
(4) From Rs. 20,08,865 to Rs. 10 92 549.
(5) From Rs. 15 44,753 to Rs. 6,51,730.
(6) From Rs. 3,34,633 to Rs. 2,03,372.
(7) From Rs. 11,50,340 to Rs. 7,38,565.
(8) From Rs. 2,94,331 to Rs. 58,400.

With a decline in imports it is only in accordance with economic principles that exports should also decrease: this they do to the extent of over 8 lakhs. An increased quantity of Silver has been exported while Gold remains about stationary with Rs. 4,858 as against Rs. 5,027 last year. The fluctuations in the exchange of Treasure are, as will be seen from the figures given for import and export of gold and silver, considerable, but the Financial Commissioner is not prepared to suggest an explanation in this intermediate report. The year has been marked by a large increase in the amount of Wheat supplied to Kashmir. Little reference is made to this in the district reports, but the Financial Commissioner believes that it is due mainly to the export by rail of large quantities of surplus grain from the Chenab Colony.

From Rs 11,31,611 to Rs. 15,02,266.

	Weight in maunds.	Value in Rupees.
From	25,966	63,917
To	153,738	3,78,761

The chief decreases in exports are under the heads [1] Piece-goods, European and [2] Indian, [3] Salt and [4] Refined Sugar. The first and last named are articles which would naturally be particularly liable to feel the effects of trade depression, but in the absence of explanations from district officers the Financial Commissioner is unable to account for the large decline in the value of salt exported. It may be noted, however, that the value of this article exported during 1901-02 exceeded that of the previous year by over 4 lakhs, so it may be that the figures for the last three years represent ordinary fluctuations due to the necessity or otherwise of replenishing existing stocks.

[1] From Rs. 33,96,805 to Rs. 28,07,964.
[2] From Rs. 7,48,035 to Rs. 6,40,005.
[3] From Rs. 14,49,339 to Rs. 7,90,201.
[4] From Rs. 12,75,026 to Rs. 8,62,641.

6. The total value of trade with Ladákh is of the value of Rs. 9,89,040 only as compared with Rs. 10,81,255 last year: of the decrease, Rs. 61,027 is due to less imports and Rs. 31,188 to less exports. Of imports, Borax, Charas and Raw Silk exhibit the chief decreases. Charas is the most valuable import absorbing no less than Rs. 5,58,650 of a total of Rs. 6,80,555 at which the year's imports are valued. There was a decline of Rs. 23,470 in the value of the Charas imported during the year, but an increase in quantity from 3,667 maunds to 3,871.

The Assistant Commissioner in Kulu remarks that the Yárkand traders brought in a larger amount of Charas in the hope of selling it at the abnormally high rates of last year, but that the price fell from Rs 160 per maund at the end of last year to Rs. 140 at the end of the year under report.

Of exports, European Piece-goods exhibit the only noticeable decrease which is ascribed to the fall in the value rates of Charas for which these articles are taken in exchange.

7. The trade with Chinese Tibet is represented by imports valued at Rs. 2,02,276 as compared with Rs. 2,93,909 last year and by exports valued at Rs. 39,972 as agginst Rs. 41,751 in 1901-02. The Deputy Commissioner of Simla ascribes the decreases to the plague at Ludhiána, already referred to, and to the circumstance that during the last rainy season several bridges on the Upper Kanaura were washed away, thus interrupting communications. No further explanation is given on the remarkable decrease in the value of Raw Wool imported, amounting to Rs. 97,620. There is no other noticeable variation.

From Rs. 2,49,090 to Rs. 1,51,470.

8. The Financial Commissioner fears that, on the facts as above stated, it is impossible to regard the external trade of the province as at present in a satisfactory condition. He hopes, however, that the causes of the general decline both in imports and exports are temporary, and that next year's triennial report may shew that we have no reason to anticipate that this decline will be permanent.

ORDER.—Ordered that the above Report be published in the Punjab Government Gazette for general information, and that copies be submitted to the Government of India, Foreign Department, and to the Director-General of Statistics, Calcutta.

By order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor,

J. F. CONNOLLY,

Offg. Revenue and Finl. Secy. to Govt., Punjab.

THE NOTE ON VACCINATION IN THE PUNJAB FOR THE YEAR 1902-03.

Proceedings of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab in the Home (Medical and Sanitary) Department, No. 1118 S., dated 30th July 1903.

READ—

The Note on Vaccination in the Punjab for the year 1902-03 by Lieutenant-Colonel C. J. Bamber, I. M. S., D. P. H. (Camb.), Sanitary Commissioner, Punjab.

REMARKS.—Plague had a considerable effect during the year 1902-03 in checking vaccinations. This effect, however, was felt in the district of Kángra and the Simla Hill States, where plague was not prevalent and where the people feared that they would be subjected not to vaccination, but to anti-plague inoculation. In the plains districts, where plague is now well known, vaccinations were not checked by the prevalence of the epidemic and the operations specially undertaken for anti-plague inoculation. In these districts greater attention was paid to vaccination than in the period immediately preceding 1902-03, when it had been thought desirable to restrict vaccination operations on account of the plague; a large increase occurred in the number of persons vaccinated and no unusual difficulties were experienced by the vaccinators in doing their work.

2. The total number of persons vaccinated (667,544) was slightly lower than in 1901-02 (668,144), but the number of primary vaccinations increased from 511,121 in the previous year to 582,626 in the year under report. The district and special staffs performed 626,653 and 34,288 operations respectively. The Cantonment and Dispensary staffs vaccinated only 6,397 and 206 persons. The strength of the district and special staffs was practically the same as in 1901-02, but whereas the former did 35,866 more operations than in the previous year the latter did 36,978 less. The increase in the work of the District staff was due to the increase (95,832) in the number of primary vaccinations done, chiefly in the plague-infected districts of the plains. The number of re-vaccinations performed by the District staff decreased by 59,966, and the greater part of this decrease (37,871 in the Kángra District) as well as the whole of the decrease that took place in the work done by the special staff (24,471 primary vaccinations and 12,507 re-vaccinations) was due to the refusal of vaccination by the people of the Hills, referred to in paragraph 1 of this Review. A decrease of 10,565 re-vaccinations took place in the Ráwalpindi District, but the reason for this is not stated.

3. The Deputy Sanitary Commissioner was during part of the winter employed on work connected with anti-plague inoculations, and in consequence his tours of inspection were restricted, but the total number of inspections performed by all the supervising agencies was satisfactory.

4. The percentage of success in both primary vaccinations and re-vaccinations attained by the District and Special staffs increased, but the percentages for the former staff are considerably higher than for the latter, being 95·92 for primary vaccinations and 61·01 for re-vaccinations as compared with 85·99 and 51·84 respectively.

5. The cost of the Department remained practically the same as in the previous year, but as the number of successful vaccinations (both primary and re-vaccinations) rose from 571,430 in 1901-02 to 607,236 in the year under report, the average cost of each successful operation declined by 1 pie to Re. 0-2-6.

6. The report by Captain Harvey, I. M. S., Deputy Sanitary Commissioner, on experiments with vaselinated and glycerinated vaccine pulp has been received and is under consideration.

7. Lieutenant-Colonel Bamber, I. M. S., was in charge of the Vaccination Department during the year, except for three months when he was on leave. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to thank him for his administration of the Department and his Note on its operations for 1902-03.

ORDER.—Ordered, that the above Remarks be published in the Punjab Gazette and be communicated to the Sanitary Commissioner, Punjab, for information; also that they be forwarded with the Note as usual to the Government of India in the Home Department.

By order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor,

C. J. HALLIFAX,

Judicial and Genl. Secy. to Govt., Punjab.

NOTES ON THE ANNUAL STATEMENTS OF THE DISPENSARIES AND CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS OF THE PUNJAB FOR THE YEAR 1902.

Proceedings of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab in the Home (Medical and Sanitary) Department No. 1120 S., dated 30th July 1903.

READ—

The Notes on the annual statements of the Dispensaries and Charitable Institutions of the Punjab for the year 1902, by Colonel J. McConaghey, M D., I.M. S., Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, Punjab.

REMARKS.—The total number of patients in 1902 was about 14·8 per cent. of the population of the Province, as in previous years, but there was a slight decrease on the figures for 1901. Taking in-door and out-door patients together the total number treated and the average daily attendance were 3,019,126 and 21,420, or only 5,885 (·19 per cent.) and 188 (·9 per cent.) respectively less than in 1901. The total number of in-door patients (50,138) was 2·7 per cent. less than in the previous year, while the total number of out-door patients (2,968,988) was only ·15 less; the daily average number of in-door patients was 1·6 per cent. less than in 1901 while the decrease in the daily average number of out-door patients amounted to ·8 per cent. only. As a result, the percentage of out-door patients to the total number treated increased, but only slightly, being 98·4 per cent. as compared with 98·3 per cent. in 1900 and 1901 The percentage of men in the daily average number of in-door patients increased to 74 from 73 in the two previous years, but it declined on the daily average number of out-door patients. Of the total number of patients treated only 54·1 per cent. were men as compared with 54·5 in 1901 and 62·7 per cent. in 1900. In comparison with 1901 the largest falling-off in the number of patients occurred among patients treated for malarial fevers (decrease 74,734 cases), diseases of the lungs and respiratory organs (decrease 9,001 cases) and diseases of the digestive organs (decrease 4,219 cases), while there were very large increases in the attendance of patients for classes of disease whose prevalence does not vary so much with variations in the rainfall and temperature: the number of patients treated for eye diseases increased by 60,550, for ulcers by 13,089, for local injuries by 4,932, and for diseases of the ear by 4,414. In private dispensaries also there was a considerable falling-off in the number of patients which was most marked in the case of patients treated for malarial fevers and diseases of the lungs and respiratory organs. The number of patients who attended Government and Local Fund dispensaries increased in some districts where there was plague and decreased in other districts. On a consideration of all the above circumstances it appears to the Lieutenant-Governor doubtful whether plague had anything to do with the decrease even of in-door patients (as is suggested by the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals) for such falling-off in the attendance at dispensaries as occurred may well be attributed to the circumstance that 1902 was comparatively a healthy year. Plague perhaps reduced the number of patients by carrying off a number of people who, if they had not fallen victims to it, would have sought for medical treatment for other diseases, but the people know that medical treatment for plague is not forced upon them, and His Honour believes that the dispensaries are gaining in popularity and are being more freely resorted to than in the past. The number of dispensaries was increased during 1902 by 5, and 3 dispensaries which were closed were replaced by new institutions in places where there clearly is a demand for them.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor regrets to notice that the amount of voluntary subscriptions by Natives of India for the support of dispensaries, never very large, has decreased steadily, and in 1902 was only Rs. 8,292 or 1·5 per cent. of the total dispensary income. The proportion of the total income which is contributed by Local Bodies is steadily increasing, and now amounts to 91·9 per cent. There are no variations calling for particular notice in the proportion borne to the total expenditure by the expenditure under different heads.

3. Considerable attention has been given during the year to improvements in the Lahore Medical College. An Ophthalmic Ward has been added to the Mayo Hospital, land has been taken up for a Students' Boarding House which is much needed, and sanction has been accorded to a proposal to build separate rooms for the teaching of Chemistry. The College has now reached a very satisfactory state of efficiency, and for this the Lieutenant-Governor desires to record his special thanks to Colonel S. H. Browne, C. I. E., I. M. S., who held charge of the College for over 13 years and has always taken the greatest interest in its advancement and good administration. Sir Charles Rivaz, while regretting that Colonel Browne's connexion with the Punjab has now been severed, is glad that he was selected for the important office of Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, Bengal.

4. The changes that occurred during 1902 in the office of the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals interfered with inspections by the Inspector-General, but His Honour understands that Colonel McConaghey, I. M. S., gave this matter his special attention at the end of the year. Colonel McConaghey was in charge of the Medical Department of the Punjab during the greater part of 1902, and the Lieutenant-Governor has to thank him for the satisfactory Note which he has been able to submit on the administration of hospitals and dispensaries during the year.

ORDER.—Ordered, that a copy of the foregoing Remarks be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, Punjab, for information.

Ordered also, that the Review be published in the Punjab Gazette and be circulated with the Notes, the usual number of copies of the Notes and Review being communicated to the Government of India in the Home Department.

REVIEW OF THE INCOME TAX REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1902-03.

THE following is published for information :—

No. 1254 S, dated Simla, 6th August 1903, from J. F. CONNOLLY, Esquire, Offg. Revenue and Financial Secretary to Government, Punjab, to the Junior Secretary to the Financial Commissioner, Punjab.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 535, dated the 23rd July 1903, submitting the annual returns relating to the collection of Income Tax in the Punjab for 1902-03, and to say with reference to paragraph 4 of that letter that the Lieutenant-Governor agrees to the Financial Commissioner's proposal to defer taking or suggesting any general action to correct certain features of the Income Tax administration in the districts referred to in that paragraph until it is seen what effect new Act, XI of 1903, has.

2. I am to convey the Lieutenant-Governor's acknowledgments to Sir Lewis Tupper for the attention he has bestowed on this branch of the administration during the past year.

Offg. Revenue and Finl. Secy. to Govt., Punjab.

REVIEW OF THE REPORT ON THE LAHORE CENTRAL MUSEUM FOR THE YEAR 1902-03.

Proceedings of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab in the Revenue and Agricultural (General) Department, No. 305, dated 13th August 1903.

READ—

The Report on the Lahore Central Museum for the year 1902-03, submitted with letter No. 61, dated the 9th of July 1903, by G. E. BRAND, Esquire, Offg. Curator.

REMARKS—The Museum maintains its popularity, the daily average of visitors having risen from 611 to 691. The reservation of one day in each month for zenana ladies continues to be appreciated.

2. Owing to a special grant the Curator was enabled to make extensive and valuable additions to the Museum collection which were purchased at the Delhi Art Exhibition. Presentations were also received from various gentlemen, to whom the thanks of Government are due.

3. The special report regarding the Art Sale Room has not yet reached Government.

4. Mr Brand officiated as Curator from the 30th April until the close of the year in place of Mr. Brown, the permanent incumbent, who was placed on special duty in connection with the Delhi Art Exhibition, and carried on the duties of his office satisfactorily.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the foregoing Remarks be forwarded to the Curator for information, and that a copy be published with the Report in the Punjab Government Gazette; also that two copies of the Report and Remarks be forwarded to the Reporter on Economic Products to the Government of India.

By order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor,

J. F. CONNOLLY,

Offg. Revenue and Finl. Secy. to Govt., Punjab.

No. 61, dated Lahore, 9th July 1903.

From—G. E. BRAND, Esquire, Offg. Curator, Central Museum, Lahore,

To—The Revenue and Financial Secretary to Government, Punjab.

I HAVE the honour to submit my report on the working of the Lahore Museum for the year 1902-03.

Proceedings of a Meeting of the Committee of Management of the Victoria Jubilee Institute, Punjab, held at the Central Museum, Lahore, on Tuesday, the 6th July 1903.

PRESENT:

The Hon'ble Mr. Justice P. C. CHATTERJI, M.A., B.L., Rai Bahadur (in the chair).

Revd. J. C. R. EWING, D.D.

Diwan RAM NATH, Diwan Bahadur.

Lala RUCHI RAM, M.A.

G. E. BRAND, Esquire, Officiating Honorary Secretary.

1. The Annual Report on the working of the Lahore Museum for the year 1902-03, with the accounts, was read and approved.

P. C. CHATTERJI,

Chairman.

G. E. BRAND,

Offg. Honorary Secretary.

LAHORE:

Dated 6th July 1903.

A brief report on the working of the Lahore Central Museum during the year 1902-03.

Changes in the staff.

MR. PERCY BROWN, Curator, was placed on special duty as Assistant Director, Delhi Indian Art Exhibition, and handed over charge to Bhai Ram Singh, Officiating Principal, Mayo School of Art, on the 6th April 1902. I assumed charge from Bhai Ram Singh on the 30th of April 1902.

Attendance.

The number of visitors during the year was 253,575 and the daily average was 694, against 222,995 and 611 respectively in the previous year.

No special reason except the growing popularity of the Museum can be assigned for the increase.

The attendance table for the past five years is—

1898-99.	1899-1900.	1900-01.	1901-02.	1902-03.
235,501	276,099	221,089	222,995	253,575

The zanana day instituted in the previous year was continued throughout this year with satisfactory results, the attendance being 2,344, or a daily average of 194.

Conduct of the public.

This has been, as usual, good, and with the exception of a few panes of glass broken no damage has been done.

Additions.

Art Manufactures.

The last outstanding account of the Punjab Exhibition of 1893 was closed during the year, leaving a credit balance of Rs. 1,422-9-6. A special grant of Rs. 5,000 was added to this, and the total amount, viz., Rs. 6,422-9-6, was placed at the disposal of Mr. Brown for purchasing selected exhibits from the Delhi Art Exhibition for the Museum. A very extensive and valuable addition has thus been made to the Museum collection. The list of exhibits purchased is annexed, and a glance at it will show the care taken by Mr. Brown in their selection.

Antiquities.

Among the additions presented to this section during the year may be mentioned 7 inscribed stones by the Hon'ble Colonel H. A. Deane, C.I.E., C.S.I., Agent to the Governor-General and Chief Commissioner, North-West Frontier Province; an inscribed stone in the Sarda characters by Dr. M. A. Stein; one in the Kharoshthi characters by Major G. O. Roos-Keppel, C.I.E., Political Agent, Khaibar; several fragments of Buddhist sculptures from the Peshawar District, by Dr. J. Ph. Vogel, Archæological Surveyor, Punjab Circle; and five pieces of Buddhist sculptures by the Deputy Commissioner, Kohat.

Dr. Vogel also contributed four ancient seals found in the Peshawar District, and Dr. Marshall purchased from the funds supplied by the Government of India a fine cameo representing two elephants fighting.

Coins.

Seventy-two coins were added to the Museum collection. Of these 67 were presented by the Government of the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, 2 by the Bombay Branch, Royal Asiatic Society, 1 by the Deputy Commissioner, Peshawar, and 2 were purchased.

The Philological Honorary Secretary, Asiatic Society of Bengal, has, as usual, kindly assisted in all cases where expert knowledge was necessary.

Sculpture gallery.

Two new stands were made to accommodate the inscribed stones, another to take the surplus of the sculptures left out of the wall cases, and 6 old cases were remounted to receive the smaller articles of archæological interest. This enabled the gallery to be opened to the public for the first time since the collection was removed to the present building in 1893.

This portion of the Museum was visited during the year by many distinguished visitors.

Complete sets of photographs were supplied to Mr. Marshall, Director-General of Archæological Survey of India, Dr. Vogal, Archæological Surveyor, Punjab Circle, Count Professor Pulle of Italy (as well as a plaster cast of the Fasting Buddha), and selected subjects to Mr. Sanoda, Professor of Kyoto Buddhist University, Japan.

A lecture on the life of Buddha illustrated by photos of selected sculptures was delivered by Dr. Vogel during the year. The slides are available for loan and should create a greater local appreciation of the valuable collection than at present appears to exist.

Dr. Vogel worked during the year in collecting data for the preparation of the catalogue, but a work of this magnitude will take some years to complete.

Fittings.

An estimate of Rs. 22,427 was sanctioned during the year for providing new show cases. Of this Rs. 3,000 has been allotted for expenditure in the ensuing year.

Building.

The roof, as usual, leaked badly during the rains. The annual reports show that this defect has existed since the construction of the building. An estimate for renewing the faulty gutters has been submitted for sanction, and it is to be hoped that the new work will prove better than the old.

Art Sale Room.

The sales effected during the year amounted to Rs. 789-5-0. It would have amounted to much more, had there been anything worth buying in the room. The concern is practically bankrupt, and for some months there were no funds to pay the monthly allowance to the Registrar of the Mayo School of Art for looking after it. A special report has been submitted to the Financial Commissioner on the subject. The sales for the past years amounted to—

PART II.

GENERAL.

EEVIEW OF THE REPORT ON THE EXCISE ADMINISTRATION OF THE PUNJAB FOR THE YEAR 1902-03.

Proceedings of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab in the Financial Department, No. 1657 S., dated Simla, the 31st August 1903.

READ—

The Report on the Excise Administration of the Punjab for the year 1902-03 submitted with endorsement from the Junior Secretary to the Financial Commissioner, Punjab, No. 170 S., dated the 21st July 1903.

REMARKS.—The income derived from Excise in the Punjab continues to expand, and the net receipts during the past year show an increase of Rs. 1,62,500 over the figures for the year 1901-02. The chief increases occurred under receipts for licenses to vend Indian spirits (Rs. 52,500) and receipts from still head duty (Rs. 50,000). The transition from Government to licensed private distilleries has now been completed, and, so far as the supply of spirits consumed by the masses of the Province is concerned, it may be said to be left to four distilleries. There is no question of increasing this number, as it is doubtful whether the demand for spirits is sufficient to support even this limited number of distilleries. At the same time, to prevent the distillers combining among themselves and establishing a practical monopoly, it has been considered advisable to reserve power to regulate the price charged to retail vendors, and, except in the case of Delhi, where special circumstances exist, to insist on the dissociation of the distillers from the business of retail vend. Allowing for imports the consumption of Indian spirits works out to less than $\frac{1}{16}$ of a quart per annum per head of the population.

2. Special enquiries are now in progress as regards the prevalence of illicit distillation. As stated in paragraph 18 of the Report, the increase in the number of prosecutions for this offence during the past year may be the result of the distribution of placards announcing rewards for information leading to the detection of illicit stills. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Financial Commissioner that the officers mentioned in paragraph 18 (b), who made successful raids on distilling villages, deserve commendation.

3. The inadequate taxation of opium is, as the Financial Commissioner observes, one of the weak points in our Excise administration, but this will shortly be remedied by the introduction of a quantitative duty on the drug itself. The Lieutenant-Governor approves of the action of the Commissioner in checking the extension to various districts of the monopoly of one contractor, and attempts in this direction must always be guarded against. The opium crop in the Punjab and the Hill States was not a good one, and as a result the sales of Málwa and Excise opium show a considerable increase. The detection and conviction of the illicit importers into the Ráwalpindi District of opium from the Malákand is very satisfactory, and the Lieutenant-Governor agrees that similar satisfactory results may be expected from the investigation by special agencies that has now been arranged for.

4. Proposals for trebling the duty on charas, i. e., for raising it from two to six rupees per seer, have received the sanction of the Government of India, and the increased duty will take effect from the 1st April 1904. The consent of the Kashmir Darbár is still awaited to the proposal referred to in last year's Review for the establishment of a warehouse for charas at Leh, but a communication on the subject is shortly expected. The remarks of the Commissioner of Excise on the fluctuations in the price of this drug and of bhang call for no comment.

5. In paragraph 45 of his Report the Commissioner of Excise notices certain matters concerning the general Excise administration, most of which have been alluded to in the foregoing remarks. The Lieutenant-Governor will be glad to receive proposals for the improvement of the superior Excise establishment, but His Honour understands that, until the sanction of the Government of India is obtained to the revised opium scheme, these proposals cannot assume a definite shape.

6. In paragraph 11 of his Note the Financial Commissioner alludes to the great progress that has attended the Excise Department in recent years, and Sir Charles Rivaz desires to express his entire concurrence in Sir Lewis Tupper's high appreciation of the energy and ability displayed by Major Parsons in his administration of the Department. His Honour also desires to acknowledge the services of Lála Gobind Rám, Personal Assistant, and Lála Bishambar Diál, Revenue Assistant, Ambala.

ORDER.—Ordered, that the foregoing remarks be published in the Punjab Government Gazette and communicated to the Financial Commissioner, Punjab; also that they be forwarded to the Government of India, Finance and Commerce Department, with copies of the Report and the Financial Commissioner's Note.

By order of the Hon'ble the Lientenant-Governor,

J. F. CONNOLLY,

Offg. Revenue and Finl. Secy. to Govt., Punjab.

REVIEW OF THE REPORT ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE POLICE DEPARTMENT FOR THE YEAR 1902.

Proceedings of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor in the Home (Police) Department, No. 1632 S., dated 28th August 1903.

READ—

The Report on the Administration of the Police Department for the year 1902.

REMARKS.—A reference to Part I of Statement A attached to the Police Administration Report shows that although Magistrates had for disposal before them in 1902 as many as 31,256 direct complaints regarding cognisable crime under the Indian Penal Code (Classes I to V) very few of these complaints were found to be true. Of these complaints only 8,485 were brought to trial and only 1,456 resulted in conviction. The figures for 1902 are similar to, though slightly higher than, those for 1901 and the statement below gives details of all the principal classes of crime in which complaints were made directly to Magistrates as well as information regarding their result :—

It may be noted that the majority of convictions—1,052—were obtained in Class V, for minor offences against property, and there were also 67 convictions in Class IV for minor offences against the person, leaving 337 convictions only for the more serious offences included in Classes I, II and III. The Inspector-General of Police explains that all the murder cases resulting in conviction were jirga cases with which the Police had nothing to do, and bearing this in mind it is clear that complaints are not usually made direct to Magistrates in true cases of serious congnisable offences. In 1902 only 27 per cent. of the complaints made to Magistrates had sufficient foundation to render it necessary to bring them to trial, while only 4·6 per cent. of the total number of such complaints, and 17 per cent. of those brought to trial, ended in conviction. The majority of those which ended in conviction concerned minor offences or offences in which the Magistrate was not unnaturally approached in the first instance. It is, however, remarkable that the five districts of the Central Punjab mentioned in paragraph 9 of the Inspector-General of Police's Report contributed 32 and 35 per cent. in 1901 and 1902 respectively to the total number of complaints made direct to Magistrates, and the Lieutenant-Governor would be glad to know if any explanation of these figures can be offered.

2. We may now turn to Part III of Statement A, and since in the Punjab it is customary for the Police almost invariably to investigate reports made to them (in 1901 and 1902 there were only 436 and 618 reports in Classes I to V which were not investigated) the method of calcnlation explained in paragraph 8 of the Lieutenant-Governor's Review of thê Police Administration Report for 1901 is an accurate method for calcclating the number of true cases investigated by the Police in this Province. According to this method there were, in 1902, 28,085 such cases in Classes I to V out of a total of 33,592 cases investigated. In the total number of 34,200 cases investigated and reported as many as 6,198, or 18 per cent., were altogether unfounded, and it is to be regretted that among the cases regarded as true the investigation failed altogether in so great a proportion as 46 per cent. compared with 44 per cent. in the previous year. The high percentage of failure, however, is accounted for mainly by the fact that in Class III out of 11,513 serious cases of house-trespass, house-breaking and breaking house-trespass 74·4 per cent. could not be traced, which is slightly higher than the percentage, 72, of the previous year. The percentage of failure throughout Class III is considerable, being 35·6 for robberies as compared with 36·7 in 1901, 29·7 for dakaitis as compared with 21·1 in 1901, and 43·4 for offences other than those mentioned above as compared with 36·1 in 1901. In other classes the percentage of failure is highest in cattle thefts (42·9 as compared with 39·2 in 1901), in ordinary thefts (39·3 as compared with 37·8 in the previous year) and in murders (15·2 as compared with 18·6). The above are all offences in which the investigation is peculiarly difficult, and in the case of other offences the Police were fairly successful. Of 17,776 true cases in Class VI (cases of vagrancy and bad character, and of offences under the Arms, Excise, and other special Acts) they failed in the investigation only of ·4 per cent.

3. From what has been said in the last two paragraphs it will be clear that very little true cognisable crime is brought to notice in the Punjab except through the Police, and that the Police Force of the Province is entitled to the credit of having secured the confidence of the people as an efficient and satisfactory agency for the reporting of offences. Therefore a true indication of the state of cognisable crime can be obtained from a consideration of the statistics relating to Police cases only. Such cases regarded as true in Classes I to V, worked out according to the system set forth in the Review for 1901, amounted in 1900, for the Province as now constituted, excluding Miánwáli, to about 31,060, while in 1901 they amounted to 26,154. The year now under review with 28,015 such cases stands midway between 1900 and 1901.

4. The year 1900 was a year of high prices and therefore the figures for crime were high. The figures for 1901 showed a decrease in crime generally, and particularly in murders, dakaitis, robberies and burglaries, and this decrease was accounted for by good agricultural conditions as well as by the effects of the special measures undertaken in 1900 for the repression of dakaiti. A number of circumstances in the year now under review were calculated to result in an increase of crime. The agricultural conditions of the preceding autumn and of the earlier part of the year were unfavourable, while during the first half of the year a large part of the Province was afflicted with severe and widespread plague. The unprotected state of places evacuated on account of the epidemic afforded opportunities for thefts and burglaries, while the high death-rate in some districts unsettled the minds of the people and gave rise to a recklessness which resulted in increased crime. Moreover the presence of plague increased the ordinary difficulties with which the Police have to contend in the investigation of offences. Agricultural prospects, however, improved in the latter part of the year, and plague, after its seasonal decline in the hot weather, did not again become severe before the end of the year. But in the latter part of the year a large contingent of police and village watchmen, whose places were taken by temporary substitutes, was withdrawn from their ordinary duties for about two months for duty at the Delhi Darbár, and some increase of crime might have been expected to follow this as well as the assemblage at Delhi of the multitude which was drawn thither by the Darbár. The employment, however, which was provided for great numbers of people in connexion with the Darbár tended to decrease crime in the eastern districts of the Punjab, and the crime committed during the Darbár itself to the end of the year under report (and in fact during the whole period of the Darbár) was inconsiderable, a state of affairs for which great credit is due to the Punjab Police and the local officers responsible for the Darbár arrangements. On a consideration of the whole of the circumstances of the year His Honour thinks it a matter for congratulation that the state of crime in 1902 was not worse than it was.

5. Plague has undoubtedly led to an increase in burglaries and offences against property, and the effect of plague on crime requires to be carefully watched. In certain cases Punitive Police Posts have already been sanctioned for the repression of a tendency to crime affecting a whole village or community, and the imposition of additional police is an appropriate measure which can promptly be adopted in such cases But the most regrettable crime due to plague and the most difficult to deal with is that which takes the form of burglaries and thefts in evacuated places. His Honour is aware of the extent to which the fear of losing property acts in discouraging evacuation, the measure which is the most successful in the suppression of plague, and he trusts that all Courts and Magistrates will feel that it is their duty to protect people who are sensible enough to evacuate by making very severe examples of persons proved to have taken advantage of plague in order to commit offences against property. In existing circumstances it is not possible to afford adequate police protection to all evacuated places, and the Lieutenant-Governor can only hope that the people in resorting to evacuation will, by appointing their own special chaukídárs, make greater use than they have done hitherto of the power of self-protection which they can exercise.

6. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to notice that murders have again decreased in number in 1902. The effect of increased severity in checking murders appears to be evidenced by the remark of the Hon'ble Judges of the Chief Court, in their Report on the Administration of Criminal Justice in 1902, that murders in Miánwáli have decreased from 27 to 16 in consequence "of the increase of the maximum sentence that can be imposed by jirga from 7 to 14 years' imprisonment." It may, however, be noted that the Inspector-General of Police attributes the improved state of affairs "to the placing on security under Section 107, Criminal Procedure Code, of a large number of persons known to be at feud."

7 The number of dakaitis shows no tendency to rise again to the high figures of 1900 and previous years, and was only 66 as compared with 68 in 1901. This satisfactory state of affairs is no doubt due to the fact that many habitual dakaits against whom special proceedings were taken in 1900 were executed or are still serving their sentences, and it exemplifies the manner in which crime is kept down by the adequate punishment of offenders. The Inspector-General of Police in his report gives instances indicating the responsibility for serious crime of members of Criminal Tribes, but it must be remembered that habitual criminals, not members of any Criminal Tribe, are the perpetrators of a very considerable proportion of the serious crime that is committed. In this connexion attention may be directed to the figures given by Mr. Rose in Chapter IX, paragraph 15, of his Census Report for 1901. On an analysis of the castes of convicted prisoners in Jail on the 1st of March 1901 Mr. Rose comes to the conclusion that "as far as detected crime goes, the more well-to-do classes are not the least criminal," and he shows that castes like the Jats, Rájpúts Chamárs and others not dealt with under the Criminal Tribes Act contribute more considerably to the Jail population than the proclaimed Criminal Tribes. But whether they belong to proclaimed tribes or not it is, especially in view of the large percentage of true cases in which the investigation fails, of the greatest importance to society and the criminal administration generally that criminals, especially habitual criminals, when convicted of serious crime, should be severely punished. The way in which the amount of crime varies with the severity of its punishment is instanced by the remark of the Inspector-General of Police that "the District Magistrate of Montgomery attributes" the increase in cases of assaults on bailiffs in his district "to the light sentences which it has been the custom to award for such offences," the result being, as stated by the Hon'ble Judges of the Chief Court in their Report above referred to, that "the District Magistrate found it necessary to impose exemplary sentences in all cases of this kind." His Honour trusts that the criminals referred to in paragraph 21 of the Inspector-General's Report as responsible for the increase of robberies that took place in 1902 were adequately dealt with, but he is afraid that the Courts and Magistrates generally do not properly appreciate the importance of inflicting adequate punishments, a matter with which the Lieutenant-Governor will deal further in his remarks on the Report for 1902 on the Administration of Criminal Justice.

8. His Honour notices that due attention is being paid to offences relating to coinage, which require careful watching. The number of false coins received at Railway Stations shows how important this matter now is.

9. It is a matter for satisfaction that few serious thefts of military arms occurred during 1902.

With reference to the ordinary administration of the Arms Act it may be observed that the question of improving the registration and identification of ordinary arms possessed under licenses in accordance with the provisions of the Act, and for the regulation of arms licensed for the protection of crops, is at present under the Lieutenant-Governor's consideration.

10 The percentage of convictions in Police cases according to column 24 of Statemant III A is worked out on the total only of such cases as ended in conviction, discharge or acquittal. By this method of calculation the police are found in Classes I to V to have secured convictions during 1902 in 74 per cent. of cases as compared with 75 in 1901; in Class VI the percentage was 88 as compared with 89 in the previous year. Convictions in murder and dakaiti cases stood at the fairly satisfactory figures of 60 and 53 per cent., and in Classes I, II and V the percentages were the same in 1901 and 1902. In Class IV, which comprises few cases, there was an improvement to 64 per cent. from 53 in the previous year. The fall in the percentage of convictions for all the first five classes taken together is accounted for by the fact that in Class III, comprising more cases than any other class, the percentage fell from 73 in 1901 to 69 in 1902. If, however, we calculate the percentage of convictions on the total of cases in which a decision on the facts was arrived at (Statement III A, column 21, minus columns 27 and 28), we find that in Class III the percentage fell less than is shown in column 24, viz., to 69·2 from 70·2, and that in Classes I to V taken together the percentage rose from 63 in 1901 to 68 in the year under report. The falling off in Class III is no doubt partly due to plague, and in so far as it may be due to the inadequacy, or want of ability, of the investigating or prosecuting staff, the Lieutenant-Governor remarks that the proposals of the Punjab Government for the improvement of the Provincial Police have been submitted to the Government of India. But His Honour presumes that no action will be taken on these proposals till the Government of India have dealt with the Report of the Indian Police Commission, which is understood to be now under consideration.

11. It appears that considerable use continues to be made of the security sections of the Criminal Procedure Code, regarding which the Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Inspector-General of Police that enquiries should be conducted, as far as possible, with expedition and in the villages where the bad characters live. His Honour proposes to comment further on the use of these sections in his Review of the Report on the Administration of Criminal Justice for 1902. The details given regarding surveillance show that due attention is being paid to the important duties for which the Police are responsible in keeping known offenders under proper observation.

12. The Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to notice the satisfactory report of the Inspector-General regarding the Phillour School and Bureau. He trusts that the improvements introduced into the school will bear good fruit, and he is glad to see that the Native States of the Punjab are availing themselves of the advantages afforded by the Bureau. It is a matter for satisfaction to His Honour that the Native States are co-operating generally with the Police of the Province.

13. His Honour notices that the numbers of men punished and dismissed were slightly greater than in 1901 and that the number of men rewarded was less. Details are given in the margin for the force, which Statement F shows to have comprised 3,026 officers under the rank of Assistant District Superintendent of Police and 14,957 men. There were, however, very few cases of serious offences committed by the Police, and the discipline of the force remains satisfactory. More recruits were obtained than in 1901.

Punishments	1,526	1,687
Dismissals	185	235
Rewards	1,273	1,c68
Recruits	1,805	2,014

14. The time spent on tour by District Superintendents of Police was on the whole most satisfactory, but His Honour remarks that the number of cases investigated by Gazetted Officers has fallen off from 1,220 and 813 in 1900 and 1901 to only 131 in 1902. It would, however, appear that the figures for the present year relate only to serious offences (murder, dakaitis, and thefts of arms) and do not indicate the total number of investigations conducted by Gazetted Officers.

15. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Inspector-General of Police that it is undesirable for Magistrates to make remarks in criminal cases censuring the action of Police Officers unless such remarks are strictly relevant to the case and the officers concerned have had an opportunity of explaining their action. If remarks to which exception can be taken come to the notice of the Inspector-General of Police, they should be referred for the orders of the Lieutenant-Governor, who will invite the attention of the Hon'ble Judges of the Chief Court to any case in which action can appropriately be taken.

16. With reference to the Inspector-General of Police's statement in paragraph 55 of his Report that the allotment for the repair of Police buildings is insufficient, His Honour desires that the matter should be separately reported, with such suggestions as the Inspector-General may wish to make.

17. Sir Charles Rivaz takes this opportunity of congratulating Mr. C. Brown on the honour conferred upon him in recognition of the valuable services that he rendered in connexion with the Delhi Darbár, and he also thanks him for the report now under review and for the thoroughness and interest with which he has during 1902 conducted the administration of the Police Department of the Punjab. The thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are also due to the officers mentioned by the Inspector-General in his Report.

ORDER.—Ordered, that a copy of the Review be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Police, Punjab, for information and guidance, that the Report and Review be circulated as usual and copies be forwarded to the Government of India, Home Department, and to the Registrar, Chief Court, for the information of the Hon'ble Judges.

REVIEW OF THE REPORT ON THE PUNJAB VETERINARY COLLEGE AND THE CIVIL VETERINARY DEPARTMENT FOR THE YEAR 1902-03.

Proceedings of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab in the Revenue and Agricultural (General) Department, No. 1751 S., dated 5th September 1903.

READ—

Letter No. 1940, dated 1st August 1903, from the Director of Land Records and Agriculture, Punjab, submitting the Annual Report on the Punjab Veterinary College and the Civil Veterinary Department for the year 1902-03.

The Punjab Veterinary College.

REMARKS.—The number of students on the rolls of the Veterinary College during the year was 128 as compared with 130 during the previous year, 56 new students being admitted as against 65 in the latter year. The results of the examinations in the 1st and 2nd year classes show a distinct falling-off on those of previous years, but on the other hand the results of the examination for the 3rd year class which was held for the first time were very satisfactory, 18 out of 24 candidates qualifying. The falling-off in the former case occurred mainly amongst the military students, who, with few exceptions, had received very little primary education, and the Military authorities have recently been addressed on the subject with a view to greater care being exercised in the selection of students and to alterations being made in their course of training. The remarks made in paragraph 5 of the Board of Examiner's Report (Appendix I) should be communicated to the Director of Land Records and Agriculture, United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, and to the Director-General of the Remount Department.

The Principal also attributes, no doubt justly, the low results in the 1st and 2nd year classes to the want of a sufficient teaching staff, and it is greatly to be regretted that the European Professor attached to the College had to be removed from his duties for nearly ten months. In this connection the Lieutenant-Governor can only repeat what was said in last year's report—that it is to be hoped, now that the Civil Veterinary Department is being recruited from home, that a sufficient number of officers will be available to replace casualties. The question of the appointment of a 3rd European Professor should be separately referred to Government for orders.

2. The competition for entrance to the College was much below the average, and this is said to be due to the severity of the examination and to the extension of the course to three years. Students are also said to be attracted to Veterinary Colleges in other Provinces where the course is only two years and a diploma can be more easily obtained, and it is observed that the Inspector-General, Civil Veterinary Department, has been addressed in the matter with a view to something being done to regulate the issue of diplomas and to place all teaching establishments on the same footing. The Principal is of opinion that the supply of Veterinary Assistants is now in excess of the demand, but this view is not shared by the Director of Land Records. The excellent reports received on the Veterinary Assistants who went to South Africa and have since returned are gratifying, and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that every effort will be made to get them employment.

3. In both the in-door and out-door work of the College there was a large increase in the number of equine and other cases treated and the shoeing-smiths class continues to be well reported on.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Director of Land Records that, having regard to all the difficulties which Veterinary-Major Pease has had to contend with, the results of the year's work are satisfactory.

The Civil Veterinary Department.

5. The organisation of the Department continued as before, but as a consequence of the recommendation of the Horse-breeding Commission the Subordinate Veterinary Service will now have to be reorganised. Proposals for the appointment of a grade of Veterinary Inspectors, the desirability of which is manifest from many remarks in the Report, will shortly be submitted for the sanction of the Government of India.

6. Veterinary-Lieutenant Walker has again submitted interesting remarks on the subject of cattle disease which are commended to the attention of all District Officers and Local Bodies. The Lieutenant-Governor observes with satisfaction the growing popularity of inoculation as a preventive of rinderpest and anthrax, and His Honour approves of the action of the Director of Land Records in issuing a reminder to Deputy Commissioners asking them to impress on lambardars the serious consequences of delay in reporting outbreaks of the disease where it is one for which serum is available, and the necessity for seeing that patwaris transmit prompt reports of outbreaks of disease.

7. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the remarks made by the Director in Section IV of the Report on the subject of the supply of bulls, and will await the reference which it is understood the Inspector-General, Civil Veterinary Department, will make on the subject, but if it is proposed to establish a bull-run on the Jhelum Colony an early reference should be made to the Financial Commissioner on the subject, so that the necessary land may be secured.

8. The touring scheme for Veterinary Assistants proposed by the Superintendent, Provincial Circle, is an excellent one. The work of the Subordinate Veterinary Staff appears to have been well supervised during the year, and proposals for its reorganisation should be submitted as soon as convenient.

9. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Director of Land Records that the thanks of Government are due to Veterinary-Captain Walker for the energy and tact which he has shown in the performance of his duties, and also to Veterinary-Major Pease and Mr. Oliver and Veterinary-Captain Trydell for the good work done by them during the year.

ORDER—Ordered that a copy of the Report and the above remarks be submitted to the Government of India, in the Revenue and Agricultural Department, and the Inspector-General, Civil Veterinary Department in India ; also that the remarks be published in the Punjab Government Gazette and communicated to the Director of Land Records and Agriculture, Punjab.

J. F. CONNOLLY,

Offg. Revenue and Finl. Secy. to Govt., Punjab.

GENERAL.

REVIEW OF THE REPORT ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE IN THE PUNJAB FOR THE YEAR 1902.

Proceedings of the Honb'le the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab in the Home (Judicial) Department, No. 1851 S., dated 9th September 1903.

READ—

The Report on the Administration of Criminal Justice in the Punjab for the year 1902.

REMARKS.—The Hon'ble Judges of the Chief Court in concluding their Report on the Administration of Criminal Justice for the year 1902 " express their satisfaction at the decrease in serious crime throughout the Province as a whole." In this connexion the Lieutenant-Governor thinks it necessary to refer to the Report on the Police Administration for 1902 which he has just reviewed. For reasons which have been fully considered in a separate discussion it is impossible to reconcile the figures of the Report of the Chief Court with those presented in the Report of the Inspector-General of Police. But His Honour thinks that the latter report affords the best indication of the variation in different kinds of crime in different years. In reviewing the Police Administration Report the Lieutenant-Governor has been unable to adopt so satisfactory a conclusion as that of the Hon'ble Judges regarding the general state of crime in 1902 which appears, on the whole, to have been worse than in 1901, though there was a decrease in particular classes of crime, notably in murders and dakaitis. The only remark that His Honour desires to add to what he has already said on this subject in his Review of the Police Report, is that he regrets that so many as 76 persons were convicted in Ambala of offences connected with the administration of plague measures. The policy of coercion has, as far as possible, been abandoned in dealing with plague, and prosecutions for breach of plague rules should be undertaken only in exceptional cases.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Hon'ble Judges that a free use should be made of the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code, which provide for the dismissal of complaints in limine and for the award of compensation to persons against whom false and frivolous complaints are made. But, as has often been pointed out, the Police should not as a rule be employed in making preliminary enquiries with the object of determining whether a complaint which seems baseless should be tried or not. It is satisfactory to note that the Hon'ble Judges report a substantial decrease in the number of cases referred to the Police for preliminary enquiry. From Statement II attached to their Report, it appears that the number of complaints dismissed under Section 203, Criminal Procedure Code, after reference to the Police, has fallen from 7,383 in 1900 to 5,858 in 1901 and 5,440 in 1902. But the figures appear capable of further reduction. From the Police Administration Report for 1902 His Honour finds that 3,070 Magistrate's cases were referred to the Police in that year as compared with 3,970 in 1901, but of the number so referred in cases under the Indian Penal Code, only 4·3 per cent. were brought to trial and only 1 per cent. ended in conviction, the latter percentage being slightly less than in 1901. If a District Magistrate is able to find time, as in Gujrát, to look into every case in which a Subordinate Magistrate proposes a Police enquiry, a valuable check would doubtless be imposed upon needless references.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor thinks that the suggestion to allow the award of compensation under Section 250, Criminal Procedure Code, in false and vexatious complaints under Section 107, Criminal Procedure Code, is worth consideration. The Hon'ble Judges, however, point out that the law as it stands, if administered with due discretion, is sufficient for the protection of persons against whom false and vexatious complaints are made.

4. The Inspector-General of Police in paragraph 17 of his report for 1902 remarks in explanation of an increase observed in the number of cases of grievous hurt, that "the increase is alleged to be due, in some districts, to the fact that this offence is now compoundable and that Subordinate Magistrates do not exercise sufficient discretion when dealing with applications to compound such cases." The Lieutenant-Governor will be glad if the Hon'ble Judges will give this matter their attention; and he would suggest that, if necessary, Magistrates should be advised that leave to compound should not be given in really serious cases.

5. His Honour will be glad to hear the result of the enquiry being made by the Hon'ble Judges into the abuse of the provisions of Section 164, Criminal Procedure Code.

6. His Honour shares the opinion of the Hon'ble Judges that Section 562, Criminal Procedure Code, might be used more fully. The number of persons dealt with under the section was in 1902 even less than in 1901. The Lieutenant-Governor, as indicated in his Review of the Jail Administration Report for 1902, is strongly of opinion that, in the case of many persons guilty of minor offences, imprisonment is a grave mistake and prejudicial to the interests of society, as calculated to demoralise persons of no pronounced criminal tendencies. He is glad to learn that the Hon'ble Judges, in their circular letter No. 4—2775 G., dated the 20th of July 1903, have called the attention of Courts and Magistrates to his remarks in the Jail Review, but the matter is one which, he thinks, requires further comment. Section 562, Criminal Procedure Code, it is true, applies only to first offenders convicted under the Indian Penal Code of theft, theft in a building, dishonest misappropriation, cheating, or offences punishable with not more than two years' rigorous imprisonment, and the exact intention of the use of the word "youth" in the section is open to question. But it may be asserted with some confidence that the section ought to have been used much more freely than it was in 1902 in dealing with the 2,831 prisoners sent to jail for not more than 15 days, while in all probability it might properly have been used also for a great number of the 8,931 sentenced to imprisonment (in many cases simple imprisonment) for terms of from 15 days to six months. In dealing with first offenders it is clearly the duty of Courts and Magistrates to act with due discrimination in the exercise of all the powers given them by the Legislature with the express object that every offender who can be sufficiently and appropriately punished without imprisonment should be saved from subjection to the evil influences of association with the bad characters in our jails. It is, however, disappointing to find that so many as 76 of the 190 persons dealt with under Section 562 in 1902 were subsequently proceeded against under Section 563, and it would seem that Courts and Magistrates are in need of instruction and guidance as to the class of offenders for whom action under the first named section is appropriate. His Honour would suggest that steps might with advantage be taken by the Hon'ble Judges to explain to Judicial Officers the object of Section 562 and to point out to Magistrates without powers under the section that they should send cases for disposal under it to Magistrates who have powers thereunder.

7. The Lieutenant-Governor noted in his Review of the Report for 1901 on the Administration of Criminal Justice that he would be glad to receive any suggestions the Hon'ble Judges may wish to make for the amendment of the Whipping Act. No suggestions have yet been received, but the desirability of simplifying the Act is adverted to in the Report now under review. The punishment of whipping is, as the Judges remark, one that should be freely used with the object referred to in the preceding paragraph of this Review, and His Honour is confident that the Hon'ble Judges and District Magistrates, who regret that the Whipping Act is not more frequently employed, will not relax in their endeavours to instruct Subordinate Magistrates to make more use of it. But he thinks it necessary to point out that the Act should be used with proper discretion. He has lately seen the records of the convictions of a number of habitual offenders against property, and he is afraid that Subordinate Magistrates, who are constantly being advised to make use of whipping as a punishment, not uncommonly exaggerate its importance and award whipping alone as a punishment when they ought to have recourse to much more severe measures. His Honour has noticed a case in which an offender, aged 25, was sentenced to five stripes under Sections $\frac{379}{75}$, Indian Penal Code, on his sixth conviction—a sentence which is not only grossly inadequate, but is, under Section 75, illegal. Whipping alone is clearly an inadequate punishment for hardened offenders, nor can it, in the case of such, be regarded as a proper substitute for long terms of imprisonment. The Lieutenant-Governor has no doubt that the Hon'ble Judges will concur in this opinion, and he trusts that they will issue such instructions as may be necessary to discourage the use of whipping as a sole punishment except in the case of first offenders and others for whom it may be specially appropriate.

8. (i) Of even greater importance than the subject dealt with in the two preceding paragraphs is the punishment of habitual offenders. The interests of society require that criminals of this class should be dealt with in such a way as not alone to repress their evil tendencies before they become absolutely irreclaimable, but to deter others who may be standing on the borderland from embarking on a criminal career. And it is no less important that individuals of confirmed criminal propensities should be banished as provided for in the Indian Penal Code. To this end it is essential that the law should be administered consistently, systematically and adequately, so as to exclude, as far as possible, the element of uncertainty, which not only robs it of its deterrence, but acts as an encouragement to crime. To judge from the records of some 79 habitual offenders, each with several convictions against him and now undergoing imprisonment in the Province, which the Lieutenant-Governor has recently had before him, these primary and most essential principles have not been generally kept in view by the Courts in administering the law. The records show both that habitual criminals repeatedly convicted under Chapters XII and XVII, Indian Penal Code, are commonly awarded very inadequate sentences, and also that there has been an entire absence of consistency and system in dealing with them. A few of the cases on which this opinion has been formed will serve to illustrate the shortcomings observed in this respect, though it should be stated that the Judicial records have not been examined as to whether the offences in the cases were of a trifling or serious character. A criminal on his eighth conviction under Sections 379, 380 and 454, and after passing 12 years in jail, is now undergoing a sentence of seven years under Sections $\frac{379}{75}$: his age on his last warrant is recorded as 45 years. Another, first convicted in 1896, has been convicted seven times under Sections 379 and 380 and is doing a term of four years; on his first, third, fifth and sixth convictions he was whipped only; in addition to his seven sentences under the Indian Penal Code he has twice been imprisoned under the Criminal Tribes Act. Another, first convicted in 1884, on his eighth conviction under Section 379 is now in jail for four years; on his first two convictions he was sentenced to whipping only; the third sentence was for two years' rigorous imprisonment, but this was followed by sentences of one month, three months, six months, two years, and three years, respectively; his age as recorded on his last conviction was 26 years. Another has since 1870 been convicted nine times under Section 454 and once under Section 380: his first seven sentences aggregated 27 years' imprisonment, the seventh being one of four years, imposed on the 29th of October 1895; yet, on being convicted for the eighth time—again under Section 454—on the 11th of October 1899, he was awarded only three months' rigorous imprisonment; his next two sentences were also under Section 454, being one for two years in 1900 and his present sentence of seven years. A member of a criminal tribe, sentenced in August 1896 to 10 stripes under Section 379, and in November of the same year to 30 stripes under Section 380, was awarded two years and 30 stripes under Section 411 in 1897, but on re-conviction under Section 379 in June and again in July of 1898 he received sentences of only three months' and six months' imprisonment respectively; his present sentence is for six months under Section 379: in addition to these punishments under the Indian Penal Code he has passed over two years in jail and has received 30 stripes on conviction under Act XXVII of 1871. Instances could easily be multiplied; but the last to be here cited is that of a man who received 15 days' rigorous imprisonment in 1886 for his first theft; this was followed in 1899 by one year's imprisonment under Section 457; but on his next conviction under the same section in 1900 his sentence was for six months only; on the expiry of that he was convicted towards the end of 1900 under Section 411 and received 20 stripes, and two months later was again imprisoned under Section 457, being awarded six months' imprisonment; he is now in jail for two years under Sections $\frac{411}{75}$, Indian Penal Code; he was 30 years of age at the time of his last conviction. The principle of progressive punishment should be applied in dealing with re-convicted persons; and when imprisonment has proved an ineffectual deterrent, transportation should be resorted to. Clearly an habitual criminal, in the existing state of affairs, has good reason to hope that, however often he breaks the law, and with his past record before the Court which tries him, he has in the event of conviction a chance of being sentenced to a punishment so slight that he can cheerfully accept it as one of the incidents to be encountered in the pursuit of his calling. Thus the criminal finds the administration of the law altogether in his favour; in the first place, the chances are very much against his being detected in committing any particular offence; if detected he may escape conviction; and if convicted he can always hope to draw a prize in the lottery of criminal justice, entailing only a brief removal from his sphere of action, during which he is surrounded by an atmosphere essentially congenial, in which his predatory instincts are fostered while he is afforded an opportunity of extending his field of operations by establishing relations with others like himself. The probability that criminals of the worst character will not be kept long under restraint increases the ordinary difficulties in obtaining their conviction for crimes committed by them, for complainants and witnesses are terrorised by the dread that on regaining their liberty they will exact vengeance—which occasionally takes the form of murder—for proceedings taken against them.

8. (ii) Confronted with these considerations, His Honour is forced to the conclusion that the administration of the criminal law as employed against habitual criminals urgently needs improvement. And to this end he thinks that the District Magistrate should see every case in which the accused is liable to enhanced punishment, and, in the event of his being unable to try it himself, send it to a specially selected Magistrate for trial and in doing so direct the Magistrate's attention to Section 348, Criminal Procedure Code, and Section 75 of the Indian Penal Code. The former section contemplates that a person liable to enhanced punishment under the latter section shall ordinarily be committed to the Sessions Court or dealt with by an officer invested with powers under Section 30, Criminal Procedure Code. And all Magistrates dealing with such persons should be directed to bear in mind that incorrigible offenders (and persons with more than two previous convictions under Chapters XII and XVII of the Indian Penal Code ordinarily come into this category) ought as a rule and in accordance with the intention of Section 75, Indian Penal Code, to be dealt with by a Sessions Judge. This section contemplates the necessity of dealing with habitual offenders by transporting them for life ; it must, indeed, be hopeless in a vast number of cases to curb their predatory instincts in any other way, while the claims of society require the application of an effective remedy. His Honour also thinks it necessary that in future more extended operation should be given to Section 565, Criminal Procedure Code, and he is prepared to consider any suggestions the Hon'ble Judges may think fit to make with this object. In their letter dated the 14th of August, which has only just been laid before His Honour, the Hon'ble Judges suggest that certain officers should be invested with powers under Section 565, and the necessary action will be taken immediately.

8. (iii) It is a remarkable fact that the Punjab alone accounts for about a quarter of the total number of proceedings taken in the whole of India under the security sections of the Criminal Procedure Code, these sections being clearly of great importance in this Province. His Honour, however, will not discuss here the suggestion of the Deputy Commissioner of Montgomery that trials under the sections should be summary, or of the Deputy Commissioner of Lahore that the appeal in such cases should lie to the Commissioner, or of the Deputy Commissioner of Hoshiárpur that persons from whom security has been taken should be required to present themselves periodically before a Magistrate. The adequate punishment by the Courts of notorious and habitual criminals when convicted of offences would, His Honour considers, obviate the difficulties which are now experienced in regard to the security sections of the Criminal Procedure Code by both Executive and Judicial officers, and would enable the former to work the sections satisfactorily as they stand and in the spirit in which they were enacted, without feeling any necessity to suggest amendments. It is important in this connexion to bear in mind that in the Punjab the Police are generally unable to find any clue to the perpetrators of about 45 per cent. of the true cases under the Indian Penal Code which occur, and that in the balance of cases which they send up for trial they fail to secure convictions in from 25 to 30 per cent. These large percentages are due chiefly to the difficulty of satisfactorily working out cases of serious offences against property, and it may safely be asserted that the undetected cases are for the most part the work of professional criminals ; so that each professional criminal as he appears before a Court represents many more offences than the one with which he actually stands charged. Even in England it is supposed that each criminal of the corresponding class commits many offences for which he escapes punishment altogether. Officers responsible for the executive administration no doubt recognise that the security sections of the Code are not intended to fill the jails with persons against whom convictions for offences punishable under the Indian Penal Code cannot be obtained, but to ensure good conduct on the part of suspicious characters while out of jail. But they have to control, as best they can, notorious and habitual criminals who escape adequate punishment for offences proved against them, and seeing such criminals thus allowed to carry on their regular pursuit of crime they no doubt feel themselves compelled to take proceedings under Section 110, which are "essentially of an administrative character." The impatience of Executive officers, at the failure of proceedings taken under the security sections, and the tendency to demand very high security, which is objected to by the Courts, are explained by the above considerations.

8. (iv) The question whether sentences passed during 1902 were generally adequate is not discussed in the Report under review. But the Hon'ble Judges in noticing that the Lahore District "is the only one in the Province where there has been a really substantial increase in serious forms of crime" remark that "yet . . the District Magistrate states that the sentences inflicted have been sufficiently severe." In this connexion, however, His Honour desires to invite attention to paragraph 30 of the Report on the Police Administration for 1902, which shows that 189 persons liable to enhanced punishment under Section 75, Indian Penal Code, were convicted in Lahore during the year, that of these 46 had 3 or more previous convictions and 42 were convicted for their third offence, and yet in 23 cases only was the sentence one of over two years' rigorous imprisonment, and in no case was a longer term than four years awarded. Ninety-three of the habitual criminals in question were punished with imprisonment for less than one year, or with whipping only, or with fine only. The Lieutenant-Governor in these circumstances cannot but agree with the Commissioner, who remarks that "the punishments seem in many instances insufficient"; and he thinks that there is no justification for the Sessions Judge's conclusion that "officials appear to be powerless to deal by the ordinary methods with this turbulent set of people." On the contrary, it would perhaps be nearer the truth to say that Lahore is a district which is suffering from the encouragement offered to criminals by their inadequate punishment. The provisions of the ordinary law, without special measures, seem sufficient to enable the Courts to cope with this state of affairs. The imposition of punitive posts, which are suggested by the Hon'ble Judges, is a special measure to which recourse should be had only when the powers of the ordinary law have been ineffectively employed, and though under the conditions with which the authorities are now confronted punitive posts may be unavoidable, it is probable that there would have been no occasion to suggest their imposition if the Courts had properly punished crime in the past. In a case in which His Honour has recently sanctioned a Punitive Police Post at Khai, in the Ferozepore District, it was quite obvious that crime had been inadequately punished for years past, and in all probability it was owing to this cause that the necessity for the post arose.

8. (v) The statements attached to the Report under review show that 102 persons were transported for life and 24 for a term, while only 46 were awarded sentences of above seven years' imprisonment and 1,011 of from two to seven years. These figures include persons sentenced for murder, culpable homicide, dakaiti, and other serious offences, and His Honour has ascertained that only four persons were transported for life during 1901 and 1902 under Section 75, Indian Penal Code. It has indeed been brought to his notice that persons have on various occasions been sentenced under Section 75 to transportation for a term less than life, but such sentences are apparently illegal (see No. 38, Punjab Record, 1882, Criminal). Magistrates possibly have acted on the assumption that the provisions of Section 75 are subject to those of Section 59 of the Indian Penal Code, and have under the latter provisions commuted to a sentence of transportation for a term sentences of imprisonment passed under the former provisions. The Hon'ble Judges are best qualified to decide whether this assumption is correct in law, and His Honour would only invite their attention to the matter. But whether or not this assumption is correct it cannot be in accordance with the provisions of Section 59 that a sentence of imprisonment inflicted under Section 75, but commuted to transportation, should exceed a period of ten years' transportation, and in some cases His Honour finds that sentences of transportation inflicted under Section 75 have been for periods exceeding 10 years and less than life. He thinks it necessary to bring this matter also to the notice of the Hon'ble Judges.

8. (vi) Further ground for believing that habitual offenders against property are not sufficiently or consistently punished is afforded by a consideration of figures given in the Police Administration Reports showing the results of the trials of habitual offenders whose antecedents have been traced through the agency of the Phillour Bureau. The attention of the Hon'ble Judges was drawn to the figures last year. The figures for the past four years are as follows :—

Year.	Number liable to enhanced punishment under Section 75, Indian Penal Code, identified and convicted.	Number awarded sentences
		Heavier than any previous sentence.	Heavier than last sentence, but less than some previous sentence	Only equal to or less than any previous sentence.
1899	205	118	9	78
1900	200	136	3	61
1901	260	153	11	96
1902	332	216	12	104

The above statement shows that a person liable to enhanced punishment under Section 75 has a chance on the average of about 1 in 3 of escaping with a punishment only equal to or lighter than the lightest sentence already suffered by him. How light a punishment this may prove will be seen from the following statement, compiled from the records of the 79 habitual criminals now in jail, already referred to, and whose cases were in no way selected, except as regards the frequency of their previous convictions ; this statement shows that the lightest sentences which the criminals in question have suffered for offences against property were as follows :—

Imprisonment for 1 year or more ...	... in	7 cases.
" " 6 months to 1 year	... "	7 "
" " 3 to 6 months ...	... "	7 "
" " 1 to 3 months ...	... "	12 "
" " 6 hours to 21 days	... "	9 "
Whipping, being 30 stripes in 4 cases, less than 10 stripes in 3 cases, and commonly 10 or 12 stripes	... "	28 "
Fine only, ranging from Re. 1 in three cases to Rs. 10 in 1 case	... "	9 "

8. (vii) His Honour has directed the collection of further material for the full consideration of any remedies that may be required for the present state of affairs. But, meantime, he notes that District Magistrates already have the power to do much for the correction of improper sentences by references to the Chief Court under Section 438, Criminal Procedure Code. With advertence to the remarks on this section made by the District

Magistrate of Muzaffargarh, the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the Hon'ble Judges will point out to District Magistrates that it is their duty to make such references whenever necessary and that they need not be chary of doing so.

9. With reference to the remarks of the District Magistrate of Karnál and the Sessions Judge of Delhi on the subject, His Honour is prepared to consider any suggestions that may be duly submitted to him for the amendment of the Public Gaming Act.

10. The thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are due to the Honorary Magistrates whose assistance in the administration of criminal justice is brought to notice by the Hon'ble Judges.

11. The Lieutenant-Governor thanks the Hon'ble Judges for their Report, and he is confident that they will give full consideration to the remarks on the very important matters dealt with in this Review and trusts that they will see their way to issuing further instructions in continuation of their Circular of the 20th of July 1903. While fully recognising the importance of maintaining the independence and freedom of our Courts and Magistrates, His Honour cannot fail to be impressed with the feeling that many of them exercise the discretion which is permitted by the law without regard to the principles on which punishment should be awarded and that they are in need of teaching and guidance. Misplaced leniency which allows criminals notorious throughout their country-side to pursue with but slight interruptions their life of crime cannot but shake the people's confidence in our Courts and in our power of protecting them, while it is only natural that a feeling of resentment should be aroused in those who contrast this leniency with the undue severity that ruins the life of some casual offender. Our administration of criminal justice is thus brought into contempt, and the prestige of Government is affected, while the public safety might be jeopardized, as on any great emergency, requiring the partial withdrawal of the Police from their ordinary duties, the large numbers of dangerous criminals at large in the country would be afforded an opportunity of committing their depredations unchecked. The elements of political danger exists in the present state of affairs, and it is therefore a matter of vital importance that all who are connected with the administration of criminal justice should give the closest attention to the supervision of the Subordinate Courts and Magistrates, and that they should constantly bear in mind and apply in practice the proper principles on which punishments should be awarded.

ORDER.—Ordered, that a copy of these Remarks be forwarded to the Registrar, Chief Court, Punjab, for the information of the Hon'ble Judges, and that the Report and Review be circulated as usual and copies be forwarded to the Government of India, Home Department.

Ordered also that the Review be published in the Punjab Government Gazette.

REVIEW OF THE REPORT ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF CIVIL JUSTICE IN THE PUNJAB DURING THE YEAR 1902.

Proceedings of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab in the Home (Judicial) Department, No. 1066, dated Lahore, 15th September 1903.

READ—

The Report on the Administration of Civil Justice in the Punjab during the year 1902.

REMARKS.—The Civil Justice Reports for the years 1896 to 1900 show that during that period there was a steady decrease in the number of original civil suits instituted in the Punjab. The increase of 4,960 which occurred in 1901 as compared with 1900 was the more remarkable, in that, as remarked in last year's review, the figures for the North-West Frontier Province districts were included in the returns for 1900, but excluded in those for 1901. The report now under review shows that 12,645 fewer suits were instituted in 1902 than in 1901. The high figure attained in 1901 was due mainly to activity in litigation in respect of land, which was stimulated in the beginning of 1901 by the imminency of the introduction of the Land Alienation Act. A falling off in the number of suits for money and moveable property accounts for 10,756 out of the decrease of 12,645 which occurred in 1902, but the influence of the Land Alienation Act is clearly traceable, as the Hon'ble Judges observe, in the reductions of 1,991 and 1,010 respectively in pre-emption and mortgage suits. The Lieutenant-Governor will be glad to be informed of the result of the inquiries made by the Judges as to the correctness of the number of notices to enforce conditional sale issued in 1902 stated in the report.

2. The large decrease in suits for money and moveable property clearly reflects the bad seasons of 1902. The average value of these suits is little over Rs. 100, as noted in paragraph 8 of the report, and it may be added that 63 per cent. of the total number were less than Rs. 50 each in value. The nature of the harvest has naturally a marked influence on the eagerness of creditors to press such claims.

3. With a fall in the number of suits instituted it was to be expected that there should be some decrease as compared with 1901 in the number of suits disposed of, but it is disappointing to find that the balance pending at the end of the year, 29,755, was little less than at the end of 1901, when it was 30,657, and was actually greater than at the end of either 1899 or 1900, the figures for which years, 25,101 and 27,788 respectively, include the cases of the North-West Frontier Province districts. These figures certainly suggest that the subordinate Courts are now less energetic in coping with their work than they were a few years ago. The remarks of the Hon'ble Judges on the deficiencies of Tahsídárs as Civil Judges will be communicated to the Financial Commissioner with a view to an admonition being conveyed to those officials.

4. The unworthy practice of certain subordinate Courts, of dismissing long pending cases and then re-admitting them, so as to reduce the apparent duration of the suits, noticed in paragraph 12 of the report, should undoubtedly be repressed, and the total duration of such cases ought to be included in the figures on which averages are struck. As this rule was not followed in 1902 the average duration of contested suits given in paragraph 11 of the report underestimates the time taken by the Courts to dispose of them. It was observed in the review of the report for 1900 that the average duration had increased gradually from 35 days in 1894 to 45 in that year. The figure rose to 47 in 1901, and was in 1902 the same as in 1900. This high average, like the large pending file, seems to point to relaxed industry on the part of the subordinate Courts. In paragraph 25 of the report the Judges express a hope, which the Lieutenant-Governor shares, that the measures which have been taken for the employment of certain officers exclusively on the trial of civil cases in districts where the extent of civil litigation is such as to afford sufficient work for the whole time of a member of the district staff, will result in greater expedition in the disposal of judicial work. It has recently been decided that Gujránwála, which is named as one of those districts in the report, does not fulfil the above conditions The average duration in Divisional Courts of appeals from original decrees was 103 days as compared with 93 in 1899 and 1901 and 99 in 1900.

5. The thanks of Government are due to the Honorary Civil Judges who as usual relieved the ordinary Courts of a large quantity of work. The number of cases disposed of by Sardár Arjan Singh of Chahal falls not far short of the tale of work of a stipendiary Munsif.

6. The Lieutenant-Governor is gratified to observe that the Hon'ble Judges have issued instructions for the improvement of the working of the subordinate Courts in respect of the execution of decrees, a subject which was commented on in last year's review. It is doubtless the case that, as the Judges remark, the decrees of Courts are complied with to a greater extent than the returns show, the best proof of this being that in ordinary years the number of suits instituted shows no tendency to decrease, but it is none the less desirable that the Courts should fully realize the importance of this branch of their work. Vigorous execution in cases where the decree-holder seeks the aid of the Court may save resort to the Court in many other cases.

7. It appears from Statement (l) appended to the report that, owing doubtless to the amendment of the law of appeal, the total number of appeals from decrees laid to the Chief Court has fallen gradually from 1,412 in 1898 to 719 in 1902. Notwithstanding this there was no reduction in 1902 in the pending file, and the Hon'ble Judges explain in Part IV of the report that this was due partly to the large proportion of cases which had by the rules to be heard by a Bench instead of by a single Judge and partly to the number of first appeals disposed of, those occupying much more time than further appeals. During the last four years the numbers of such appeals disposed of have been—

	First Appeals.	Further Appeals.
1899	59	1,231
1900	21	1,279
1901	38	976
1902	101	653

The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to learn that the Judges have arranged under Section 8 (1) of the Punjab Courts Act to extend the jurisdiction of Judges sitting alone, and trusts that a reduction will now be effected in the pending file of the Chief Court.

8. The difficulty of applying and interpreting the law of pre-emption in towns is commented on in paragraph 6 of the report. The Pre-emption Bill now before the Punjab Legislative Council contains special provisions for urban areas, and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that when enacted these will be of material assistance to the Courts.

9. Matrimonial suits were more numerous in 1902 than in 1901. In previous years there had been a steady decrease in cases of this character, and in spite of the difficulty of arriving at correct conclusions in such cases it is satisfactory to find that the people are ready to bring them to our Courts for decision.

10. Although cases of insolvency would appear from paragraph 22 of the report to have been numerous in Delhi, there were not many in the Province as a whole, and the following figures show that there has been a decrease in recent years in proceedings of this nature:—

Year.	Persons declared insolvent.	Estates placed in charge of receivers.
1899	106	54
1900	121	63
1901	76	49
1902	65	36

11. The proposals referred to in paragraph 21 of the report for improving the pay of the process-serving establishment are under the consideration of Government.

12. His Honour is pleased to learn that the Hon'ble Judges have arranged to provide a preliminary training for Munsif candidates not in Government service.

ORDER.—Ordered that the Review be forwarded to the Registrar, Chief Court, Punjab, for the information of the Hon'ble Judges, and published in the Punjab Government Gazette.

Ordered also that the usual number of copies be forwarded to the Government of India in the Home Department.

REVIEW OF THE REPORT OF THE PUNJAB PLAGUE COMMITTEE, 1903.

Proceedings of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab in the Home (Medical and Sanitary) Department, No. 2070 S.-P., dated 21st September 1903.

Report of the Punjab Plague Committee, 1903.

RESOLUTION.

IN anticipation of the issue of more detailed orders and instructions and in view of the near approach of the plague season of 1903-04, His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased, in supersession of such previous orders and instructions only as relate expressly to the subjects dealt with below, to direct as follows:—

I.—The Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals will in future be the Chief Administrative Officer for the control of plague measures, and the Chief Plague Medical Officer will act as his Personal Assistant for plague matters, performing such duties as the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals may delegate to him.

II.—All official covers containing correspondence relating to plague for the information or orders of the Inspector-General or Government should be addressed to the "Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals (Plague Branch)" and all official letters should be written to the Inspector-General. All orders will ordinarily issue in the name, and by the authority, of the Inspector-General, provided that without reference to Government he shall not issue any order sanctioning the adoption of any measure or of any method of administering any measure not approved of by Government or of any change in such measure or the method of administering it.

III.—The plague work of each district will be under the immediate control of the Civil Surgeon (who in this connexion will be styled the District Plague Medical Officer), provided that in respect of all plague measures he will be bound to keep the District Magistrate fully informed and to act in consultation with him and to be guided by his advice and orders. The District Magistrate will act in plague matters under the control of the Commissioner.

IV.—The Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals will, under the orders of Government, arrange for such medical and other assistance as may be required by Civil Surgeons! for the proper execution and supervision of plague measures.

V.—As soon as plague occurs in any tahsíl or important place, whether the case or cases be indigenous or imported, the District Magistrate shall at once report the fact by telegram to the Commissioner of the Division, as well as to the Secretary to the Government of India in the Home Department, and to the Judicial and General Secretary to the Government of the Punjab. The Civil Surgeon shall make a like report by telegram to the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals.

The head-quarters of a district or tahsíl, a Cantonment, and places, such as Kálka and important Railway junctions, in which it is desirable that the progress of plague should be kept under special observation, shall be considered important places.

VI.—Arrangements should be made for the submission to Civil Surgeons of the earliest possible information as to the outbreak of plague in towns and villages, and in the initial stages of an outbreak special attention should be paid to the correct and immediate reporting of all cases as well as of deaths. After plague has taken root in a place and the infection has spread, cases and deaths should be reported, for villages by chaukídárs with their weekly mortality returns, and for Municipal towns under the ordinary procedure governing the reporting of deaths. With every report of a death from plague it shall also be reported whether the deceased had been inoculated or not, and, if inoculated, how long before his death.

VII.—All returns of cases and deaths from plague should be specially forwarded to the Civil Surgeon, and the Civil Surgeon should every week compile from them district returns of plague cases and deaths and submit them to the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals without delay, for the information of Government. Statistical returns should continue to be published, as at present, in the Punjab Gazette for the period ending on the 30th September 1903, but for the period commencing on the 1st October 1903 no statistical plague information will be published in the Gazette except in the Sanitary Commissioner's weekly mortality statement. A weekly statement of infected areas will continue to be published in the Gazette, and this should be prepared by the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals and forwarded to Government for publication.

VIII.—The necessity and advantages of evacuation should be impressed by all Government officials upon the people of infected places, and every endeavour should be made to induce recourse to evacuation, especially in the early stages of an outbreak.

IX.—Chemical disinfection by official agency should be encouraged in towns and in villages, especially in connexion with the first few cases of an outbreak, and the people should also be encouraged to buy disinfecting fluid and apply it for themselves, and the greatest possible attention should be given to desiccation, particularly in villages. The Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals should arrange immediately to ascertain and report to Government upon the most efficient form of desiccator which can at present be devised and which should be approved by Government for recommendation to the people and use by official agency.

X.—Government has done all in its power to bring the advantages of inoculation prominently to the notice of the people, and all that can be done now is to afford the greatest possible facilities for the inoculation of such persons as may desire of themselves to be inoculated. The operation must invariably be performed by a Medical Officer, but under existing circumstances the Lieutenant-Governor thinks that all Medical Officers with qualifications of or above those of a Licentiate in Medicine and Surgery may be entrusted with the duty of inoculating. Therefore all such officers in the Medical Department of the Punjab Government should, under the orders of the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, be supplied with instructions regarding the process and should be provided with a stock of the necessary fluid, appliances and registers. When this has been done the people will have facilities for becoming inoculated at the head-quarters of every district and at every dispensary where an Assistant Surgeon holds charge. Facilities should also be afforded at other dispensaries where there is such demand for inoculation as to render it advisable to depute a Medical Officer there for inoculation purposes. Inoculating Officers should ordinarily be stationary and not itinerant; but a certain number of Medical Officers will be available to go on tour specially for inoculation work, and where the District Plague Medical Officer is statisfied that the number of persons in any area or their circumstances justify the deputation of a special operator, other than an operator at the dispensary to which the area in question is attached, he may send out a special Medical Officer to inoculate in a special village or set of villages, and, if necessary, the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals shall arrange to assist the District Plague Medical Officer with the services of one or more special officers for the purpose. Special inoculating officers should be freely deputed to places where their services are required, and the Lieutenant-Governor desires the Inspector-General to arrange to obtain the services of qualified Medical Officers to permit of inoculation being extensively performed wherever there is any demand for it.

Inoculating Officers shall take such steps as are possible to gain information of any ill-effects supervening on inoculation and shall watch all cases in which ill-effects have occurred and report them promptly to their superior officers for the information and orders of Government.

The only record which need now be maintained is a simple inoculation register in the following form:—

Form of Register to be maintained by each Medical Officer by whom inoculations are performed.

Place at which inoculation was performed.	Serial No. of inoculation.	Date of inoculation.	Person Inoculated.
			Name.	Father's or husband's name.	Caste.	Village.

A weekly abstract of inoculations should be submitted in the following form to the District Plague Medical Officer by each officer who has performed inoculations :—

Form of weekly abstract of inoculations performed to be submitted to the District Plague Medical Officer by each Medical Officer who has performed inoculations.

For week ending on the	Village.	Number of persons belonging to each village inoculated in the week.	REMARKS.

From the weekly abstracts District Plague Medical Officers should compile and submit to the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals in a form to be prescribed by him district weekly returns of inoculation for the information of Government.

Inoculated persons should, for the present, if they desire certificates of inoculation, be given such certificates in accordance with the existing practice.

ORDER.—Ordered, that a copy of the foregoing Resolution be forwarded to all Commissioners and Deputy Commissioners in the Punjab, the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, the Sanitary Commissioner, the Chief Plague Medical Officer and all Civil Surgeons in the Punjab for information and guidance, and to Accountant-General, Punjab, for information.

Ordered also, that the Resolution be published in the Punjab Gazette and be communicated to the Government of India, Home Department.

PART II.

GENERAL.

REVIEW OF THE ACCOUNTS AND ADMINISTRATION OF DISTRICT BOARDS IN THE PUNJAB FOR THE YEAR 1902-03.

Proceedings of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab in the Boards and Committees (Boards) Department, No. 203, dated 8th December 1903.

READ—

The District Reports on the Administration and Accounts of the District Boards in the Punjab for the year 1902-03.

REMARKS—

PART I.—CONSTITUTION OF DISTRICT BOARDS.

1. The number of District and Local Boards remained the same as in the previous year. Local Boards now exist in 7 districts only.

2. Elections.—Elections were held in 12 out of the 17 districts in which the elective system is in force, but only 38 out of 264 vacant seats were contested. In Gurgaon, where 31 vacancies occurred, no contest took place. The elective system, it is said, is not appreciated by the people and candidates are secured with great difficulty. In Karnal some interest was displayed, 21 candidates contesting for 3 vacancies in the Panipat Tahsil. But as a rule the elections were characterized by the usual apathy.

3. Meeting of District and Local Boards.—With few exceptions the prescribed number of meetings were held by District Boards, and the attendance was on the whole satisfactory. Local Boards in many cases did not meet as often as they are required by rule to do, but this was generally due to there being no business for them to transact.

4. Sub-Committees.—Finance Sub-Committees now exist in all districts, and their work is generally well reported on. In Hoshiarpur there are Sub-Committees for Education and Sanitation which are said to work in a satisfactory manner. In Kangra the "Works" Sub-Committee is reported to have proved itself a useful body and to have rendered appreciable help. In Mianwali the duties of the District Board have been divided amongst its members by the appointment of 7 Sub-Committees.

5. Proceedings set aside.—The Commissioner of Delhi overruled a resolution of the District Board of Rohtak whereby the purchase of an annuity of Rs. 9-8-0 was proposed for a retired Muharrir, the expenditure involved being more than the Municipal Funds could afford. A gratuity of Rs. 180 was subsequently sanctioned for the Muharrir. The Commissioner of Lahore directed the District Board of Gujranwala to postpone action for a year on a resolution sanctioning the entertainment of a Gymnastic Master at Rs. 15 per mensem and the grant of a small increase in the pay of 4 District Board Muharrirs working at the head-quarters of the tahsils. A resolution of the District Board of Gujrat appointing a Draftsman was overruled by the Commissioner on the ground that the man selected for the post was son of a District Board member. The Commissioner wrote to the effect that either the member should resign his membership, or else his son should seek employment elsewhere. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Commissioner that members should not be allowed to appoint relatives to posts under them.

In no other case were proceedings set aside.

6. Rules.—Rules regulating the constitution of the Mianwali District Board were published in Punjab Government Notification No 96 of the 25th June 1902. The provisions of the rules for the guidance of District Boards published with the Notification of the Punjab Government in the Boards and Committees Department, No. 528½, dated the 26th February 1884, were extended to the Mianwali Board by Notification No. 201, dated the 23rd August 1902, and by Notification No. 202 of the same date the Board was declared to be of the 2nd Class. Rules were also framed by the Board under Section 26 of the District Boards Act, 1883, and unanimously passed in a special meeting held for the purpose. They were eventually published in Punjab Government Notification No. 2 of the 5th January 1903, and adopted by the Board as rules of business.

7. No boundaries were revised during the year.

8. Working of the District and Local Boards.—The general working of District Boards has given satisfaction, and considerable interest seems to be evinced by the members in such matters as scarcity, plague, the breeding of good cattle and preservation of trees. In the Jullundur District the District Board has initiated a system of village sanitation in the larger villages, under which sweepers are entertained to clean the village streets, and are paid in the same way as the village watchmen. This innovation is creditable to those concerned. The work of many Boards has been much hampered by demands made on their resources in consequence of plague expenditure, and it has been necessary to give Government assistance in some cases. The financial condition of the Hissar and Rohtak District Boards has been seriously affected by a series of bad harvests, necessitating extensive remissions and suspensions. On the other hand in certain cases, e. g., Ferozepore, District Boards seem to have large balances at their credit over and above their liabilities and after allowing for the prescribed minimum balance, and in such cases Commissioners and Deputy Commissioners should consider how the money available for expenditure can best be utilised. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Commissioner of Lahore that it is desirable that the Deputy Commissioner and the Tahsildar should always be members of the District Board.

PART II.—ACCOUNTS.

9. Audit.—As stated in paragraph 10 of the Review for the year 1901-02, the system of central audit introduced from April 1900 was found to be inadequate, and proposals for the substitution of a peripatetic audit on the lines of the system in force in the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh have recently been submitted to the Government of India.

10. Balances.—The aggregate balances rose from Rs. 8,23,000 on the 1st April 1902 to Rs. 9,80,000 on the 31st March 1903. Balances over Rs. 20,000 were at credit of the District Boards of Rohtak (Rs. 24,414), Karnal (Rs. 26,341), Delhi (Rs. 34,388), Rawalpindi (Rs. 36,340), Gurgaon (Rs. 37,131), Gujranwala (Rs. 37,617), Amritsar (Rs. 37,948), Ludhiana (Rs. 46,051), Gurdaspur (Rs. 48,896), Kangra (Rs. 50,636), Gujrat (Rs. 53,778), Lahore (Rs. 55,643), Ferozepore (Rs. 1,23,542), and Jhang (Rs. 2,73,956). The District Funds of Ambala and Jhelum were overdrawn by Rs. 16,887 and Rs. 11,745 respectively. In the former case the overdraft was transferred to Provincial revenues under the arrangement adverted to in paragraph 11 of the Review for 1901-02, it being due entirely to expenditure on plague, and in the latter case the deficit was adjusted by a Provincial contribution as required by Article 1373 of the Civil Account Code subject to liability to adjustment when its finances admit of it. The balances of the Hissar, Hoshiarpur, Jullundur and Sialkot District Funds fell below the prescribed minimum, owing in the case of Hissar and Sialkot to heavy suspensions and remissions of land revenue, and in the case of the other two funds to expenditure on plague.

11. Income and Expenditure.—Eliminating debt head transactions, the income and expenditure of the year amounted to Rs. 29,82,000 and Rs. 28,29,000 as against Rs 31,85,000 and Rs. 29,81,000 (excluding such plague charges as were transferred to Provincial) in the previous year. The decrease in the receipts occurred mainly under the heads "VI Provincial Rates" (Rs. 2,50,000) and "XXX Irrigation—Minor Works" (Rs 30,000), and was in the former case due to heavy remissions and in the latter to scanty rainfall. The decrease was partly counterbalanced by increases of Rs. 15,000, Rs. 14,000, Rs. 22,000 and Rs. 28,000 under the heads "XX Medical" "XXI Scientific and other Minor Departments," "XXXII Civil Works" and "Contributions" respectively. The expenditure was less by Rs. 61,000 under the head "24 Medical" owing to less outlay on plague and by Rs. 1,97,000 under the head "Contributions," which is accounted for by the fact (1) that the 20 per cent. contribution payable to Provincial revenues in respect of the portion of the Local Rate assigned to District Funds was smaller in consequence of the remissions above mentioned, (2) that the Hissar District Board was not able to meet its liabilities under this head owing to famine in earlier years having crippled its funds, and (3) that the Provincial contribution of Rs. 55,000 towards Primary School buildings was paid by reduction of the contributions payable by District Boards. This decrease in expenditure was partially neutralized by the increases under the heads "22 Education" (Rs. 25,000), "43 Irrigation—Minor Works" (Rs. 15,000) and "45 Civil Works" (Rs. 70,000).

12. The principal variations under specific heads are more fully explained in the following paragraphs :—

VI Provincial Rates.—The collections in 1902-03 decreased by Rs. 2,50,000, as compared with the previous year, but the figures of that year were above the average, as the excellent harvests enabled the outstandings of previous years to be recovered along with the year's demands. The Jhang District Board again maintained its record for the largest revenue under this head, realizing Rs. 2,00,000 against Rs. 1,68,000 in the preceding year. This is, of course, due to the steady expansion of cultivation in the Chenab Canal Colony and the consequent increase of land revenue and cesses levied on it.

18 General Administration.—The District Boards' Office Establishments were maintained at a cost of Rs. 1,15,335, or Rs. 6,160 more than in the previous year. The Mianwali District Board is responsible for nearly one-third of this increase, owing to the fact that the Board having come into existence towards the latter part of the year 1901-02, only a small amount (Rs. 469) was expended in that year. The increase in the other districts is due more or less to privilege leave arrangements, enhancement of salaries and the grant of travelling allowance to Secretaries, as in Sialkot, for inspection work. In several districts office establishments are entertained jointly for the District Boards and Municipalities, and, although a proportion of the cost is recovered from the latter it is credited as a receipt, leaving the gross cost of the establishment as a charge in the District Fund Accounts The sum of Rs. 27,949 credited under "XXV Miscellaneous" is almost wholly composed of such recoveries. The amount expended on contingencies was practically the same as last year.

XIX and 22 Education.—The income exceeded that of the previous year by Rs. 8,600, the increase appearing chiefly under the heads "Fees in Middle Schools" (Rs. 3,000), "Contributions" (Rs. 4,500) and "Miscellaneous" (Rs. 1,000). Some of the schools which had to be closed in 1901-02 on account of plague were re-opened in 1902-03 and the school fees recovered themselves as in Sialkot. The opening of new schools in some districts also added to the fee income. On the other hand, plague necessitated the closure of schools in the year under review in Ambala, Hoshiarpur, Ludhiana and Gurdaspur and the income in these districts naturally decreased. The increase in Mianwali represents the whole year's income as compared with that for a part of 1901-02, and also enhancement of the scale of fees. The Ludhiana District Board's accounts for the year under review include a credit of Rs. 4,000, which had been contributed by private persons in previous years, but hitherto deposited by the Board in private banks with a view to realizing interest. The sale-proceeds of the old school building at Ahmadpur in the Jhang District increased the miscellaneous receipts. About 91 per cent. of the total receipts in 1901-02 and 88 per cent. in 1902-03 were derived from fees levied in the Middle and Primary Schools, which covered 15 and 16 per cent. of the total expenditure on Education in the two years.

The total outlay on Education was Rs. 6,59,000, or Rs. 25,000 more than in the previous year. Of this increase, Rs. 6,000 were devoted to the Middle Schools, Rs. 12,000 to the Primary Schools, Rs. 2,000 to the Zamindari Schools, and Rs. 2,000 to Scholarships. The Middle, Primary and Zamindari Schools absorbed 22, 48 and 4 per cent. of the outlay. Nearly 18 per cent. of the total expenditure was met from the receipts recorded under the head "Education" and 82 per cent. from the District Fund income from other sources. The net total expenditure on Education, after deducting the receipts on the same account absorbed 30 per cent. of the Local Rate collections and 23·47 per cent. of the total income (less Debt Head receipts and Contributions) as compared with 25 per cent., the minimum that may be prescribed by Government.

Grants aggregating Rs. 55,000 were placed by Government at the disposal of District Boards for Primary School buildings through the adjusting head "Contributions," the expenditure on the buildings having been accounted for under the head "45 Civil Works" in the Incorporated Local Section of the Public Works Accounts.

XX and 24 Medical.—The receipts recorded under this head shew an increase of Rs. 14,600. Of this Rs. 6,000 are found in "Contributions" and represent additional grants from Municipal Funds in aid of Vaccination Establishments and "Hospitals and Dispensaries." Rupees 2,000 were contributed from the Provincial revenues for the equipment of Dispensaries in the Mianwali District, and Rs. 989 towards the pay of the Military Assistant Surgeon attached to the Palampur Dispensary in the Kangra District. The increase of about Rs. 12,000 in "Other Receipts" was almost entirely due to the sale of old materials formerly purchased in connection with plague. The sale-proceeds of such materials in the Gurdaspur District were wrongly classified, in 1901-02, under the head "Hospital and Dispensary Receipts." The Kangra District Board sold out Dispensary securities to the nominal value of Rs. 2,000 in order to provide funds for the construction of a new dispensary building at Hamirpur. The total receipts equalled 10 per cent. of the total expenditure on Medical Relief.

Excluding plague charges, the outlay on Medical Relief was Rs. 3,53,000 against Rs. 3,41,000 in the previous year. Of these totals Hospitals and Dispensaries absorbed Rs. 2,70,000 and Rs. 2,63,000, Vaccination Rs. 59,000 and Rs. 56,000 and Sanitation Rs. 5,000 and Rs. 4,000, payment to Medical Schools Rs. 2,000 in each year and Leper Asylums Rs. 15,000 and Rs. 16,000. The appointment of a Military Assistant Surgeon at Palampur, of a Lady Doctor at Hoshiarpur and the establishment of new dispensaries at Manimajra in Ambala and at Serai Amanat Khan in Amritsar account for a part of the increase under "Hospitals and Dispensaries." The net expenditure was equal to about 14 per cent. of the Local Rate and 10 per cent. of the total District Fund income (excluding Debt Head transactions and Contributions).

The plague charges amounted to Rs. 92,000 only against Rs. 1,65,000 in the previous year, and the decrease was due in part to the paucity of funds owing to the demands in previous years on the accrued balances. The districts chiefly affected by the scourge were Ambala, Hoshiarpur, Jullundur, Ludhiana, Ferozepore, Lahore, Gurdaspur, Sialkot, Gujranwala, Gujrat and Shahpur. The expenditure on plague in Ambala was heavy, causing an overdrawal of Rs. 16,887 on the 31st March 1903, referred to in paragraph 10 above.

XXI and 26 Scientific and Other Minor Departments.—The income was better by Rs. 14,000 than in the preceding year. Increases occurred under the heads "Botanical and other Public Gardens" (Rs. 7,000), "Horse Fairs" (Rs. 3,000), "Cattle Fairs" (Rs. 3,000), and "Miscellaneous" (Rs. 1,300). Under the first head Rs. 2,000 were contributed from Provincial revenues to enable the Lahore District Board to carry out the work of renovation in the gardens attached to the tomb of the Emperor Jahangir at Shahdara; and the rest of the improvement is due to better sales of garden produce. The Veterinary receipts include Rs. 3,324 the unspent balance of Rs. 4,000 drawn by the Jhang District Board for the purchase of stallions in 1901-02. To avoid the exaggeration of accounts of two years, such transactions should in the first instance appear under the debt head "Advances," the charges being eventually transferred to the debit of the appropriate service head when the disposal of the advances are accounted for. Under "Horse Fairs" the principal increase ocurred in the Rawalpindi District and is accounted for by the fact that a part of the income pertaining to the year 1901-02 was realized in 1902-03 and also by the attendance at the Horse Fair in the latter year being better. The receipts under the head "Cattle Fairs" shew abnormal variations. There was a drop of Rs. 7,000 in Hissar, as the Hissar and Sirsa Spring Fairs were abandoned owing to plague. The Rohtak District Board realized Rs. 13,400 more, as three cattle fairs were held in 1902-03 as compared with one held in 1901-02. The Gurgaon and Gujranwala Boards lost Rs. 1,500 and Rs. 1,300, respectively, owing to the closure of the Rewari and Eminabad Fairs on account of plague.

The expenditure aggregated Rs. 1,29,000 against Rs. 1,36,000 in the previous year. The Veterinary charges fell from Rs. 25,000 to Rs. 11,000 in consequence of the provincialization of the Subordinate Veterinary Establishment, the District Board's share of the cost being adjusted through the head "Contributions." The Bull and Stallion charges shew a decrease of Rs. 7,000 attributed generally to the smaller number of bulls and stallions purchased during the year. On the other hand, Rs. 6,800 was expended in excess on Horse Fairs, Rs. 1,600 on Cattle Fairs, and Rs. 6,000 on Public Gardens. The Jhang District Board is responsible for the excess under Horse Fairs to the extent of Rs 4,000 due to the adjustment of the charges for fodder, &c., purchased in the preceding year. The higher expenditure under Public Gardens was incurred mainly in Delhi, where nearly Rs. 1,000 were spent in planting gardens at the tombs of Safdar Jang and Humayun; in Lahore, where Rs. 2,000 were mostly expended on certain improvements in the Shahdara Gardens; in Jhang, the excess of Rs. 2,000 was due to the purchase of bullocks and to additional establishment; and in Mianwali, the excess of Rs. 1,000 represents the expenditure for a whole year as compared with that for a part in the year 1901-02.

XXIII and 30 Stationery and Printing.—The income represents, in the case of Gurgaon and Gurdaspur, the earnings of the District Board Presses. The annual reports should clearly shew whether these Presses are self-supporting or not; presumably they are, but a "Profit and Loss" account might be appended with advantage. The expenditure adjusted under this head amounted to Rs. 18,000, or Rs. 7,000 less than in the previous year; and the decrease is attributed, in some cases, to short outlay on vital statistics and other forms and to the inclusion of arrears in the charges for 1901-02.

XXV and 42 Miscellaneous.—Excluding the sum of Rs. 9,000 which was received by the Mianwali District Board from the District Boards of Bannu and Dera Ismail Khan, as its share of the District Fund balances remaining unexpended on the 9th of November 1901, the receipts were practically the same as in the previous year. The Municipal contributions amounting to Rs. 1,506 towards the pay of the Vaccination Staff and Civil Surgeon's Office Establishment have been wrongly classified by the District Board of Hissar under this head instead of under the head "XX Medical."

The expenditure was higher by Rs. 8,000 than that of the previous year. The increase occurred wholly under the head "Miscellaneous and Unforeseen Charges," being due generally to charges incurred in connection with the celebration of the Coronation of His Majesty the Emperor of India. The increase in Hissar was due also to the payment of Rs. 1,135 for the land acquired for the Tohana Mandi.

XXX and 43 Minor Works and Irrigation.—There was a falling-off of Rs. 30,000 in the income as compared with that of the previous year, the districts affected being Gurgaon (Rs. 5,000), Karnal (Rs. 3,000), Ferozepore (Rs. 12,000), and Montgomery (Rs. 13,000). The decrease is generally due to short supplies of water in the bunds and local canals consequent on the scanty rainfall. In Ferozepore there are no local canals, and the sum of Rs. 5,672 credited in 1902-03 represents recovery towards the loan of Rs. 45,659 made to the inundation canals in 1896-97, of which Rs. 10,544 still remain to be repaid. With reference to the Montgomery local canals the Commissioner remarks that "it is most desirable that the canals should be taken over by Government; the District Board cannot bear excessive variations such as this." The proposed transfer to the Irrigation Department has since been sanctioned with effect from the 1st of October 1903 on the condition that all charges from the 1st April 1903 are borne by that Department. The increase in Gurdaspur represents contributions by the villagers for the construction of water-courses in the Kiran Canal for the irrigation of their lands.

The charges aggregated Rs. 42,000 against Rs. 27,000 in the preceding year. Rupees 14,000 of the increase occur in the accounts of the Karnal District Board, being due to expenditure on the widening of the Sarsuti Canal, in regard to which the Commissioner remarks that the scheme is likely to yield a good return for the capital outlay.

XXXII and 45 Civil Works.—The increase in the income from Rs. 3,14,000 to Rs. 3,35,000 occurred under the heads "Sale of Buildings" (Rs. 4,000) and "Sale-proceeds of Trees, Grass, &c." (Rs. 17,000). Under the former head are credited Rs. 1,002, the price of the mortuary at Gurgaon taken over by the Provincial Public Works Department; Rs. 4,000 on account of the sale of a serai at Chunian (Lahore); Rs. 2,354, sale-proceeds of the old Dispensary building at Luddan (Mooltan); and Rs. 3,320, the sale-proceeds of the old School building at Hafizabad (Gujranwala); and the improvement under the latter head was due in most cases to better arrangements made for the sale of loppings and dead trees on road sides and in the compounds of buildings. The sale of Danewala Plantation increased the income in Jullundur. The expenditure on arboriculture amounted to Rs. 90,000 as against Rs. 1,11,000 realized on the same account under the head "XXI Scientific and other Minor Departments," which gives a return of 123 per cent. Sums of Rs. 5 000 and upwards were realized in Hoshiarpur (Rs. 9,400), Jullundur (Rs. 11,300), Ferozepore (Rs. 5,000), Gurdaspur (Rs. 7,600), Sialkot (Rs. 23,400), Gujranwala (Rs. 5,000), Gujrat (Rs. 14,200), and Muzaffargarh (Rs 5,300).

The total outlay on Civil Works was Rs. 8,00,000 as against Rs. 7,30,000 in the previous year, and was spread over the heads "Public Works, including the cost of the Engineering Establishments" (Rs. 6,73,000) and "Miscellaneous" (Rs. 1,27,000). Of the outlay on works Rs. 6,35,000 was audited by the Accountant-General and the remainder (Rs. 38,000) by the Examiner of Public Works Accounts. Of the latter amount, Rs 26,000 was spent through the agency of Public Works Department Officers and Rs. 12,000 by the Engineering Establishments of the Boards. Again, of the total outlay "Buildings" absorbed Rs. 1,76,000 (Original Works Rs. 88,000 and Repairs Rs. 88,000), "Communications" Rs. 3,42,000 (Original Works Rs. 50,000 and Repairs Rs. 2,92,000), and "Works of Improvement" Rs. 70,000, "Establishment and Contingencies," Rs. 83,000 and "Tools and Plant" Rs. 2,000. The important works executed during the year were—

Under the head "Miscellaneous" is adjusted the expenditure on "Staging Bungalows and Serais" (Rs. 23,000), "Ferries" (Rs. 11,000), "Refunds" (Rs. 2,000), and "Miscellaneous (almost wholly Arboriculture)" (Rs. 91,000).

Contributions.—The contributions from Provincial to Local include the special contribution of Rs. 11,745 made to the Jhelum District Fund adverted to in the paragraph on "Balances." The contributions from Local to Provincial show a falling-off of Rs. 1,97,000, due to the causes adverted to under "Income and Expenditure." The total amount of contributions which were payable by all the District Boards aggregated Rs. 2,68,800 on the 31st March 1903 against Rs. 3,09,770 on 31st March 1902.

13. Debt Heads.—The instalment paid by the Karnal District Board in liquidation of the two loans made by Government for the construction of the Sarsuti Canal is shown under the head "Payments of Loans." The credits and debits on account of Deposits and Advances were Rs. 24,000 and Rs. 18,000 as compared with Rs. 32,000 and Rs. 43,000 in the previous years. Under the head "Investment Accounts" is shown the investment of Rs. 5,000 in Government securities by the Ludhiana District Board, which includes the public contribution of Rs. 4,000 referred to in the remarks under Education. The District Fund cheques remaining uncashed at the end of the year amounted to Rs. 1,72,000 against Rs. 1,61,000 in the preceding year, and the increase was probably due to larger outlay on Public Works.

14. General Remarks.—Several causes contributed towards the finances of District Boards being adversely affected during the year. Under the special orders of the Government of India, land revenue amounting to 39 lakhs of rupees previously under suspension in districts affected by famine was remitted, and this entailed the remission of the Local Rate assessable thereon. Heavy suspensions of land revenue were also necessary in certain districts, notably Hissar and Rohtak, and the District Boards concerned suffered proportionately. Taking the Province as a whole the income from Local Rate was only 69 per cent. of the District Boards' income as compared with 73 per cent. in the previous year. The outbreak of plague also adversely affected District Funds partly through receipts being diminished owing to the abandonment of horse fairs, the closure of schools and other similar causes, and partly through the increased expenditure necessitated in combating the disease, with the result that ordinary works and establishments suffered severely.

Punjab Government Notification No. 1935 L.-P., dated 16th November 1903.

Plague expenditure has now been divided into (a) Provincial and (b) Local as explained in paragraph XXXIX of the Notification marginally noted, separate estimates being prepared under each head. Provincial plague expenditure will be met from Provincial Funds, and, in the case of Local, it has been decided that District Boards will in future be allowed to make provision in their budgets for reasonable expenditure under the heads of Medical, Educational, Public Works, Establishments, &c., and it will then be determined whether each District Board can bear the whole of its estimated local plague expenditure or only a part of it. The amount, if any, by which such charges exceed the part of them which the District Board can bear will be borne by Government. In consideration of this concession and in order to secure proper checks upon such expenditure, all local plague expenditure will be disbursed and audited in the same way as if it were Provincial. The amount to be borne by District Boards will be subject to readjustment, if necessary, after the close of the year, upon a review of the accounts as finally made up.

ORDER.—Ordered that copies of the foregoing remarks be forwarded to all Commissioners of Divisions and Deputy Commissioners of Districts in the Punjab, the Accountant-General, Punjab, and the Secretary to Government, Punjab, Public Works Department, Buildings and Roads Branch, and be submitted to the Government of India in the Home Department.

Also that the remarks and a translation of them be published in the Punjab Government Gazette, English and Urdu versions, respectively, and that copies of the Urdu translation be supplied to Deputy Commissioners for the information of District and Local Boards.

PART II.

GENERAL.

REVIEW OF THE REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION, PUNJAB, FOR THE YEAR 1902-03.

Proceedings of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab in the Home (General) Department, No. 1291, dated 9th December 1903.

READ—

The Report of the Director of Public Instruction, Punjab, for the year 1902-03, forwarded with his letter No. 3350, dated 29th September 1903.

REMARKS.—During the year under review the number of Public Educational institutions in the Province was 3,230, with a total number of scholars of 193,529 compared with 3,003 institutions and 182,303 scholars during the previous year. The increase in the number of institutions and scholars was due to the inclusion for the first time of the statistics of the institutions in Native States (238 schools with 14,610 pupils), and if these statistics be deducted, the figures show a slight decrease both in the number of institutions in British territory and in the number of pupils attending them. The number of Private Schools was 4,825 with 76,010 pupils against 4,709 schools and 74,130 pupils last year, including schools in Native States.

In Public and Private institutions taken together there was an increase of 74 institutions and 1,383 pupils in Native States; and in British territory, while the number of institutions rose by 36, that of the pupils attending them fell by 2,244. There was also an increase of 85 girls under instruction in Native States and of 2,369 in British territory. In the case of Secondary Schools in British territory there was a decrease in both the number of institutions and the number of pupils, which deserves special notice, the number of such schools being less by 53 and the number of pupils being less by over 5,500 than last year. The decrease is entirely in Anglo-Vernacular Schools, and the chief cause was the introduction during the year of revised rules for the recognition of schools for the Middle School Examination, which require "that no school should be placed on the list of recognised schools until the Department is satisfied that the organization and staff of the school are such as are likely to ensure efficient instruction." As a result inefficient unaided students were weeded out, and it is satisfactory to note that the general character of instruction in Secondary Schools has thereby much improved.

2. Altogether there were 17 colleges, including 3 in Native States, against 16, exclusive of Native States, in the year under comparison. The Municipal Board College at Amritsar, which was opened in 1888, was closed during the year. It was considered desirable that as the Khálsa College, Amritsar, had been raised to the status of a major college, and as another minor college had been started in connection with the Mission High School at Amritsar, the Municipal Board College should be closed on the retirement of Mr. C. M. C. Carne, the Principal, and the funds saved thereby be devoted to the maintenance of the Clerical and Commercial School.

3. Compared with last year there was an increase of Rs. 3,27,636 in the total expenditure on education in British territory, which amounted to Rs. 35,81,463. To this expenditure Public Funds contributed Rs. 20,43,214 as against Rs. 17,91,790 in 1901-02; Fees Rs. 9,46,649 against Rs 9,35,221 in the previous year; and Other Sources Rs. 5,91,600 against Rs. 5,26,816 in 1901-02. The increase was largely in 'Indirect Expenditure,' as, owing to a special grant of 4 lakhs allowed by the Government of India, the Local Government was in a position to provide suitable house accommodation for many important institutions in need of it and to equip them with better furniture and appliances. Imperial Revenues contributed 3·47 per cent., Provincial Revenues 29·03 per cent, District and Municipal Funds 24·55 per cent., Fees 26·43 per cent, and Other Sources 16·52 per cent., of the total outlay on education. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to observe that the income from Fees continues to expand. The expenditure in Native States amounted to Rs. 1,82,000 of which State revenues contributed 90 per cent.

4. The management of schools by District Boards may be said to have been fair on the whole, though, as usual, complaints as to the state of school houses and school furniture are common. Expenditure from District Funds is still 2 lakhs below the "enforcible maximum," but the resources of most District Boards, as remarked last year, have been seriously crippled of late years by famine and plague expenditure. The expenditure of the District Boards of Miánwáli and Gujrát reached the full amount demandable, and the Boards of the Gurgaon, Ferozepore, Dera Ghází Khan, Muzaffargarh and Montgomery Districts are reported to have been fairly liberal in their contributions.

5. The Municipal Committees had under their management 307 schools against 300 in 1901-02. There was an increase of expenditure on education in all Municipalities; but the management of the schools in a number of cases left much to be desired. In the Delhi Circle 14 Committees are mentioned as having more or less neglected the wants of their schools; and one of them—the Sonepat Committee—is reported to have encouraged the pupils of the school to revolt against their teachers. The Lahore Municipal Committee is said to have been slack in the payment of grants, and the attention of the Committee should be invited to the matter. In the Jullundur Circle the management is reported to have been on the whole satisfactory, but more accommodation and appliances are required. The total amount spent on education by the Municipal Committees was Rs. 2,13,930 less than the enforcible maximum.

6. The notable features of the educational work of the year so far as schools are concerned are the non-recognition of over 50 inefficient Anglo-Vernacular Schools; the improvement of Training Institutions; the better housing of a number of Primary Schools; the increase in the number of Primary Schools and schools for special education and in that of the pupils attending them; the encouragement of practical education by the introduction of Agriculture, Drawing, Advanced Science and Clerical and Commercial Courses in certain Secondary Departments; the facilities afforded to Aided Elementary and Indigenous Schools to earn additional grants for industrial subjects; the greater attention now paid in Primary Schools to Map Drawing, Land Records, Mental Arithmetic, and the elements of Agriculture and Hygiene; the increased attention paid to the education of girls; and the improvement effected in the methods of instruction. The year has therefore been one of distinct progress, creditable to all officers of the Educational Department.

7. The appointment of Assistant District Inspectors, a measure carried into effect shortly after the close of the year, is calculated to conduce to a more thorough supervision by the Department of Primary Education as well as to a considerable development thereof. The foundation of a sixth Circle of Inspection, the appointment of an additional Inspectress of Schools and several Assistant Inspectors, the strengthening of the staffs of the Training Institutions—measures now completed or in progress—will largely tend to improve generally the quality of the instruction given in the schools of this Province.

8. The number of pupils reading in the Arts Colleges fell from 1,244 to 1,182, and there was a fall in the number of candidates for the various University Examinations, as also in the pass percentages. On the Arts side the number of candidates was 885 against 984 in 1901-02, and the number of passes 389 against 505. In Law 110 out of 202 candidates were successful against 165 out of 260 in the previous year. Eighty-three out of 122 candidates passed the Medical Examinations as compared with 49 out of 96 last year. The diminishing attraction of the legal profession was noted in the Review of last year's report. The greater recognition of the Medical profession as offering a career in life is a welcome feature of the year. In the First Examination in Civil Engineering 24 out of 37 passed against 27 out of 43 in 1901-02.

In the Lahore Government College the numbers fell from 194 to 180; but decreased numbers are the natural result of the stimulus given by Government to private effort. The pass percentages in the various examinations were slightly lower than in 1901-02, although some of the students secured high places in the pass lists. The boarding-house was full and the games and sports received considerable attention. The total number of students on the rolls of the St. Stephen's College at Delhi exhibits a decided decrease, and the Athletic record of the college is reported to have been below the average. The death of the Principal, the Reverend J. W. T. Wright, was a great loss to the institution. The Forman Christian College, Lahore, which is now numerically the largest college in the Province, had on the rolls 323 against 336 in 1901-02. The results in the various examinations were good, and some of the highest positions on the pass lists were secured. The boarding-houses, which are under the personal supervision of the Principal and two Professors, were full.

The Daya Nand Anglo-Vedic College, which had on the rolls 307 against 347 in 1901-02, had a closing balance of Rs. 4,40,708 compared with Rs. 3,96,410 in 1901-02. The financial aid accorded to this college by its supporters is remarkable. The boarding-house, which is also under the personal supervision of the Principal, had 205 resident students. In the Islámia College, Lahore, the number of students on the rolls was 58 against 70 in 1901-02. The number of candidates for the various University Examinations was 34 against 29 in 1901-02, and the number of passes 19 against 16. The number of students on the rolls of the Khálsa College, Amritsar, rose from 34 to 68 during the year. The result of the Intermediate Examination was, however, unsatisfactory. The boarding-house had 29 resident students—all Sikhs. The staff is still inadequately paid and changes are frequent, but the Lieutenant-Governor has noticed with pleasure that, thanks largely to the energy of the Secretary of the Managing Committee, Sardar Sundar Singh, the financial and general condition of the institution is now improving, and the future is more hopeful.

9. There was a fall of 2 in the total number of students in the Oriental College. The average annual cost of educating a student in this college continues high, being Rs. 240 in the College and Rs. 75 in the School Department.

10. There was an increase of 35 in the number on the rolls of the Medical College, and the fact that a large number of men were refused admission for want of accommodation affords ample justification of the enhancement of the standard of attainments for admission. Arrangements for the erection of a boarding-house to accommodate 160 students are in progress. There was a slight decline (from 159 to 154) in the number of students attending the Law College.

11. Shakespearian Societies, Debating Clubs, Graduates' Associations, and Old Boys' Reunions in connection with the various Arts Colleges have proved very useful. Among matters of importance relating to collegiate education may be mentioned the Inter-college Rules approved by the Punjab University and sanctioned by the Local Government for adoption in all recognised colleges, and a system of inter-collegiate lectures in English inaugurated in connection with the Government and Forman Christian Colleges at Lahore.

12. The results of the Entrance and Middle School Examinations showed a better percentage than last year. In the Clerical and Commercial Examination 19 out of 44 candidates were successful against 12 out of 33 in 1901-02, and of these 10 passed in Shorthand. Private enterprise in education in this Province concerns itself almost exclusively with Anglo-Vernacular Schools, education in the Vernacular being left to Government and to the Local Bodies. The character of the instruction imparted in Secondary Schools has improved as already remarked, and the number of trained and certificated teachers has increased. The Inspector of the Jullundur Circle remarks that "the new rules of recognition for Unaided Schools have had the effect of improving the percentages of certificated teachers in these schools from 6·2 to 14," while the Inspector of the Lahore Circle observes that "the general character of instruction is improving along with the calibre of teachers. Greater attention is now paid to the suggestions of the Inspecting Officers even in Unaided Schools, as their hands have been strengthened by the adoption of the recognition rules and methodical and practical teaching are taking the place of the old cram-work. The supply of certificated teachers is still inadequate.

13. There has been a rise in the number of Primary Schools and the pupils attending them. The number of agriculturists in these schools rose from 48,622 to 51,031 and the expenditure from Rs. 4,56,179 to Rs. 4,64,769; and there was an increase of Rs. 1,240 in the income from fees, which amounted to Rs. 68,705 and covered 14·8 per cent. of the total expenditure. Eleven thousand six hundred and twenty-seven candidates appeared for the Upper Primary Examination against 11,704 in the previous year. There was an increase of 8 in the number of schools for low-caste children. The work of the Primary Teachers was generally satisfactory throughout the Province, and the quality and method of teaching are improving with the increase in the number of trained and certificated teachers. The year was one of progress generally.

14. The Central Training College and the 5 Normal Schools continue to do good work. Arrangements are now in progress which, when complete, will greatly add to the efficiency and equipment of the Training Institutions. The curriculum has already been extended and enlarged so as to include a Clerical and Commercial section comprising Shorthand, Commercial Geography, Book-keeping, Précis and Type-writing. The commencement in the Central Model School of Kindergarten and Drawing on an organised plan and the appointment of 7 Drawing Masters in the Central Training College and the Normal Schools are satisfactory features of the year's work. Instruction in Practical Agriculture and Mensuration is now given in all Normal Schools. The extensions to the Normal School boarding-houses at Lahore and Mooltan, large extensions to the Central Training College and its boarding-house, and new and more suitable buildings for the Normal Schools at Delhi and Jullundur are referred to in the report.

15. There were 313 students in the Medical School, Lahore, against 291 last year, as many as 133 being free students. Sixty out of 92 candidates succeeded in obtaining the Hospital Assistant Diploma. The number of pupils on the rolls of the Veterinary College at Lahore was 119 against 83 last year. During the year 34 men returned from service in South Africa, all of them with excellent testimonials from their employers There were 302 on the rolls of the Mayo School of Art, Lahore The Punjab Room, designed as well as executed by the school for the Delhi Art Exhibition, was a handsome piece of work reflecting credit on the school. The numbers in the Railway Technical School fell from 401 to 382. The Victoria Diamond Jubilee Hindu Technical Institute continued to do useful work, as also the Clerical and Commercial Classes attached to the Municipal Board High Schools at Rewári, Hoshiárpur and Amritsar and the Mission School at Ráwalpindi. The facilities for a suitable training in arts and handicrafts afforded to a large number of famine orphans constitute an exceedingly satisfactory feature of certain institutions under private management.

16. Female education continues to advance, but would make greater progress if a suitable number of trained teachers were available. The establishment of a training school now under consideration, where widows and others will be trained as teachers, will go a long way to meet this want. The revision of the curriculum of girls' schools, with special reference to the requirements of the country, and the preparations of more suitable reading books, both of which measures are in progress, are also calculated to impart an impetus to female education. The institution of a First Arts Class for girls at the Forman Christian College, Lahore, is an interesting experiment.

17. The total number of pupils in the Public Schools for Europeans increased from 2,451 to 2,538. The number of both Public and Private Schools was 41 with 2,631 pupils against 43 schools with 2,573 pupils last year. The pass percentages in the Middle and High School Examinations were satisfactory. A new and revised scheme of scholarships is shortly to come into force. Industrial and technical training is well looked after in the Lawrence Military Asylum at Sanáwar, the Mayo Industrial Orphanage at Simla, the Railway Night School, and the Cathedral Orphanages at Lahore.

18. A slight increase is reported in the number of Muhammadans receiving instruction.

19. There was a slight increase in the number of pupils in the Aitchison Chiefs' College. The staff of this institution will shortly be reorganised.

20. An increase of 47 is reported in the numbers of Private Schools, which comprise indigenous institutions of various kinds not conforming to the schemes of studies prescribed by the Education Department. These schools, however, serve a useful purpose in extending Primary education among the masses at a comparatively small cost. Five hundred and eighty-six schools were examined for grants against 544, and the amount of grants-in-aid earned by them was Rs. 34,448 against Rs. 32,784 in 1901-02.

21. Discipline and moral training in the schools and colleges of the Province continued to be fairly satisfactory. The increase in the number of trained and certificated teachers, the discipline maintained in boarding-houses, the practical interest taken by teachers and pupils in games and sports, and last, but not least, the religious instruction imparted in denominational schools, have all continued to exercise a good influence on the manners of the students and on their character and conduct. The increased attention paid to physical training in the schools and colleges constitutes a highly satisfactory feature of the educational work of the year. The boarding-houses attached to schools and colleges, the latter under the personal supervision of the Principal or a Professor, constitute a valuable complement to discipline and moral training.

22. The Punjab Text-Book Committee at Lahore and the Branch Committees at Peshâwar and Delhi continue to render valuable assistance to the cause of education. At the suggestion of the Director of Public Instruction arrangements were made by the Committee to send boxes containing books to Inspectors of Schools for circulation among the staffs of the schools at their circle head-quarters so as to afford them an opportunity of keeping up their reading. The experiment will be extended to other important educational centres in the Province. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to convey his best thanks to the members of the Text-Book Committee for their helpful labours; their co-operation is invaluable to the Educational Department.

23. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to acknowledge the able control exercised by the Director of Public Instruction over the Educational Department during the year, which has been an unusually arduous one and on the results of which Mr. Bell may well be congratulated. His Honour's acknowledgments are also due to the Teaching and Inspecting Staffs of the Province for their co-operation.

ORDER.—Ordered that the above Remarks be printed and circulated with the Report; also that they be published in the Punjab Government Gazette and be forwarded to the Director of Public Instruction, Punjab, for information; and that they be forwarded to the Government of India, Home Department, with the usual number of copies of the report.

REVIEW OF THE ANNUAL MUNICIPAL REPORT FOR 1902-03.

Proceedings of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab in the Boards and Committees (Committees) Department, No. 591, dated 17th December 1903.

READ—

The Annual Municipal Report for 1902-03.

REMARKS—

PART I.—CONSTITUTION OF COMMITTEES.

1. Establishment and abolition of Municipalities and Notified Areas.—No new Municipalities were established and none of the existing ones abolished during the year under report. The town of Budhlada in the Hissar District was constituted a Notified Area under Punjab Government Notification No. 45, dated 3rd February 1903. The existing Notified Areas remained as before.

2. Revision of boundaries.—The boundaries of the Municipalities of Pathankot and Gujranwala were altered during the year in order, in the one case, to include the outlying blocks of the town on sanitary grounds, and, in the other, to include the newly-populated tracts round that town. The boundary of the Notified Area of Sangla in the Gujranwala District was also revised so as to include the whole of the town and the buildings south of the railway line there. There were no changes in the other Divisions.

3. Changes in the system of appointing members.—A change in the system of appointing members occurred in the Lahore Municipality, where Rule III of the Rules for the appointment of members was so amended as to reduce from 6 to 4 the number of members to be obligatorily selected from the Rais class residing and possessing property in Lahore, and to thus enable the European community to be more equitably represented on the Committee. The number of members of three of the minor Municipalities of the Lahore District was reduced during the year—at Sharakpur from 12 to 6 and at Khem Karn and Khudian from 9 to 6. This course was deemed desirable owing to the dearth of qualified men to fill the position of members of the Committee. In Simla the office of paid President was abolished on the expiry of the term of office of Mr. P. Donaldson, and the Deputy Commissioner of Simla was appointed by Government an ex-officio member and President of the Committee.

4. Election and appointments to the memberships of Committees.—There were 287 vacancies during the year amongst elected members, of which 90 only were contested, and the percentage of voters polling averaged about 60 per cent. In Delhi, Simla, Lahore and Amritsar the vacancies were filled without a contest, and, except in five or six minor Municipalities, the contests that did take place occasioned but little interest.

5. Meetings of Committees and attendance at meetings.—The more important Municipal Committees met much more frequently than they are required to do by rule, and the attendance was good. Delhi and Simla held 54 meetings each, Amritsar 33, and Lahore 26. Many of the minor Municipalities held less than the prescribed number of meetings, but in most cases this was due to the absence of any business for transaction. The Zira Municipal Committee was again conspicuous for its apathy, 5 meetings having to be postponed for want of a quorum.

6. Sub-Committees.—Sub-Committees exist in almost all the important Municipalities and are reported to have done good work and to have relieved the General Committees of a good deal of routine work. The system of appointing Sub-Committees may now be regarded as part of the ordinary Municipal administration. The system, however, requires watching, and the Commissioner of the Lahore Division remarks that he has often noticed that it would be much more satisfactory to have cases referred direct to the General Committee than to Sub-Committees, which either go too far or do nothing.

7. Irregular proceedings of Committees and proceedings overruled.—Very few cases occurred during the year which called for intervention on the part of the controlling authorities with the proceedings of Municipal Committees. In no case were the proceedings of any of the Municipal Committees in the Delhi Division overruled either by the Deputy Commissioner, Commissioner, or Government except in Rewari in the Gurgaon District, where, in a case of evasion of octroi duty, the Municipal Committee passed a resolution proposing to recover four times the amount of octroi properly leviable. The resolution was overruled by the Deputy Commissioner as the Committee had no power under Section 187 of the Municipal Act to compound offences, and the Committee was directed to prosecute the man criminally under the Indian Penal Code. The Deputy Commissioner also set aside another resolution of this Committee in which it proposed to grant an allowance of Rs. 10 per mensem to the Assistant Surgeon, Rewari, for medical attendance on the High School boarders. The allowance was disallowed, as the Civil Surgeon did not support the proposal. In the Karnal and Ambala Districts some resolutions passed by Committees were at the suggestion of the Deputy Commissioners reconsidered, amended or cancelled by the Committees, and the Deputy Commissioners' suggestions were in all cases promptly complied with. In the Jullundur and Lahore Divisions no cases occurred which called for interference. In the Rawalpindi and Mooltan Divisions a few decisions affecting matters of a trivial nature were set aside by the Commissioner.

8. Rules and bye-laws framed by the Government or by Committees, and the working of the same.—In Delhi bye-laws were framed to regulate the assessment and collection of the house tax recently imposed there. In Simla the two Vice-Presidents and the Secretary to the Committee were empowered ex officio and individually to compound offences against the Municipal Act. Bye-laws were framed by the Lahore Municipality for controlling the discharge of fireworks within Municipal limits, for registration of births and deaths, and for regulating the construction of tharras and projections. In Amritsar bye-laws were made for regulating the use of dhobi ghâts, for the working of a bonded-warehouse, and for the refund of octroi. Building bye-laws were also made, and the rules under the Hackney Carriage Act were amended. In Dalhousie bye-laws were framed for the control of butchers' shops, while the bye-law for the levy of the bazar frontage tax was amended.

9. General working of the Committees —As a rule the working of Municipal Committees, especially the larger ones, has met with the approval of the local officers. The appointment of the Deputy Commissioner of Simla as an ex-officio member and President of the Committee, as well as the appointment of an Engineer Secretary, have had a very distinct effect in improving the administration of Municipal affairs. At the close of the year Rai Sahib Lala Murli Dhar, the well-known public spirited and popular Vice-President of the Ambala Committee, resigned his seat owing to his advancing years. He had been Vice-President for a number of years, and the Lieutenant-Governor desires to acknowledge the valuable service he rendered to the Municipality. The Rewari Municipal Committee is not well reported on, and the conduct of the members of this Committee on the outbreak of plague is noticed below. The special arrangements necessary in connection with the Coronation Darbar involved a considerable strain on the energies and resources of the Municipal Committee of Delhi, and the Lieutenant-Governor takes this opportunity of acknowledging the valuable services rendered by the members in carrying out these arrangements.

PART II.—TAXATION.

10. Imposition of new and withdrawal of old taxes.—A tax on thelas (carts) proposed by the Sirsa Municipality received the sanction of Government during the year. The rates of the house tax in the Fatahabad Notified Area were increased with effect from 1st October 1902. A proposal to impose a tax on vehicles within the limits of the Ambala Municipality, in order to cover a loan for the intra-mural sewage scheme, was submitted to Government for sanction, but the proposal was subsequently abandoned. A water tax at 2 per cent. on the assessed annual value of houses in Kasumpti came into force from 1st January 1903.

11. Income derived from taxation.—The total revenue derived from taxation in Municipalities and Notified Areas was Rs. 32,89,000 as against Rs. 34,65,000, showing a decrease of Rs. 1,76,000. The receipts from octroi decreased by over 2½ lakhs, but there was an increase of Rs. 80,000 from other taxation, mainly in the Delhi Municipality as a result of the new house tax.

(a) Income derived from octroi.—The decrease in octroi receipts was shared by all Divisions as follows :—

	Rs.
Delhi	47,000
Jullundur	42,000
Lahore	1,33,000
Rawalpindi	18,000
Mooltan	15,000

Last year the receipts were above the average, owing to the excellent rabi harvest, while in the year under review the harvests were poor and largely account for the decrease in income. Special causes, such as plague, also affected receipts, notably in the case of the Amritsar Municipality, where receipts fell by half a lakh, due almost exclusively to the depression and disorganization of trade in consequence of the prevalence of plague in and about the town.

In the Delhi and Simla Municipalities large increases were recorded. In the former Municipality the main items of increase are under the heads Refined Sugar, Ghi and Building Materials, all of which were imported in larger quantities than usual on account of the Coronation Darbar. The increase in Simla is reported by the Deputy Commissioner to be mainly due to the introduction of the new octroi schedule, but the Commissioner would add as another cause the greater efficiency in collections consequent on the change of régime in Municipal government.

As explained last year, the general orders issued by the Government of India necessitated the examination of existing octroi schedules with reference to the rates in force, but action in this direction has now been postponed in consequence of the receipt of a further communication intimating that the Government of India is prepared to allow higher rates than those at first suggested.

(b) Income from taxation other than octroi.—The figures for the past year show increases on those of the previous year of Rs. 80,000 as above stated. The house tax in Delhi, which is the chief cause of this increase, is said to be unpopular and difficult to work. Direct taxation in the Simla Municipality worked smoothly. In Ambala coercive measures have constantly to be resorted to for the recovery of the water tax.

12. Incidence of taxation.—In the year under report the average incidence of all taxation was Re. 1-7-0 against Re. 1-8-5 in the previous year. The incidence of octroi, Class I (Grain) only, was Re. 0-12-1 against Re. 0-13-5 in 1901-02. The decrease is due to causes already explained.

The average incidence of total octroi was Re. 1-4-6 against Re. 1-6-1. The average was exceeded in 15 of the larger towns and in the minor Municipalities of the Muzaffargarh District. It is worthy of note that the incidence of total taxation in the three largest cities, Lahore, Delhi and Amritsar, is practically the same, being slightly over Rs. 2 per head. As usual the incidence of taxation is highest in the Hill Municipalities, but the standard of taxation at these hill stations must necessarily be higher than elsewhere.

13. Working of octroi tax.—The working of the octroi tax is again satisfactorily reported on.

14. Cost of collection.—With the general decrease in Municipal incomes during the year it is only natural to find a general rise in the percentage of cost of collection on income. The establishment required for collection of taxes is more or less of a fixed nature and must be maintained whether income is high or low. The cost of collection in some towns varies considerably from those of others; the cost depends so much on local conditions, such as, e. g., in the case of octroi, the number of entrances to a town that have to be guarded, that it is unsafe to make comparisons in the matter. For obvious reasons the percentage of cost in the larger Municipalities is as a rule lower than in the smaller ones. In Delhi, Lahore and Amritsar the percentages are respectively 4·57, 5·14 and 6·96. The Commissioner of Lahore thinks that the Amritsar Municipal Committee might with advantage look into the question of the comparatively higher cost there. Mr. Anderson observes—

"In Octroi Establishment, as in Education and Medical Establishments, the tendency is constantly to increase. It is very difficult to resist the pressure that is brought to increase the salary of an old servant. It would probably help Committees and also Deputy Commissioners if there was a rule that no salaries should be increased without the sanction of higher authority."

This proposal should be separately referred for orders.

15. Refunds of octroi.—In the Delhi Division the refund system seems to be worked satisfactorily on the whole, though in certain cases delays are reported to have taken place in the disposal of applications for refund. In the Jullundur Division the Ferozepore Committee is reported to have been again conspicuously backward in the matter. In mitigation of the small amount refunded it is urged that many heavy claims for refund have disappeared as a result of declaring the premises of the leading European exporters to be "Bonded Warehouses," but the Commissioner is not satisfied that the Committee is giving anything like a fair proportion of refunds on its receipt from octroi. In Amritsar the refunds granted amounted to Rs. 58,000, or 16 per cent. of the gross income, which is a considerably higher figure than elsewhere. In Gujranwala it is said that refunds due could not be paid for want of funds, and the serious charge is made against this Committee that its accounts have not been properly kept, fictitious balances being shown when in reality the Committee owed large sums for octroi refunds. It will be seen from the extract from the letter quoted below that the general question of refunds and bonded warehouse arrangements will shortly come under consideration.

16. Bonded warehouses.—Except in the case of a few of the larger Municipalities bonded warehouses are little resorted to, and, as a rule, where refund rules are liberally worked there is little need for them.

17. Comparison of actual taxation of dutiable articles with the standard of taxable consumption sanctioned by Government.—This question has engaged the attention of Government during the year, and the following extract from a letter No. 510, dated 29th October 1903, to the Government of India in the Home Department, written in connection with the remarks made in the Review for 1900-01 as to the apparent over-taxation in certain towns of the Delhi, Jullundur and Lahore Divisions is reproduced for information:—

"* * * From a comparison of the actual figures of taxation with the maximum taxable quantities as based on the standards of average consumption and the figures of the last census, as well as from a perusal of the reports received from the local officers on the subject, the Lieutenant-Governor has come to the conclusion that over-taxation did take place in certain towns in the Divisions for 1900-01, though not indeed to the extent that might be inferred from the remarks in the review. Indeed, it seems to have been overlooked, in making these remarks, that a comparison between the actuals and standard figures is not in itself a very reliable index as to whether any undue taxation has taken place or not. I am in this connection to invite attention to the remarks made in paragraph 18 of the last year's Review of the Municipal Administration in the Punjab for 1901-02, and to point out that, in addition to the considerations there mentioned, allowance must also be made for the cases in which no refund of octroi is claimable on exports because of the period of limitation for such claims fixed under Section 143 (2) of the Punjab Municipal Act having expired, or because of the claim being barred owing to its being less than one rupee. Many officers have also expressed the opinion that the standards of consumption fixed by this Government,—vide Punjab Government Resolution No. 409½, dated 11th November 1885, of which a copy was forwarded to the Government of India with Mr. Thomson's letter No. 526, dated 22nd December 1885,—and which can, at best, be but an approximation, require revision having regard to the marked rise in the standard of comfort of recent years. The comparison is not, however, without its value, as where there is any marked excess of actuals over standard figures, assuming that the latter are fairly accurate, it suggests for consideration whether in the case of Class A Municipalities the system of refunds in force or the bonded warehouse arrangements call for improvement, or, in the case of Class B Municipalities, whether it would not be desirable to transfer the Municipality to Class A or to eliminate from its schedule the article or articles in respect of which excess of taxation is, on enquiry, found to exist. To this extent the comparison has been of use in the cases now under consideration; but, as steps will be at once taken to remedy the defects that have been brought to light in these cases, and similar defects if they are found to exist elsewhere, it seems unnecessary to enter into any discussion as to the actual extent to which over-taxation may have taken place in the past in the towns referred to at the commencement of this paragraph. Revised octroi schedules are now in course of preparation for most of the Municipalities of the Province with reference to the orders contained in the Government of India (Home Department) letters Nos. 67 and 75, dated respectively the 11th and 19th April 1902, but before submitting them Deputy Commissioners and Commissioners will be directed to consider and report whether, and if so, to what extent, the standards of average consumption fixed by the Resolution of the 11th November 1885 above quoted require revision, and the Lieutenant-Governor will then be ready to sanction any alterations in these standards that may appear necessary. When this point has been disposed of, the above officers will be directed, in submitting the revised octroi schedules and tables of maxima taxable consumption, to specially report in each case on the adequacy of the refund system and bond arrangements in the case of Class A Municipalities and to suggest improvements where they seem called for; and, in the case of Class B Municipalities, to consider whether any article or articles are included in the schedule in respect of which there are good grounds for believing that through-trade is being taxed to an appreciable extent, and to advise whether such articles should be excluded from the schedule or whether the Municipality should be transferred to Class A. A special report on the same lines will also be called for in regard to those Municipalities for which revised schedules have already been sanctioned and for those, if any, in which no revision is called for, i.e., those in which the Government of India orders just cited are already complied with. The attention of Commissioners and Deputy Commissioners will also be invited to the views expressed in Mr. Fenton's letter No. 551, dated 10th November 1897, to your address, on the subject of granting refunds of octroi on articles entering a Municipality in one shape and leaving it in another, and these officers will be directed to bring to notice any cases in which relief in the direction there indicated is called for. The Lieutenant-Governor hopes that material improvement in the working of the octroi system will result from these measures. His Honour is well aware of the importance attached by the Government of India to the protection of through-trade, and the matter is one that will continue to receive his constant attention."

The Lieutenant-Governor has little doubt the standard of comfort in Municipalities has risen considerably of recent years, and that the standards of consumption fixed in Punjab Government Notification No. 409½, dated 11th November 1885, on which the tables of maximum consumption are based, are now out of date. In accordance with the intimation conveyed to the Government of India Commissioners have now been called upon to submit proposals for their revision, and when the revised tables have been sanctioned Commissioners will be directed to take action as indicated in the extract above quoted.

PART III.—ACCOUNTS.

18. Audit.—As stated in paragraph 20 of the Review for the year 1901-02, the system of central audit introduced from April 1900 was found to be inadequate, and proposals for the substitution of a peripatetic audit on the lines of the system in force in the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh have recently been submitted to the Government of India.

19. Balances.—The balances of the several Municipalities and Notified Areas at the beginning of the year 1902-03 aggregated Rs. 16,12,000, viz., Rs. 14,29,000 in cash and Rs. 1,83,000 in investments; at the end of the year they aggregated Rs. 17,98,000, viz, Rs. 14,83,000 and Rs. 3,15,000, showing an increase of Rs. 54,000 and Rs. 1,32,000 respectively. The increase in cash balance calls for no comment, and that in invested balance is on account of fresh investments amounting to Rs. 1,77,000 as detailed in the margin counterbalanced by sale of securities of the value of Rs. 45,000 by the Municipal Committees of Hissar (Rs. 10,000) and Simla (Rs. 35,000). Of the investments made by the Delhi Municipality, Rs. 1,50,000 are set aside for an electric light fund in case the company that now holds the contract for electric lighting wish at any time to give it up, and the remaining Rs. 18,000 for a Primary School building. The latter sum is, however, not a new investment. It was originally invested in 1894-95 for the same object and was withdrawn for expenditure in 1900-01, but as the site selected did not meet with approval the money was re-invested pending the selection of a more suitable site. The investment made by the Murree Municipality was obligatory as it represents the sale of nazul land, but in the case of the Pindigheb Municipality and the Attock Notified Area the investments were optional, being surplus to the working balance. The balances of some of the Municipalities fell below the minimum prescribed by Government, but none of the Municipalities and Notified Areas overdrew its balance during the year. Steps should be taken by the Committees concerned to bring their balances up to the prescribed limit during the current year. On the other hand, there are some Municipalities whose balances are largely in excess of the prescribed minimum and of outstanding liabilities. In such cases Commissioners should impress on the Committees concerned the advisability of investing such surpluses as are not required for immediate expenditure. It is satisfactory to note that there were no embezzlements of Municipal Funds during the year.

20. Debt Head.—The only noticeable transactions under this head relate to loans. The balance of loans to Municipalities outstanding on the 31st March 1903 is more than the previous year by Rs. 4,36,000. This represents the difference between loans aggregating Rs. 6,13,000 taken up during the year by the Municipal Committees of Delhi (Rs. 10,000), Ambala (Rs. 33,000), Simla (Rs. 54,000), Lahore (Rs. 3,00,000) and Amritsar (Rs. 2,16,000) for water, drainage and other works in progress in those Municipalities and a total of Rs. 1,77,000 repaid by Delhi (Rs. 25,000), Ambala (Rs. 1,000), Simla (Rs. 74,000), Hoshiarpur (Rs. 1,000), Ludhiana (Rs. 3,000), Lahore (Rs. 55,000), Dalhousie (Rs. 2,000), Murree (Rs. 2,000) and Dera Ghazi Khan (Rs. 14,000) in respect of loans taken up in previous years. The amount of loan remaining due at the end of the year by each indebted Municipality is shown in Statement III. The purposes for which the several sums were borrowed have been given in previous reviews. The outstandings in Simla and Lahore include Rs. 2,300 and Rs. 4,28,000 on loans raised on debenture and from the Bank of Bengal respectively. The rest of the loans were taken from Government. The statement on the margin shows that the financial condition of each indebted Municipality on 31st March 1903 was satisfactory. With the exception of the Hoshiarpur and Ludhiana Municipalities, the closing cash balance in every case was in excess of the prescribed minimum.

21. Revenue and Expenditure.—The total income and expenditure of the Municipalities and Notified Areas exclusive of Debt Head Transactions amounted to Rs. 49,39,000 and Rs. 51,92,000 against Rs. 47,65,000 and Rs. 44,98,000 respectively in the preceding year. The causes of variations under the main heads are alluded to in the following paragraphs.

22. Municipal Rates and Taxes.—The income from taxation as compared with that of the previous year shows a decrease of Rs. 1,76,000 due to the causes explained in Part II of this Review.

23. Realizations under Special Acts.—The total realizations amounted to Rs. 49,000 against Rs. 35,000 in the previous year. The major portion of the receipts were collected under the provisions of the Cattle Trespass Act and the Hackney Carriages Act. The increased income was chiefly contributed by the Delhi Municipality owing to the large number of licenses for carriages during the Coronation Darbar and also to an enhanced license fee having been fixed during that period.

24. Revenue derived from Municipal property and powers apart from taxation.—The total income under this head amounted to Rs. 9,25,000 against Rs. 6,57,000, showing an increase of Rs. 2,68,000. The increased income was derived mainly from the Sale proceeds of land and produce of land (Rs. 2,36,000) by larger sales of properties in the towns of Delhi, Amritsar, Sangla, Lyallpur, Jalalpur, Lahore and Kalabagh. The sale to the East Indian Railway Company in Delhi Municipality of one property alone called "More Serai" realized Rs. 1,65,000. The remaining increase occurred under the following sub-heads partly counterbalanced under others :—

(1) Rents of lands and houses, &c.—The increase of Rs. 21,000 under this head is due to better receipts in several towns, chiefly in Lahore (Rs 5,000), Lyallpur (Rs. 3,000), and Sangla (Rs. 2,000), and also on account of recovery in advance by the Simla Municipality of a rent of Rs. 5,000 due for the first quarter of 1903-04.

(2) Conservancy receipts amounted to Rs. 1,70,000 against Rs. 1,58,000 in the preceding year. The increase is due to better receipts in the Sialkot town, where the income more than doubled itself as a result of larger demands for manure and refuse for baking bricks.

(3) Fees and revenue from markets and slaughter-houses rose from Rs. 57,000 to Rs. 68,000 during the year under report. This improvement is due to larger income in Delhi on account of the greater demand for land in front of shops during the Coronation Darbar and to the rents of stalls, &c., in Simla for the 1st quarter of 1903-04 having been recovered by the Municipality in advance.

(4) Receipts from Educational Institutions amounted to Rs. 2,18,000 against Rs. 2,16,000 in the previous year, which, added to the grants received from Government, Local Funds and other sources for Educational purposes, aggregated Rs. 3,63,000 as compared with Rs. 3,67,000 in 1901-02.

(5) Medical receipts fell from Rs. 25,000 to Rs. 11,000. This decrease is due mainly to the fall of Rs. 13,000 in the income of the Ripon Hospital, Simla, on account of the opening of the "Walker Hospital" and the transfer to that institution of the European paying-patients. On the other hand, there was an increase of Rs. 9,000 on the previous year's receipts from grants and contributions from Government, Local Funds and private persons for Medical purposes which reduced the net decrease under this head to Rs. 5,000 only.

The income from other sources, viz., Other Fees, Fines under Municipal and other Acts and Interest on investments, &c., amounted to Rs. 41,000, which about equals the realizations in the preceding year.

25. Grants and Contributions.— Out of a total grant under this head of Rs. 2,82,000 those for Educational and Medical purposes have been accounted for in the preceding paragraphs. The grants for general purposes which now remain to be dealt with amounted to Rs. 46,000, Rs. 36,000, or about four-fifths, of which were contributed by Government, against Rs. 27,000 in the previous year. This increase represents Government aid towards the purchase of appliances for the Fire Brigade at Simla and for the construction of new Police Stations at Mozang and Naulakha in Lahore.

26. Miscellaneous.— The total receipts under this head amounted to Rs. 3,94,000 against Rs. 3,38,000 in the previous year. The recoveries on account of services rendered to private individuals do not much vary from those in the preceding year. The income from nazul properties rose from Rs. 47,000 to Rs. 73,000 during the year under report on account of new leases during the Coronation Darbar at Delhi and increased rents realized on that occasion. The income (subscription and other receipts) of the Leper Asylum at Tarn Taran amounted to Rs. 6,500 against Rs. 7,800 in the preceding year, the decrease being due to a reduction in the number of inmates. From Sales of water the receipts were Rs. 15,000 better than those of the previous year and were derived chiefly in Delhi (Rs. 10,000) due again to the Coronation Darbar. The income from cattle, horse and other fairs showed an improvement of Rs. 6,000, which represents the net income of the Thanesar Sun Eclipse Fair. The remainder of the Miscellaneous income includes Rs. 26,000 on account of refunds of amounts drawn but not expended, and which unduly exaggerate the transactions on both sides of the account. This matter was also noticed in paragraph 24 of the previous year's Review. Commissioners should impress on the Municipal Committees the necessity of limiting their drawings to actual requirements.

27. The total expenditure incurred from Municipal Funds during the year under review amounted to Rs. 51,92,000 against Rs. 44,98,000 in 1901-02 as stated in paragraph 21 ante. The causes of the variations are explained below under the heads concerned.

28. General Administration and Collection Charges.—The expenditure under this head amounted to Rs. 6,93,000 against Rs. 7,35,000 in the previous year. It includes the cost of collecting, and refunds of, taxes which have already been dealt with in Part II of this Review.

29. Public Safety.—There was an increase of Rs. 58,000 in the expenditure on this account as compared with the preceding year, the outlay on (1) Fire Establishment, (2) Lighting, and (3) Police, respectively, being Rs. 5,000, Rs. 21,000, and Rs. 32,000 higher, chiefly due (1) to the purchase of appliances for the Fire Brigade in Simla and of a fire engine in Batala, (2) to the increase of kerosine oil lamps during the Coronation Darbar and the installation of electric lighting in Delhi, and (3) to the construction of a house for the City Superintendent of Police, Delhi, and of new Police Stations in Lahore, Mooltan and Jalalpur, and to an increase in the strength of the Police establishment in Lahore.

30. Public Health and Convenience.—The expenditure charged to this head amounted to Rs. 27,36,000 against Rs. 21,05,000 in the preceding year. The increase of Rs. 6,31,000 falls chiefly under (1) Water-supply (Rs. 3,29,000), (2) Drainage (Rs. 1,19,000), (3) Hospitals and Dispensaries (Rs. 1,10,000), (4) Public Works (Rs. 91,000), (5) Markets and Slaughter-houses (Rs. 16,000), and (6) Arboriculture (Rs. 10,000), partly counterbalanced by a decrease of Rs. 46,000 under the sub-head "Conservancy." The excess under water-supply is due to the construction of water-works at Amritsar and Lyallpur and to the improvements of water-supply in Lahore, and that under drainage is on account of large outlay on drains in Lyallpur, Delhi, Ambala and Chunian. The increased expenditure under Hospitals, &c., is mainly due to heavy plague charges incurred in plague-infected towns, to the construction of the new Victoria Jubilee

Hospital at Amritsar, and to improvements to certain Dispensary buildings. The main portion of the increased expenditure on Public Works was incurred by the Delhi Municipality on account of the appointment of a Municipal Engineer, repairs to the Town Hall and reflooring it with marble, repairs to the Municipal Workshop, the building of new godowns, and also to extensive repairs to roads consequent on the Coronation Darbar. In the cases of "Markets and Slaughter-houses" and "Gardens" Delhi also took the lead, having spent a large amount on roofing part of the slaughter-house and on improvements to the fountains in the Queen's Gardens and to repairs to the pavilion in the Roshanara Garden.

31. Public Instruction.—The total expenditure on this account from Municipal Funds during the year 1902-03 was Rs. 5,95,000 against Rs. 5,80,000, or Rs. 15,000 more than in the previous year. The increase is due partly to the construction of boarding-houses at Rewari and partly to petty repairs to, and the purchase of furniture for, certain school buildings, as also to increases in the school establishments.

The total number of scholars on the rolls of the Secondary Schools managed by Municipal Committees on the 31st March 1903 was 21,807, or 520 less than in the previous year. The number at the Secondary stage of instruction has risen from 7,586 to 7,607, or by 21, and that at the Primary stage has diminished from 14,741 to 14,200, or by 541, the school attendance having been affected in schools situated in plague-infected areas.

32. Contributions.—The expenditure amounted to Rs. 1,27,000 against Rs. 1,36,000 in the year 1901-02. The decrease is mainly due to the postponement of the payment by certain Municipal Committees of the contribution in respect of certain localized provincial properties, as the proposals for the revision of contributions payable for the quinquennial period commencing with 1902-03 were then under consideration.

33. Miscellaneous.—The expenditure charged under this head amounted to Rs. 3,25,000 against Rs. 2,84,000 in the previous year. The difference is chiefly due to the payment of more interest consequent on an increase in the loans raised, and to certain special expenditure incurred during the year under review in connection with the Coronation celebrations.

PART IV.—GENERAL.

34. Plague was again very prevalent in many of the Municipalities of the Delhi, Jullundur and Lahore Divisions, but the disease only appeared in two Municipalities of the Rawalpindi Division and in three in the Mooltan Division. In Rewari the outbreak was very severe and there was considerable opposition to any measures being taken to check the disease. It created a panic, which resulted in five-sixths of the population leaving the town and spreading over the country, in many cases carrying the infection with them to parts that had before escaped. The members of the Committee as a rule behaved very badly, but the Tahsildar who had to be removed set them a bad example in this respect. In the Ambala District the epidemic was much less virulent than in the preceding year except in Buriya; the attitude of the people was reasonable, and the conduct of the members of the Committee, with a few exceptions, satisfactory. In addition to inoculation, dessication of houses was also resorted to, and was appreciated by the people to a certain extent in the towns of Ambala and Jagadhri. In the Jullundur District members of Municipal Committees rendered practically no assistance in the plague inoculation campaign. To the Khatris, Banias, Mahajans and similar classes, inoculation was anathema. In Fazilka, where there was a severe outbreak, the well-to-do inhabitants are reported to have immediately fled; the poorer classes only remaining, amongst whom the mortality is shown to have been great. The Deputy Commissioner observes that had the members encamped outside the town, much would have been done to stay the general panic and induce the people to accept plague measures.

With the exception of plague, no other serious epidemic appeared anywhere, and the health of the Municipal towns was generally good.

35. The survey portion of the Hansi Drainage Scheme has been completed, and the matter is now pending with the Sanitary Engineer, Punjab. The extra-mural portion of the Ambala City Drainage Scheme has also been completed. Estimates for the intra-mural portion of the scheme prepared by the Sanitary Engineer and amounting to Rs. 58,000 odd have been received, and the Municipal Committee is endeavouring to finance a portion of the cost, leaving the remainder to be met out of current expenditure or as funds may become available. A proposal for starting a sewage farm owned and managed by the Municipal Committee in order to utilize the sullage water to the best advantage, which was under the consideration of the Committee on the recommendation of the Sanitary Board, Punjab, has been dropped for the present for want of funds. The question of the Delhi Municipality raising a loan of Rs. 5,46,000 in the local market for the completion of the Delhi Intra-mura Drainage is still under the consideration of the Committee. In the meantime steady progress is being made in the execution of the project, the cost being met out of current revenue. The schemes for the drainage of Gujrat and Rawalpindi towns are still under consideration. A scheme for the drainage of Hazro town is also said to be under preparation.

36. The Delhi Water-Works are now completed, and the city is adequately supplied with pure water, but when the extensions of mains are made to the suburbs it will probably be necessary to increase the pumping plant at the head-works. The matter of improving the present water-supply in Simla is at present engaging the attention of the Local Government. In Ambala the water-supply was very much diminished owing to the low yield of water at the head-works, so much so that the supply to the North-Western Railway had to be cut off, the Railway bringing their supply of water daily in tank trucks from Rajpura. It is proposed to increase the supply by the construction of four additional wells. The necessity of the work is due principally to demands other than those of the town. The water-supply at Kalka entirely failed last year, and improvements are being carried out by the Kalka-Simla Railway Company. It is expected that the new project will be in working order in October next. The construction of the Amritsar Water-Works has made considerable progress during the year, and a new hospital is also in course of erection.

37. There were 11 actual cases of fire at Simla, or 4 more than in the previous year, resulting in serious damages in 2 cases only, the greatest being on the occasion of the fire which occurred on the 10th July 1902, when the Commercial Buildings and Northbrook Terrace occupied principally by European firms were almost entirely destroyed. The total loss by fire during the year at Simla is estimated at about 6 lakhs. The Fire Brigade was requisitioned in all these cases and did good work. A severe fire broke out in the town of Pind Dadan Khan, which reduced some 80 houses to ashes. Two fires—one at Hissar and the other at Bhiwani—occurred during the year, both in connection with cotton factories. The latter fire was a serious one, several women having lost their lives in it and formed the subject of a special report to Government. A fire broke out in the mohalla of sweepers at Hidayatpur Chhaoni Notified Area in the Gurgaon District. Fortunately there was no loss of life.

38. The importance of the city of Delhi as a railway centre is steadily on the increase, and the Agra-Delhi Chord Railway construction is being vigorously pushed on. The installation of electric lighting and the opening of the "Clarke Road" through the Queen's Gardens were amongst the more important events with which the Committee was concerned during the year.

ORDER.—Ordered that copies of the foregoing Remarks be forwarded to all Commissioners and Deputy Commissioners in the Punjab, the Secretary to Government, Punjab, Public Works Department, and be submitted to the Government of India in the Home Department.

Also that the Remarks and a translation of them be published in the Punjab Government Gazette, English and Urdu versions respectively, and that copies of the Urdu translation be supplied to Deputy Commissioners for the information of Municipal Committees.

By order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor,

GENERAL.

REVIEW OF THE PROGRESS REPORT ON THE FOREST ADMINISTRATION OF THE PUNJAB FOR THE YEAR 1902-03.

Proceedings of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab in the Forest Department, No. 572, dated 18th December 1903.

READ—

The Progress Report on the Forest Administration of the Punjab for the year 1902-03, submitted by the Conservator of Forests with his letter No. 1949, dated 5th September 1903.

REMARKS.—Apart from alterations due to correction of areas as the result of more accurate surveys, the only important changes during the year affecting the areas on the books of the Forest Department were (a) the surrender for colonisation purposes of 37,000 acres of reserved forests, the disforestation of which will shortly be notified, and of 162,000 acres of unclassed forests in the Shahpur District, (b) the transfer of 15,600 acres unclassed forest to, and the taking over of 47,000 acres from, the Civil Department in Jhelum, and (c) the formal taking over of the Jagir forests of the Kangra District which have been always under the management of the Divisional Forest Officer. Orders were passed during the year on the proposals made by the Land Revenue Settlement Officer for the revision of the boundaries of certain reserved forests in the Jhelum District, and further reasonable concessions and privileges were granted to the people. The settlements of the Chhota and Bara Bangahal and the Shahpur-Kandi Forests have been dealt with since the close of the year. The report on the settlement of the Jagir Forests of Kangra has been returned for further examination, and will, it is hoped, be shortly disposed of.

2. Fellings prescribed by the working plans have been generally worked up to, but in the pine forests of the Rawalpindi Division there are considerable balances of improvement fellings. There are also considerable outstanding balances of oak and fir trees of the Kalatop Forests in the Chamba Division, but efforts are being made to dispose of them. Operations in the Changa Manga Forests were to some extent hampered by plague, and coppice fellings are still in arrears there. Working plans will shortly be completed for all forests of importance in the Simla Hill States, and the Chiefs of the States have been given to understand that the prescriptions of these plans must be faithfully observed, otherwise the management of their forests will be taken over by the Forest Department. The forests of the Koti State have been put under the management of the Department as a result of unauthorised fellings by the State authorities.

No new working plans were sanctioned during the year, but good progress was made with the plans in course of preparation and in starting fresh plans where they seemed required. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to observe that the question of reserving the Municipal Forests of Dalhousie before a plan can be framed for them is engaging attention, the matter being one of increased importance in view of the possible transfer of the head-quarters of the Local Government to that station. No construction works of importance were taken in hand during the year ; the construction of bridle and inspection paths continues to receive attention.

3. The decrease in the number of forest offences, especially under the head "Injury by fire" is a satisfactory feature of the year's report. Cases of injury by fire are still high, but the figures are apt to fluctuate with the character of the season, and the past year was a somewhat unfavourable one for forest conservancy. A large number of cases were compounded, but sufficient discrimination appears to have been exercised in selecting court cases. A serious case in the Shahpur Division of forcible rescue of cattle seized for illicit grazing and which was accompanied with assault met with exemplary punishment.

4. The year was unfavourable for fire protection as noted above, and an area of 18,000 acres was burnt as compared with 12,200 last year, the increase being entirely in the areas classed as specially protected. The number of fires decreased from 270 to 200. The number of incendiary fires continues high in Kangra, and the recrudescence of such figures within the last five years in this district is to be regretted. No explanation as to its probable cause has been offered. In last year's report complaints were made of the delay that occurred in passing orders on proposals for the closure of certain protected forests as a penalty for firing under the provisions of the recent amendment of the Forest Act, but no such proposals appear to have been made as regards cases that occurred during the year under review. At any rate none have reached Government. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the powers conferred by this important amendment will not be lost sight of in dealing with cases of incendiary fires.

5. The area closed for grazing has risen from 18·09 to 19·09 of the total area available. Satisfactory arrangements were made during the year to provide grazing for the camels of the Silladar Corps in the Province. There was an increase in the number of animals impounded, mainly in the Lahore Division, where scarcity of fodder prevailed.

6. The year has not been a good one for natural reproduction, the success of which depends partly on climatic conditions and partly on the abundance fertility of the seed crop. It is satisfactory to note that measures for fostering and helping the young stock of deodar, the most important timber in the Punjab, are not neglected, and that the reproduction of the species in many places is so favourable that its future is well assured.

Deodar was sown and planted in all Hill Divisions, but failed in a large portion of the area, and elsewhere, owing largely to the drought, the experiments in artificial reproduction yielded poor results. Some success was attained with sissu plantation in Jhelum and with farash cuttings planted in one of the Changa Manga compartments.

The importance of thinnings in the Hill Forests is noticed in paragraph 30 of the report, and in the following paragraph the Conservator alludes to an interesting experiment about to be made to ascertain the degree of density in which crops of deodar, blue pine and chir can be expected to yield the most favourable results, and as to what is the true exploitable age of such crops. The success in experimental cultivations include the Spanish chestnut in Bashahr, the Pinus Pinaster and Pinus Laricio in Chamba and Rawalpindi and Eucalyptus in Changa Manga.

7. Some interesting details are again given in this year's report regarding the loss in the volume of timber which takes place between the forest and the river sale depôts. The loss of scantlings on the Chenab River is very heavy and is being investigated. It is also heavy on the Jhelum River, and the Conservator indicates the necessity for improved protection of the timber as it passes through Kashmir territory.

An important change was made during the year in the method of working the Upper Ravi Forests in Chamba, where the trees were sold standing to purchasers instead of being exploited departmentally as hitherto. This change will enable the Forest officers and officials to devote more time to the proper work of the Department, i.e., the protection and improvement of the forest. There was a large decrease in the outturn of timber and a large increase in that of fuel during the year as compared with 1901-02. The former occurred chiefly in the Bashahr Division in the case of produce removed by rightholders or under privileges; the latter is said to be nominal, being attributed to a more accurate estimate

The Resin industry in the Kangra Division formed the subject of a separate report to the Government of India during the year. It yielded a profit of Rs. 17,000 as compared with Rs. 12,400 last year. The further development of the industry depends largely on the success that may attend experiments now being made with the object of manufacturing colophony more suitable to the requirements of the lac and varnish trades than that hitherto produced.

8. The financial results of the year show a surplus of income over expenditure of Rs. 6,12,000, or Rs. 80,000 in excess of last year's figures, which were up to then the highest on record. The gross revenue showed an increase of Rs. 1,31,000 attributable chiefly to the large sales of Departmental fuel, while the increase in expenditure was due to the larger extraction of such fuel. The outstandings show a satisfactory decrease from Rs. 87,000 to Rs. 42,000, and of the latter sum Rs. 20,000 appears to be nominal. The extraordinary item of Rs. 1,61,000, referred to in paragraph 59 of the report, due to the Chamba State as its share of the profits of the leased forests for the years 1899-1900 to 1901-02 was, through an oversight, not paid during the year under report, and its payment is now being arranged for.

9. The Forest Administration of the Province during the year was under the control of Mr. Beadon Bryant, who has lately been transferred to a more important charge in another part of India, and the Lieutenant-Governor desires to acknowledge the marked success which attended his management of the Department. The thanks of Government are also due to the other officers of the Department for their work during the year. There is still considerable room for improvement in the subordinate service.

ORDER.—Ordered, that the above Remarks be printed and published as usual with the Report and in the Punjab Government Gazette; also that they be forwarded with the Report to the Government of India in the Department of Revenue and Agriculture and to the Conservator of Forests, Punjab, for information and guidance.

By order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor,
